Bevin Reassures U.S. On Korea

No U.K.-American Split On Policy, Foreign Secretary Makes Clear

BULLETIN

LONDON (BUP)—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin of Britain said today Chinese Communist intervention in Korea has plunged the world into such grave danger that the Big Three Western Powers have decided to consider asking Russia to meet with them to achieve peace.

LONDON (CP)—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin today assured the House of Commons that there was no split between Britain and the United States on policy in Korea.

Speaking as United Nations forces in Korea were falling back before a Chinese Communist offensive, he said that the U.S. government had reaffirmed that its aims in Korea were identical with the British.

Britain still hopes a settlement on "political lines" will end the threat of a third world war over Korea, he added.

Opening an important two-day debate on foreign affairs, he also emphasizes to the crowded chamber that the British government supported the strategy of Gen. MacArthur which is "no more and no less than the objective of the United Nations."

He said there had been "some misunderstanding" about MacArthur and the nature of instructions given to him.

Informed sources reported that Attlee and Bevin saw Holmes together and handed him a written questionnaire which called for specific answers on a number of questions relating to the Korean crisis.

The informants refused to disclose details of the British questionnaire.

Attlee and Bevin reportedly called for a quick reply—presumably so that they could be in a position to convey information to Parliament today.

British Say 'No Strings' To U.N. Force

TOKYO (Reuter)—A British official spokesman said today Commonwealth forces are operating in Korea "without any strings attached."

Correspondents had asked whether Commonwealth forces might be withdrawn in view of political complications resulting from the entry of the Chinese into the war.

Britain has recognized the Chinese Communist government.

The British 27th Brigade, shuttled from one danger point to another in the last critical 48 hours today was reported moving again to block the main north-south supply road to Sunchong.

A few hours earlier it had concentrated at Kunuri, 20 miles north of Sunchon. It has not been in contact with the Communists since the new battle began.

The British 29th Brigade is continuing its concentration south of Pyongyang.

Canada Scenes On TV In U.S.

OTTAWA (BUP)—Government tourist experts drafted plans today to film Canada's main attractions and peddle the films on United States television programs.

They hoped the TV shows would lure more Americans to Canada next year to spend their holidays and dollars.

The television scheme was a co-operative effort between provincial and federal travel agencies and promoters meeting here in a Dominion-provincial tourist conference. Delegates said it would be highlighted by pictures of fishing and hunting.

Frosty Ordeal

Mike Winters, 61, of Calgary, survived seven days in freezing temperatures without food or drink in the Rocky Mountain foothills west of Calgary. The bush worker was discovered 100 feet from the Banff Highway by a passing motorist.

Experts Will Testify In Bombing Trial

QUEBEC CITY (BUP) — Genereux-Ruest's murder trial headed today into an almost exact duplication of an earlier hearing in which J. Albert Guay was sentenced to death for plotting an airliner crash that killed 23 persons.

The Crown lined up a string of expert witnesses hoping to prove that clockwork mechanism which the 51-year-old crippled clockmaker admitted earlier that he made was included in a time-bomb which Guay sent aboard the plane which crashed at Sault au Cochon, Que., Sept. 9, 1949.

Crown prosecutor Noel Dorion had a dozen aviation experts and chemists on call today to testify that the Canadian Pacific Airlines DC-3 was in perfect condition before it crashed shortly after leaving Quebec airport and that an "outside agent" caused it to crash into a mountain killing all on board.

He said that Guay, whom he sent to a death cell for masterminding the plot to get rid of his wife, Rita, was the chief agent and charged that Ruest helped him by making part of the bomb and knew what he was doing.

Bank Hold-Up Nets $10,000

TORONTO (CP)—Three armed men held up a west-end branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce today and escaped with $10,000 in cash.

They escaped in a maroon-colored automobile which later was found abandoned a short distance away. Police said a second car, following the one used for the hold-up, is believed to have picked up the men.

Bank officials described the hold-up as a "smash-and-grab job." There was no shooting.

Buchenwald Mistress' Grim Party Is Told

By RICHARD K. O'MALLEY

AUGSBERG, Germany (AP)—Guests at a birthday party for Ilse Koch declared a lamp made of human skin and a human shinbone was the most successful gift of all, a witness at her trial testified today.

The red-haired widow of the former Buchenwald concentration camp commander is on trial before a German court, accused of instigating the murder of 45 inmates, the attempted murder of 135 others, and brutality.

She served four years of a commuted life sentence on a U.S. war crimes conviction. The Germans are trying her for crimes allegedly committed against German and Austrian nationals.

Joseph Ackermann, inmate-secretary to the camp's chief surgeon, Dr. Waldemar Hoven, told a three-judge German court of the birthday party and said he had been charged with seeing that the lamp was sent to the Koch household.

It was a complete shinbone and foot, he said, with a shade made of tattooed human skin.

A camp doctor who attended the party told him "it was the best present of all" and a great success, Ackermann said.

Later, Ackermann went on, Nazi authorities in Berlin heard of the story and ordered an investigation. He said prison physicians hurriedly recalled the lamp from the Koch household, removed the base, and declared it was only part of a medical exhibit used in studies of tattooed skin.

Ackermann said that Dr. Hoven, later executed for war crimes, also experimented with the heads of executed inmates after a German explorer had explained a head-shrinking process he had learned.

A-Bomb Kept In Reserve

By JOSEPH L. MYLER

WASHINGTON (UP)—Despite some congressional insistence, the U.S. high command is not considering atomic warfare against the Chinese Reds in Korea, high sources said today.

These sources predicted that Gen. MacArthur's United Nations troops will be able to stop the Chinese without recourse to A-bombs.

As long as there is hope of keeping the Korean conflict from exploding into a general conflagration, Pentagon sources indicated, the United States will keep its most devastating weapon in reserve.

In any case, the A-bomb would not be used in the present circumstances unless the United Nations gave the go-ahead. The U.S. might decline to do so even then, officials said.

President Truman is the only person anywhere who can say: "Drop the bomb."

The issue nevertheless is a lively one in Congress. Demands that the Chinese Communists be hit with A-bombs now come monthly from Republicans.

Senator Owen Brewster (R. Me.) asked: "Why in the name of heaven isn't Gen. MacArthur given authority to use the atomic bomb at his discretion?"

U.S. LIVING COSTS SOAR

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. government's cost-of-living index today rose to an all-time high.

The new index, covering prices as of Oct. 15, was 174.8 per cent of the 1935-39 base—100—an increase of 0.6 per cent since Sept. 15.

It was 0.2 per cent higher than the previous peak of 174.5 in August and September, 1948.

War News To Speed Congress

WASHINGTON (UP) — Congress read gloomy news from Korea today and showed a sudden eagerness to tackle parts of President Truman's program for the lame duck session.

The report of large-scale Chinese intervention in Korea induced a noticeable change among the lawmakers, who only 24 hours earlier had seemed disinterested in most of the program.

As one Senate Republican leader put it: "This will put steam behind anything connected with the war—appropriations, rent control and taxes."

Doug. MacArthur said the boys would be home for Christmas—but he didn't say which Christmas.

U.N. Showdown Nears On Korea

By TOM OCHILTREE

LAKE SUCCESS (AP) — The United States wants the United Nations' Security Council to put on record the "conscience of the people of the world," in a showdown today on American charges of Chinese Communist aggression in Korea.

Making such a record is about all a majority of the council can hope to accomplish in view of the expressed attitudes of Russia and Chinese Communist representatives. The Chinese Communists Tuesday made it plain they have no intention of withdrawing from Korea.

The chief U.S. delegate, Warren R. Austin, in his speech before the council Tuesday, foresaw a probable Russian veto of a six-power resolution demanding the Red soldiers of Mao Tze-tung get out of Korea.

Despite the prospect of such a negative result, Austin emphasized the need for speedy council action at a time when U.N. forces are being pushed back by heavy Chinese attacks on the blazing Korean war front.

A Soviet veto would clear the way for consideration by the General Assembly of the grave Korean problem. The veto does not apply in the 60-member assembly, which recently armed itself with broad powers to discover and combat aggression when the Security Council is paralyzed.

Austin first suggested the council meet through the night in an effort to reach a vote. He did not press the point, and the council adjourned until 3 p.m. E.S.T. (noon P.S.T.) today.

R.C.A.F. Loses In Fort Nelson Fire

FORT NELSON, B.C. (BUP)—Officials are checking the cause of a $10,000 fire which swept through the R.C.A.F. officers' mess at this northern B.C. town Tuesday.

The mess was unoccupied at the time of the blaze. The flames were put out in 90 minues by a fire crew of airmen.

The fire, of undetermined origin, broke out when maintenance men were renovating the officers' mess.

Allies Alerted For New Midnight Attack

U.S. 8th ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Thursday (Reuter)—United Nations troops, struggling to consolidate a new line in the Chongchon River area, were put on the alert at midnight against an expected Communist bid to sweep forward and storm the river line before dawn.

The Red forces were believed to be poised for an all-out frontal assault southward.

By TOM LAMBERT

WITH U.S. 8th ARMY, Korea (AP)—The United States 8th Army's withdrawal across the Chongchon River in northwest Korea was all but completed late today.

Nearly all the American troops who pushed off Friday on the now-reversed "end the war" offensive are safely across the icy river after having been hit by more than 200,000 Chinese Communists.

I left Kunu, on the south side of the Chongchon, at 4 p.m. today (11 a.m., P.S.T.). American and South Korean units on the outskirts of the beleaguered town were being seriously threatened by Chinese attacks from the northeast and east.

It was doubtful how long they could hold a chief ferrying place for allied troops being brought back across the river.

It was hoped that all American troops would be across the river by nightfall.

There was strong pressure Tuesday night and this morning on units of the American 25th Division across the Chongchon River from Kunu. All the attacking enemy appeared to be Chinese.

They still kept coming in great masses armed only with mortars, automatic weapons and rifles—and without tanks, air or artillery support.

The American withdrawal was orderly. I saw no sign of panic. Certainly this was not a rout.

Front-line American commanders expect further Chinese attacks tonight.

Communist Chinese hordes swept through the wide Tokchon gap in northwest Korea today and thrust out three columns cocking a trap on four allied divisions.

The threatened United Nations forces were north of the icy Chongchon River or withdrawing across it.

Three of the divisions are American—the 24th, 25th and 2nd Infantry. The other is the South Korean 1st.

They were reported fighting a desperate retreat action along a shrunken 30-mile front north of the river, from Pakchon to the Won area.

Masses of Chinese Reds—200,000 or more troops — fighting alongside the north Korean remnants repeatedly attacked the four divisions from the north.

The U.N. troops pulled back another 10 miles Tuesday. They gave up Yongsan and Yongbyon, key points north of the river, and the town of Won on the south bank.

Weather Forecast

Intermittent rain tonight, cloudy with showers and sunny intervals in afternoon Thursday. Milder. Winds increasing to southwest 20 tonight shifting to southerly 15 in morning. Low tonight 40; high Thursday 52.

Cabinet Debates New Korea Plans

OTTAWA (BUP) — The federal cabinet today pushed aside routine business on the domestic political scene to study what role Canada should play in the new war in Asia.

The cabinet, originally scheduled to discuss arrangements for next week's Dominion-Provincial fiscal conference, was expected to consider what additional help Canada could offer to United Nations forces battling close to the Manchurian border.

External Affairs Minister Pearson highlighted the foreign affairs discussion with a report from the U.N. on Chinese Communist attacks on yielding defence lines in Korea. His staff said he would leave for New York later today to join in U.N. debates sparked by the arrival at Lake Success of the Peiping Communist delegation.

Reports on the new Chinese Communist activities in Korea were received in volume Tuesday by the external affairs department. They came from Canada's permanent U.N. delegation, from the United States government and from Commonwealth countries.

Government sources said the administration was deeply concerned over the new Korean developments, but they had no information of when the government would put its policy on record. The best guess was that it would be made by Pearson in an address to the U.N.

Limit Set For U.N. Retreat

WASHINGTON (UP) — Gen. MacArthur has advised defence officials he plans to stabilize the Korean battleline after retreating no more than 15 or 25 miles, it was learned today.

Tiny U.S. Town Worried By H-Bomb Plant News

ELLENTON, S.C. (UP) — Mayor H. W. Fisher stood near the big stove in the centre of Mike Cassel's general store with a worried frown on his face.

He had just been told of the Atomic Energy Commission's announcement that this quiet little farming town of 736 persons and three other nearby hamlets would be wiped out by the hydrogen bomb even before it is developed.

The communities are in the 250,000-acre tract in the rich Savannah River valley where construction of the first H-bomb plant is scheduled to begin next year.

"None of us are going to like it much if we have to move out," Fisher declared. "But I guess we haven't got much choice. This thing came so suddenly I don't think half the people even know about it yet."

Others who drifted into the store to shop or gossip echoed the mayor's sentiments. The word spread quickly and soon the town was buzzing with excitement. The scene probably was duplicated in Jackson, Snelling and Dunbarton, the other villages whose death warrants will be sealed by government condemnation proceedings.

Cassel closed up his store, the hub of social life in Ellenton, at the end of the day and walked across the railroad tracks to the house where he has lived for 58 years. His wife already was up on the news. Their 21-year-old daughter, Kitty, had heard the announcement on the radio in Raleigh, N.C., and telephoned home, weeping.

"Makes you kind of jittery," the store owner mused, tapping a stubby finger on his knee as he talked. "It's kind of hard to think. . . . We've got to decide where to go. I guess maybe the Shenandoah Valley. . . ."

He broke off and stared at the floor.

Successes Stiffen Reds In U.N. Votes

Task To Localize Korea Fighting

LAKE SUCCESS (BUP)—Communist China's delegation to the United Nations refused today to take their seats in the Security Council when it met to resume discussion on the problems of Formosa and Korea.

LAKE SUCCESS (AP)—United Nations circles privately expressed forebodings today on the chances of localizing the bitter Korean fighting in view of the Chinese Communists' unyielding attitude.

This feeling prevailed in those non-Communist delegations that had urged bringing the Chinese Reds to Lake Success in the hope some conciliatory agreement could be worked out.

Peiping's spokesman, Wu Hsiu-chuan, blasted many of those hopes in the Security Council Tuesday when he made it plain the Chinese Communists had no intention of withdrawing from Korea.

Britain, which like India recognized the Peiping regime, has no intention at this stage to contact the Chinese Reds here. A British source said his delegation did not wish to speak or vote in the Security Council this afternoon unless circumstances should develop to a point where such actions would be necessary.

WORLD CONSCIENCE

Although it appears unlikely a showdown case can be reached this afternoon, the United States wants the Security Council as soon as possible to make a finding on American charges of Chinese Communist aggression in Korea and thus put on record the "conscience of the people of the world."

Making such a record is about all a majority of the council can hope to accomplish in view of the expressed attitudes of Russia and Chinese Communist representatives.

The chief U.S. delegate, Warren R. Austin, in his speech before the council Tuesday, foresaw a probable Russian veto of a six-power resolution demanding the Red soldiers of Mao Tze-tung get out of Korea.

Expects To Hold New Barrier Across Peninsula

Combined UP, AP Dispatches

WASHINGTON—Gen. MacArthur has advised defence officials he plans to stabilize the Korean battleline after retreating no more than 15 or 25 miles, it was learned late today.

Gen. Omar N. Bradley chairman, and the other three chiefs presumably laid the plan before President Truman at an extraordinary White House meeting of the National Security Council later.

Defence Secretary George C. Marshall and other top defence officials described the mass invasion of Korea by Chinese Communists as a "very critical situation," but they did not consider it "desperate."

Defence officials expected MacArthur's troops to hold soon even though greatly outnumbered by Chinese Communists. These officials believed the greater Communist manpower would be offset by the overwhelming air and naval superiority of MacArthur's forces and the superior firepower per man of his ground troops.

Defence officials here expected MacArthur to be able to hold a line across the narrow part of the Korean peninsula north of Pyongyang on the west and Wonsan on the east.

Decries Pessimism

A United States army spokesman described the situation in Korea as "serious but not catastrophic and, striking a note of confidence, said the United States has faced worse "and has come out of it."

He made the statement in cautioning reporters against "over pessimism."

His assessment came atop earlier assurances that high defence officials believe Gen. Douglas MacArthur has enough machines and firepower to prevent a military disaster.

These officials said the United Nations must decide, however, whether MacArthur will be given sufficient men and the broadened authority he needs to destroy the Chinese Reds in Korea.

Explaining why the Chinese have advanced despite U.S. tanks, artillery and planes, the spokesman said the answer is the way totalitarian governments use their troops "with utter disregard of human life." He said the Chinese Communist losses undoubtedly have been heavy and added:

"That doesn't perturb them a bit."

If an army is willing to take sufficient losses, he added, it can always achieve logical successes.

Ready For New Attacks

U.S. 8th ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Thursday (Reuter)—United Nations troops, struggling to consolidate a new line in the Chongchon River area, were put on the alert at midnight against an expected Communist bid to sweep forward and storm the river line before dawn.

Bevin Seeks Political Solution Of Korean War

DREAM SENDS EDMONTON MEN ON AIRPLANE SEARCH

EDMONTON (CP)—A dream today sent a party of five Edmonton men into the northern Alberta bush in search of a war surplus Cessna airplane and five Vancouver and Edmonton hunters, missing since last Oct. 14.

The search was organized Tuesday after Ken Pryor, Peace River taxi operator and friend of one of the missing men, reported he was told in a dream where the plane came down. It had left Peace River on a 250-mile flight to Edmonton when it disappeared.

The search party, led by Art Dory of Edmonton, left by car to search an area about 130 miles north of here.

Urges Chinese To Co-operate

LONDON (Reuter)—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin today warned that there might be "a Russian-Chinese conspiracy on a world-wide scale," but added that despite developments of the last few days he thought a "political" solution could be found in Korea that would prevent the spread of hostilities.

However, he said, such a solution could only be found "if the Chinese are of a mind to co-operate."

(A BUP dispatch quoted Bevin as saying the Chinese Communist intervention in Korea has plunged the world into such grave danger that the Big Three Western Powers have decided to consider asking Russia to meet with them to achieve peace.)

Bevin, opening a foreign policy debate in the House of Commons, emphasized to the crowded chamber that the British government supported the objectives of Gen. MacArthur which are "no more and no less than the objectives of the United Nations."

STABILIZATION

Bevin said that for some weeks he had been working along the lines that the first essential in Korea was to stabilize the military situation and then to explore a political settlement. The military situation of the last few days had not altered his opinion that this was the right way.

Earlier in the day Prime Minister Attlee and his cabinet had met in emergency session for an hour and 45 minutes this morning to discuss the China-Korean crisis.

Bevin told the Commons it had been necessary to leave control of operations in Korea very much in MacArthur's hands, providing that where his plans involved questions of general policy there was proper consultation on such matters, Bevin said.

"This, in fact, is what has happened."

He assured the House there was no split between Britain and France on Korean policy.

Within the last 24 hours the United States government had reaffirmed that its purposes in Korea remained the same as British aims.

These were to resist aggression, to localize hostilities, and to settle the Korean question on a basis satisfactory to the United Nations.

ENVOY TO U.S.

Speaking after Bevin, Anthony Eden, Britain's wartime foreign secretary, proposed that Britain be represented in Washington at the highest level "at this critical moment."

Eden demanded a "quick, clear" decision to fortify and hold the narrow waist of the North Korean peninsula. The United Nations must make a strategic objective and enforce it, he said.

Eden said a constructive reply should be made to Russia's invitation to four-power talks—but the western powers must propose the agenda.

French Premier Demands New Confidence Vote

PARIS (AP)—Premier Rene Pleven today asked for a vote of confidence in his badly-shaken French cabinet, declaring that present circumstances "are too grave" for him to continue unless he has the support of parliament.

"The government must know if it can count on its majority," the premier told the National Assembly. If the cabinet does not get 311 votes it will resign.

The National Assembly vote, decided on at a cabinet meeting today, will take place Friday. Pleven submitted the cabinet's resignation Tuesday night after the National Assembly voted disapproval of Moch, but President Vincent Auriol refused to accept the walkout because of the tense international situation.

By seeking a confidence vote, Pleven will try to utilize the desire of most deputies to avoid new general elections, which a government defeat might bring on. Most deputies would rather delay the poll until the end of the assembly's regular term next fall.

The trouble centres over a scandal the French call the "affair of the generals." It involves the theft or sale of a secret military report on the Indo-China war, black market money deals, the honor of a former army chief of staff and a mysterious agent named Roger Peyre who is reported to have fled to Brazil last year while Moch, as interior minister, headed the police.

Leduc Inquest Probes Blast

LEDUC, Alta. (CP)—Mayor Fred Johns of Leduc said today he was informed on Remembrance Day that natural gas in Leduc would be turned on "within a few hours."

Earlier, witnesses had told of gas or "something" coming from uncapped pipes with a hissing sound that could be heard "40 feet away." They were testifying at the second day of the inquest into the death of 10 persons who perished in the explosion and fire Nov. 11 that demolished the Leduc Hotel.

The mayor said he was informed by Bernie Turtle, an employee of Leduc Utilities Ltd. the morning of Nov. 11 that gas would be turned on within a few hours.

When W. J. Gray, chief engineer for Leduc Utilities Ltd., took the stand he was advised by provincial coroner Max Cantor that he was not compelled to give evidence.

The 64-year-old engineer who was retired by a Calgary firm at 62 stated he wished to give evidence.

Fisherman Missing In West Coast Waters

PORT ALBERNI (CP)—Police today started a search off the west coast of Vancouver Island for fisherman Fred (Casey) Stone of Port Alberni.

Stone was reported missing Tuesday when his trolling boat was found tied up and unlocked near here.

Stone left Port Alberni in July for west coast fishing grounds. He was last seen Nov. 20 at Zeballos wharf.

U.N. SANCTIONS AGAINST RED CHINA MAY BE ASKED

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Chinese Communist offensive in Korea has confronted the United States with the gravest decisions since the start of the Second World War, administration officials said today.

The government's present intention, they said, is to deal with the situation in the United Nations and through intensive consultation with Britain, France and other U.N.-member allies in the struggle against spreading Communist power in Asia.

These consultations are already under way. Some authorities said they may involve proposals for the use of political and economic sanctions against Communist China by the U.N.

Sanctions could mean cutting off all trade with China by non-Communist countries, and curtailing or withdrawing diplomatic recognition accorded the Peiping regime by some countries.

Doug. MacArthur said the boys would be home for Christmas—but he didn't say which Christmas.

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

TELEVISION AND TWADDLE

WITH TELEVISION still in its infancy on this continent and still struggling to stand on its own feet against the advances of the seasoned and serious competition of the radio and the movies, it is not surprising to learn that the U.S. television industry is spending millions of dollars to popularize its product.

But it is startling to anyone in this country, where we are not accustomed to such sales pressure tactics as they adopt across the border, to read of the lengths to which the "video" industry has gone in its advertising, which for pure blurb and "boloney" could hardly be surpassed.

'B.O.' TECHNIQUE

SOME OF THE SCREEDS set out in huge newspaper displays under the intensive campaign remind one of the awful "B.O." techniques of "your-best-friends-wouldn't-tell-you" type. For instance, the American Television Dealers and Manufacturers urged the purchase of television sets "to save children from the humiliation of begging those precious hours of television from a neighbor."

A full-page advertisement pictured a boy and girl whose home had no television. The girl was crying, the accompanying text explaining why: "There are some things a son or daughter won't tell." It continues with details of "deep loneliness" because "the kids were mean and won't play with me!"

PSEUDO-PSYCHOLOGICAL

SUCH PSEUDO-PSYCHOLOGICAL twaddle was repeated in other large advertisements, which made asinine allegations as to the creation of a video-less inferiority complex, such as: "Your daughter wouldn't tell you the humiliation she felt . . ." "Your son feels left out because he doesn't see television shows . . ." Similar appeals were made to the "keeping-up-with-the-Joneses" cult.

The radio phase of the campaign, which began before the newspaper series, featured, in frequent "spot" announcements, the heart-broken sobs of a little girl, whose grief was caused because there was no television in her home, it was explained.

CHILD GUIDANCE

BUT JUST WHEN the average American was probably sickened by such synthetic sentiment and nauseated by reiterated assertions that video was indispensable to family morale and social acceptance, along came a "noted behaviorist and authority on child guidance" to confuse them a little more.

That particular expert was quoted, in a corner of a full-page advertisement, as saying: "It is practically impossible for boys and girls to hold their own with schoolmates and friends unless television is available to them." That comes strange from a child guidance expert and, to my unashamedly allergic mind, it sounds as if he were more concerned with guiding parents up the garden path.

MENTAL VITAMINS

THE TELEVISION advertisers evidently recognized that many Americans share the same sales resistance urge as I to such pseudo-psychological "bunk." So it set up its sets as indispensable to health, with such preposterous claims as "Sunshine for his morale . . . vitamins for his mind. Television is all that and more for a growing child."

So it is not to be wondered at that this apotheosis of advertising asininity was more than sane citizens could stomach—even those inured to the ulcer-inducing doses poured out of radio "commercials"—and public reaction was swift and scathing. Tide, a magazine devoted to the advertising business, summed up public opinion in denouncing the television campaign as "the worst case of poor taste in advertising that has been seen for years."

'CRUEL PRESSURE'

JUST TO RUB it in, the Family Service Association of America publicly condemned it as unmitigated nonsense and added: "The creation of a climate of opinion in communities of this nature is a cruel pressure to apply against millions of parents who at this point are unable to purchase television sets even if they desire to do so."

All of which suggests that the American Television Dealers' and Manufacturers' group must, at this moment, be feeling even smaller than one of their own sets!

THEATRE GUILD GROWS

More Plays Listed To Follow Recent Success

A growing membership and satisfactory financial standing were reported at a general meeting of the Victoria Theatre Guild Tuesday in Langham Court Theatre.

Percy Richards presided.

R. V. James, chairman of the finance committee, read a report and balance sheet which showed the new organization to have made considerable progress financially. Referring to the recent production of "I Remember Mama," it was revealed that this show made a profit of over $350.

For the membership committee, Alec McGown informed the meeting that the original objective of 400 members had been surpassed. However, memberships will continue to be accepted for the present, as more are being received daily.

The production committee's report was given by the chairman, Audrey Johnson. The forthcoming show, "The Shop at Sly Corner," which is being directed by Alec McGowan and Barbara Smythe, will open for a weeks' run at the Langham Court Theatre on Dec. 11. The January offering is also in rehearsal. This will be "The Silver Whistle," directed by Vivienne Chadwick with Thomas W. Mayne assisting.

THREE SHORT PLAYS

The theatre workshop, which is the training and proving ground for actors and directors, has been organized by Mr. Mayne and three short plays are now in rehearsal for production early in the New Year. Mr. Mayne announced that a second organizational meeting of the workshop would be held on Dec. 5, at the theatre. All interested in this work are invited to attend.

The workshop was represented in the brief program that followed the business meeting, Joyce Reid and Gerry Conder presenting an excerpt from a three-act play. Using a specially built, high-fidelity reproducer, H. E. Stubbings arranged a recorded presentation of Kurt Weill's folk opera, "Down in the Valley." At the conclusion of the evening, coffee was served by Dorothy House and Kathryne Roberts of the house and social committee.

Bruce Hutchison To Address Club On 'Inflation'

Bruce Hutchison, Victoria Daily Times columnist, will address the Rotary Club Thursday at the Empress Hotel on "The Anatomy of Inflation."

A well-known contributor to Canadian and United States magazines and author of several books, Mr. Hutchison's latest work is "The Fraser," a history of the Fraser River.

Mr. Hutchison was educated in Victoria and in connection with his newspaper work has attended some of the most important conferences held in this country and the United States.

Besides being an authority on political matters, he is a keen student of social and economic trends in Canada and elsewhere.

FOUND DROWNED

Russian Armies In East Major Threat

Atomic Ultimatum From U.S. Could Endanger West Europe

By DANIEL DE LUCE

BERLIN (AP)—Six Russian armies are in winter quarters in East Germany today but Allied intelligence rates them strong enough to seize most of Western Europe in a single blitz action.

This potential sweep from the Elbe River to the Pyrenees is regarded here as Russia's ace card in the mounting world crisis.

It is an action which many European observers dread may be touched off if the United States resorts to atomic warfare against Red China.

And these observers say the western invasion is virtually certain to come if the U.S. threatens the Soviet itself with an atomic ultimatum to halt the spreading Asiatic war.

Military sources agree that western Europe is practically as defenceless now as at the outbreak of Korean hostilities last June.

There has been a small build-up of Allied occupation forces in West Germany. But the four U.S. divisions that were to have tripled the combat strength of the American army on the Rhine in a few months are still committed in Korea or pinned down as a strategic reserve at home.

10 ARMED DIVISIONS

The six Soviet armies in East Germany are authoritatively estimated to total 33 divisions, of which at least 10 are heavily armored. Their tanks, the Joseph Stalin Mark Three, are superior to any in the west.

The total manpower of these armies is put at 320,000, exceeding the manpower of the Allied armies in West Germany by about 100,000.

However, the Allied forces have a much higher proportion of service troops, making their over-all combat effectiveness correspondingly lower.

The Allies, moreover, are still spread out in occupation posts and subposts, thereby exposed to piecemeal annihilation in case of sudden attack.

Judge Reserves Ruling In $4,000 Damage Claim

Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane has reserved judgment in the civil action of Douglas Howe Dakin, manager of Gorge Boathouse, who is seeking more than $4,000 in damages against Bert Hadley and Abraham Charles Fancher, California contractors.

The action arose out of a collision on Douglas Street, April 30, 1949, when the defendants' truck, driven by John Jossul, went out of control and crashed into Dakin's truck. The California contractors at the time were engaged to remove B.C. Electric Railway tracks here.

At the trial it was established that the cause of the accident was the sudden parting of a ball-and-socket portion of the steering gear. Dakin claims that negligence on the part of the defendants was cause of the accident. Dakin was seriously injured.

DUNCAN—Roy Charley was sentenced to serve six months in prison for assaulting an R.C.M.P. officer, and was also fined $50 for theft of a hammer, or in default a concurrent term of two month. Joseph Caley was sentenced to serve six months on a charge of vagrancy.

FOG DISRUPTS AIR SERVICE TO MAINLAND

Fog disrupted Trans-Canada Airlines' schedules early today and Tuesday night.

First flight today from Patricia Bay to Vancouver Airport was cancelled, as was the initial flight in the opposite direction.

The morning flight to Seattle was delayed one hour.

Tuesday night the 8.45 Patricia Bay-Vancouver trip was washed out, and a plane from the east was diverted to Patricia Bay when Sea Island was fogbound.

Help Prevent Tooth Decay!

BEFORE IT STARTS . . . INSTEAD OF AFTER IT APPEARS

This famous formula, developed by the University of Illinois Foundation, caused enormous interest in dental circles because of its promising method of attacking tooth decay. In preliminary tests conducted at the University, case after case of reduction in the incidence of tooth decay was reported.

Now the manufacturers of Listerine Antiseptic make this same formula readily available to you and to your family. Use Listerine Ammoniated Tooth Paste regularly, as directed, morning and night and right after eating. Lambert Pharmacal Co. (Canada) Ltd., Toronto.

AMMONIATED LISTERINE TOOTH PASTE ...designed to help prevent decay 3 ways!

1. Chemical action reduces mouth acidity. Mouth acidity encourages decay.
2. Mechanical action cleans surfaces as teeth are brushed—helps break up and remove decay-breeding deposits.
3. Chemical action checks acid-forming bacteria—a major cause of decay.

Toronto Gunmen Get $10,000 Loot

Four Masked Men Hold Up Branch Of Bank Of Commerce, Make Getaway

TORONTO (CP)—Four men, masked and armed, looted $10,000 in cash from a west-end branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce today after forcing 15 staff members and five customers to line up against a wall.

They fled from the bank, at the intersection of Roncesvalles and Wright Avenues, in a maroon-colored automobile which was reported stolen Tuesday. The car later was found abandoned a short distance from the bank. Police believe the men transferred to a dark blue or black car that followed the one used in the hold-up as it pulled away from the bank.

There was no shooting in or around the bank. Nor did the robbers try to get into the vault.

The four men walked into the bank just before 10.30 a.m. and drew their guns.

Alexander Marshall, a bank messenger, said he was sitting with his back to the door when he heard a shout. He turned and saw the robbers.

"They were waving guns and each had a handkerchief over the lower part of his face. Two of them kept the staff and customers covered while a third jumped over the counter and scooped all the bills from the teller's cage. One man held a gun pressed into my back."

Buchenwald's Grim Party Told At Trial

By RICHARD K. O'MALLEY

AUGSBERG, Germany (AP)—Guests at a birthday party for Ilse Koch declared a lamp made of human skin and a human shinbone was the most successful gift of all, a witness at her trial testified today.

The red-haired widow of the former Buchenwald concentration camp commander is on trial before a German court, accused of instigating the murder of 45 inmates, the attempted murder of 135 others, and brutality.

She served four years of a commuted life sentence on a U.S. war crimes conviction. The Germans are trying her for crimes allegedly committed against German and Austrian nationals.

Joseph Ackermann, inmate-secretary to the camp's chief surgeon, Dr. Waldemar Hoven, told a three-judge German court of the birthday party and said he had been charged with seeing that the lamp was sent to the Koch household.

It was a complete shinbone and foot, he said, with a shade made of tattooed human skin.

A camp doctor who attended the party told him "it was the best present of all" and a great success, Ackermann said.

U.S. LIVING COSTS SOAR

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. government's cost-of-living index today rose to an all-time high.

The new index, covering prices as of Oct. 15, was 174.8 per cent of the 1935-39 base—100—an increase of 0.6 per cent since Sept. 15.

It was 0.2 per cent higher than the previous peak of 174.5 in August and September, 1948.

CHINESE DIES

City police Tuesday afternoon found You Sang, about 60, dead in bed in his room in the Westholme Hotel.

LOCAL CONTROL PLAN

21 Ontario Towns To Vote On Sunday Sports

TORONTO (CP) — Sunday sport fever is gripping staid old Ontario.

At municipal elections, starting next Monday and continuing intermittently until Jan. 1, 21 cities and smaller communities will vote on whether to permit commercial sport on Sundays from 1.30 to 6 p.m., local time.

In the last year Sunday sport has been legalized in Toronto, the provincial capital and Ontario's largest city, Windsor and nine smaller communities — six of them popular summer resort spots.

Ten of the forthcoming votes are in northern Ontario, five in the eastern section of the province, three in southwestern Ontario and two in the central area. All are being held under provincial legislation passed this year to give effect to the votes a year ago in Windsor and Toronto, which pioneered in the Sunday sport movement.

The question that will go before voters reads:

"Are you in favor of public games and sport on the Lord's Day, to be regulated by municipal by-law under authority of the Lord's Day Act (Ontario) 1950?"

Here are the municipalities to vote: Brockville, Guelph, Kitchener, Lindsay, Port Hope, Prescott, Sault Ste. Marie, Sudbury, Waterloo, Whitby, Hamilton, Kapuskasing, Port Colborne, South Porcupine, Hearst, North Bay, Cochrane, Ansonville, Timmins, Oakville and Thessalon.

WINDSOR MARGIN

Windsor voted 13,939 to 10,981 for Sunday sport last Dec. 7. Toronto came up with an 88,108 to 81,793 affirmative vote Jan. 1. The Ontario Legislature followed that up by passing a bill empowering municipalities to decide what sports are to be permitted and where they may be played.

However, two options are withheld from municipalities. They may not permit horse racing. And they may not lengthen the 1.30 to 6 p.m. time limit, although they have authority to shorten it.

Tiny U.S. Town Worried By H-Bomb Plant News

ELLENTON, S.C. (UP) — Mayor H. W. Fisher stood near the big stove in the centre of Mike Cassel's general store with a worried frown on his face.

He had just been told of the Atomic Energy Commission's announcement that this quiet little farming town of 736 persons and three other nearby hamlets would be wiped out by the hydrogen bomb even before it is developed.

The communities are in the 250,000-acre tract in the rich Savannah River valley where construction of the first H-bomb plant is scheduled to begin next year.

"None of us are going to like it much if we have to move out," Fisher declared. "But I guess we haven't got much choice. This thing came so suddenly I don't think half the people even know about it yet."

Others who drifted into the store to shop or gossip echoed the mayor's sentiments. The word spread quickly, and soon the town was buzzing with excitement. The scene probably was duplicated in Jackson, Snelling and Dunbarton, the other villages whose death warrants will be sealed by government condemnation proceedings.

Victoria Chinese Confused, Unhappy Over Aggression News From Korea

By HUMPHRY DAVY

What does the average Chinese in Victoria think about Communist China's aggression in Korea?

A Times reporter who sought an answer to the question today, found that the 2,000 Chinese here are divided and confused over the issue.

The immediate reaction of many Chinese to Red troops participating in the Korean war was that the United States had committed a major political blunder in not recognizing China's Communist government. They felt that the war would now alienate more than ever Asia from the Western Nations.

George Joe, a retail merchant, explained it this way. "The Chinese people don't like either Gen. Chiang Kai-shek's nationalistic government or the Communists," he said. 'But if they had to choose between the two governments they would rather be under Communist China.

RESENT INTERFERENCE

"The Chinese people don't want Russians or any western nation in their country," he added. "They want to be left alone to trade and live as they like."

He said there were no Communists among the Chinese community, but everyone was taking an active interest in the political developments in China. "Many of the people favored the British point of view," he said. "They felt that if the U.S. had recognized the Communists it would have been possible to win the government over to our side."

But different was the view taken by Kien Yeh Wu, editor-in-chief of the New Republic. He felt that China would never be safe from aggression until the Communist government was destroyed.

"Russia controls China today," he said. "The western nations will never be able to trade with China until they have defeated Communist China."

Mr. Wu said Russia was interested in getting raw materials and cheap Chinese labor from China.

As the reporter left, a large group of Chinese gathered around a bulletin board to read the Chinese daily newspaper. The headlines, translated into English, read: "War in Korea Getting Worse."

The Chinese looked glum.

'No Strings' On British In Korea

TOKYO (Reuter)—A British official spokesman said today Commonwealth forces are operating in Korea "without any strings attached."

Correspondents had asked whether Commonwealth forces might be withdrawn in view of political complications resulting from the entry of the Chinese into the war.

Britain has recognized the Chinese Communist government.

The British 27th Brigade, shuttled from one danger point to another in the last critical 48 hours, today was reported moving again to block the main north-south supply road to Sunchong.

A few hours earlier it had concentrated at Kunuri, 20 miles north of Sunchon. It has not been in contact with the Communists since the new battle began.

What Is The Answer?

THERE OBVIOUSLY ARE ELEMENTS of no mean proportions in Western Germany which are opposed to the rearmament of their nationals to serve with the Atlantic Pact nations in defence against the potential aggression by Soviet Russia. Results of the recent regional elections within the American zone of occupation emphasize this fact. It is unfortunate—unfortunate for the German democrats, unfortunate for the free world, and unfortunate for the democratic way of life in the Western Hemisphere.

What do the results of these elections in Western Germany mean? Are they to be construed as the product of another and more sinister Communistic movement which has got in its underground work? Or are they a reflection of the mood of that liberal element which, believe it or not, still exists in the Fourth Reich? At this distance from the scene, of course, it is extremely difficult to put anything but a speculative assessment on these political events. We may be going far out on a limb, by another token, in suggesting that in Western Germany there are Communistic cells operating at full strength, and that fellow travelers—all smiles and for democracy on the streets of Westphalian and Bavarian cities and towns—have become slaves of the Marxian philosophy.

At the same time, by this strange decision, two sections of Germany, while hating Prussianism, have exposed themselves to the type of potential aggression against which the man whom they worshipped and saluted in the Nazi fashion only a year or so ago warned them. Hitler not only warned them; he sent his legions against Russia and Russian Communism in the June of 1941 despite the fact that Joachim von Ribbentrop—with the Fuehrer's authority behind him—signed a treaty of "friendship" a month before the invasion of Poland by the Wehrmacht.

What is the western world to think and do about these developments? How are peace-loving peoples to adjust their mode of life in the light of what is happening in Korea, what is happening in other areas of the Pacific region, and what may happen at any moment in continental Europe? These are puzzling questions. What is the answer?

An Eye On The Long-Term Plan

IN THE LIGHT OF CURRENT DEVELopments in Korea, the long term program to help South and Southeast Asia and, by improving living standards, to check the inroads of Communism may seem remote. It is heartening, nevertheless, to note that the Commonwealth's six-year $5,200,000,000 plan to that end has not been abandoned. None of the countries concerned is definitely committed to the proposal. Recognition has been given to the fact, however, that such action is needed, if time and events permit, in order to counteract the receptivity of the so-called backward peoples to the promises that are made in Moscow.

Articles by Mr. Norman Smith, which have appeared in the right-hand column of this page for the past few weeks, have emphasized the position of the people of India in relation to Communism. As Mr. Smith pointed out, the largely illiterate masses there know little about Russian ideology. They do know, on the other hand, the struggle they must continue to maintain bare subsistence. In that condition they may be expected to turn the ear of credulity to Communist oratory.

Whether or not the proposed Commonwealth plan could frustrate the Soviet approach will never be known unless or until it is tried. As malaria was brought under control by draining the swamps, the scheme does offer the possibilities of checking the Red epidemic by helping to dry up the marshes of human, economic misery. The proposal is constructive if it is financially possible in the not too-distant future.

It's Every Driver's Business

IN LESS THAN THREE WEEKS Victoria has recorded three traffic fatalities. That should shock drivers in this community into a realization of their responsibilities on the road. The deaths draw tragic attention to other reports of accidents which, under slightly altered circumstances, could have had as serious results.

The plain facts are that too many of our citizens climb behind the wheels of high-powered cars and fail to realize that when they do so they assume charge of machines which can be lethal weapons. It is time every driver understood that an automobile is something more than a convenient form of transportation. It can, and does, kill and destroy on a serious scale.

No one who uses the streets is immune to the dangers of accidents. It is disturbing to read, in succeeding issues of our newspapers, accounts of police officers involved in two mishaps—one by way of an appeal from a previous verdict, the other, the most recent of our fatalities. Police officers are expected to set an example for others in safety measures on the highway.

We do not presume to pass judgment on the latter case, nor do we wish to comment further on the decision handed down in the former. Our desire is to point out that what too many people consider to be ordinary driving practice is not good enough. That places a very specific obligation on all motorists.

Some months ago it was hoped that the inauguration of a citizens' safety campaign would press the point home to all motorists. The proposed campaign, if not dead, appears to be forgotten. It is time some efforts were made to provide a substitute—one that will impress everyone. And it must not be forgotten that bad driving weather lies ahead.

Battle For Freedom Of Press Continues Under Dictatorship

By BOYD LEWIS From New York

NOT all the fighters for freedom wear uniforms and carry guns. Some wear horn-rimmed spectacles and well-tailored suits and their work is no less effective because they fight totalitarianism with the printed word.

One such fighter for freedom is Dr. Alberto Gainza Paz, the handsome, scholarly editor and publisher of La Prensa of Buenos Aires. La Prensa has long been known as one of the world's great newspapers. Its true greatness is attested today by the fact of its continued existence in the capital of Dictator Juan D. Peron.

PETTY TORMENTS

With immense patience, La Prensa scorns the petty torments of Peron and his followers and continues to report the news and comment upon it. That news is true news and those comments spring from profound convictions and never from fear.

Newspaper after newspaper has been crushed in Argentina for daring to print objective news or editorials opposing Peron's Nazi-like program. Often it has seemed that Peron's fist would descend upon La Prensa, but always some power has stayed the fist.

While La Prensa has been permitted to live, its existence has been a series of provocations and tortures. Mobs of Peron's descamisados (shirtless ones) have been turned loose against the newspaper's building. Its newsprint supplies have been confiscated, its books seized.

Of all these difficulties, the hardest to take was the confiscation of newsprint. La Prensa's paper stocks were thrown into a pool from which Peron's bureaucrats doled it out to all the newspapers, thus giving the slavish propagandists for Peron the advantage of La Prensa's business acumen and foresight in stocking paper.

Like most bureaucracies, Peron's is inefficient as a newsprint buyer. The other day paper began to run very short in Argentina and for several days La Prensa did not know from one day to the next whether it would have enough newsprint. One day's paper was printed on heavy stock borrowed from the Sunday rotogravure section. Finally the government cut everybody's supply 20 per cent and hoped a shipload of paper would arrive in time to lift the squeeze.

WRITERS' AWARD

While visiting the United States recently, Dr. Gaiza announced that his newspaper will make an award each May to a writer, citizen of any of the American countries, who has made an outstanding contribution to inter-American friendship. The award will consist of transportation to and from Buenos Aires, a silver plaque and 25,000 pesos ($1,786).

No doubt La Prensa's award will encourage writers to demonstrate the immense value of friendship and mutual support among the peoples of the American nations at a time when the liberties they strive to achieve and cherish are menaced in Asia and Europe.

Loose Ends

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

VICTORIANS love their city but few of them understand it. I suppose that in a dumb, unconscious fashion all of us feel that there is here, on this Island, a certain subtle quality not to be found elsewhere but we can give it no name and must satisfy ourselves with the crude slogans of tourist advertising — true enough factually but missing the whole point. Only one voice, up to now, has articulated the inwardness of this place. Emily Carr could write about Victoria, could paint the countryside around it, in terms that the whole world could instantly grasp. And, of course, in our Victorian fashion, we paid no attention to her until the pen dropped and the paint tubes were twisted and dried.

Hutchison

STILL, articulated or not, a strange and secret life goes on here, the stuff of which literature is made in older countries, the kind of stuff which Dickens or Balzac could have turned into great novels. I am glad, as an ancient Victorian, to report that a fellow townsman of mine has caught the flavor of this local life and somehow preserved it in a lovely little book. It is called "Elizabeth" and it is, as I take it, the story of Dick Diespecker's mother, a gallant lady who lived, suffered, triumphed in her quiet fashion and died in Victoria.

THIS is all very strange and haunting. Strange, I mean, to find that a Victoria boy, Dick Diespecker, a boy I knew well in his youth, a playfellow in the regions of Beacon Hill when Victoria was young and unspoiled, then a hard-boiled newspaper reporter and a crack radio man—strange to find that such an unlikely fellow is a poet of strong talent and a novelist of sure grasp. I shall never listen to Dick's voice on the radio again without a sudden start, knowing at last how much is concealed behind it.

There is concealed here, as in all men, an imaginary world more real than the world visible. Dick is one of the few Canadians, one of a handful of Victorians, who can bring his own world to life for others to see. It is a wide world, encompassing England, Canada, the basin of the south Pacific and Africa, but its centre is Victoria.

IT was to Victoria of the early nineteen hundreds that Elizabeth brought her brood, Dick being the youngest, and it was here that the family's lonely Odyssey finally came to rest. What strikes a Victorian—apart from the superb, warm writing, which must have been heated by the suns of Africa before Dick came to these cloudy shores—is the sudden realization that here in this town, all unnoted, innumerable dramas of human life are in progress at this moment, with no voice to proclaim them.

For, after all, there was nothing unique in the life of Elizabeth and her children in some forgotten shack on the Dallas Road. A thousand Victoria mothers, at this very hour, must be fighting the same battle with poverty, illness and heartbreak. A thousand boys like Dick must be emerging annually from such homes to build their country, to fight for it when necessary and to love it. And therein, and not within our politics, our laws or our visible institutions, lies the strength and the hope of Canada.

THIS basic process of the nation's life is the thing which only an artist can sense and put down on paper. Dick is such an artist and he puts it down in a fierce, gusty sort of prose and, intermittently, in a verse which melts the heart.

However, I am not attempting here a review of the excellent book which Messrs. J. M. Dent and Sons have had the wisdom to publish and which another Victoria boy, Ron Jackson, now of Vancouver, has so exquisitely illustrated with wood-cuts. The literary critics can be counted upon to judge the merits of this work. I only wish to warn the public of Victoria that the town has found someone who may not have seen through it entirely, as Emily Carr did, but certainly has seen a part of it and seen that part with exceeding clarity.

HOW curious, I cannot help repeating, to find that a tough radio man, his voice at noon familiar to every British Columbian on the Vancouver Province broadcast, is in reality a poet, suffering all the tortures and ecstasies of that breed. But more curious still to find that here in Victoria, behind all the jim-crack tourist publicity, behind the pretensions of society, behind the daily charade of politics and the marts of business, there is the raw material of life which an artist can shape to his purpose.

This, I suppose, can be said of any place where human beings congregate. Two men can hardly meet in a desert without making an unrecorded epic or at least a farce. But in Victoria, for some odd reason, we make more than our share of epics and farces which nobody thinks of recording.

OUR life, perhaps, is richer than most because so many people have come here from queer, distant places, as Dick's family came from the African veldt. We see here, or rather we fail to see, a powerful chemistry at work, a ferment of which the scum only, the outer look of the place, and certain superficial oddities of behaviour, are observed by the stranger.

Many Victorians, indeed, live all their lives here without suspecting what is afoot. Nor can any name be given to it. All we can say at this point, except when someone like Dick jogs our imagination, is that life here is a curious business, shot through, I suspect, with a certain melancholy, grimness and awareness of mortality hardly to be found in any other Canadian town.

Something Heavier Needed

As Our Readers See It

PANDORA TRAFFIC

In my opinion it's about time a Stop and Go sign was installed at Cook and Pandora. It's almost impossible for a pedestrian to cross at this intersection, especially at night.

Last Friday night I tried for several minutes to cross from the north side of Cook and couldn't make it due to the steady stream of cars coming down Pandora hill. They ignore the pedestrian lanes completely.

Later I saw a lady stranded in the centre of this lane for several seconds while the cars whizzed by her on both sides; none of them slowed down to let her cross safely. She had to wait for a lull in the traffic to get to the sidewalk.

I'm quite sure there are many more people who think as I do about this particularly dangerous corner.

'STIR-UP SUNDAY

It would be as well if your "Disgruntled" correspondent who writes from the Empress Hotel knew a little more of what she speaks. "Stir-up Sunday" is no new catchword to "extract hard-won dollars" (I quote), but an old English saying of great antiquity, referring to the Collect asking God to stir up our hearts and wills.

If we all followed the ancient law of giving a tenth of our income, the Church would not have to ask for funds, directly or indirectly.

In speaking of the clergy "living so well and comfortably," I wonder if the writer knows that the minimum stipend (which is hard enough to raise) is $1,800 per annum with every kind of drain upon it, including charity, etc.; and for pension the truly munificent amount of some $800; this, after a lifetime of service, is all that the Church of England in Canada can offer; hardly, one would think, an inducement to enter the Church unless truly a man has a call to serve God. Can we wonder that it is more and more difficult to find able men to fill our pulpits?

M. HINCKS.

ANSWERS CRITIC

In regard to a letter which appeared in Saturday's Times concerning what the writer thereof calls a "slogan"—"Stir Up Sunday."

For her information, "Stir Up Sunday" is not by any means a slogan. It is the name commonly given to a special prayer for a special Sunday of the year, which begins "Stir up, we beseech Thee, O Lord, the wills of Thy faithful people," and has nothing whatsoever to do with making collections for the church, either from door to door, or otherwise, but with a spiritual activity and stir, which certainly are most necessary for most of us.

As far as the collections for the Community Chest one evening not long ago are concerned, I would suggest that she look up the word blackmail and find its meaning.

On this occasion, nobody need give unless he or she was willing! It is a well-known and truthful saying that the Lord loves a cheerful giver, and to do the Victoria people credit, most of them did give cheerfully, thereby following the teaching of Christ, I am sure.

E. M. CROSSLEY.

GORGE CANAL

It was with some surprise I read in Saturday night's Times about the Gorge canal project costing up to one million dollars. Now let's use our common sense and look over some of the things that could well do with money like that spent on them no matter where it comes from.

One of them is Point Ellice bridge. Now if that structure is quite safe, why have the engineers put a load and speed limit on? If they insist that it is safe will they remove those limits and be responsible for it? I don't think so.

The next thing is the breakwater. I'm well aware that it would cost more than the sum mentioned above, but every little helps and a million dollars would be a good start in making the present one longer or another one from the opposite shore, as our harbor needs far greater protection.

Also our sidewalks which are in dire need of repairs. The city could not afford a new city hall but is going to be asked to sponsor a canal which will be no asset to Victoria.

AVERT VS. DIVERT

Mr. Gray seems to have got a kick out of my "Dutchmen" who diverted a river to avert calamity. "Quite an operation," as Mr. Gray says; yet not impossible to Dutchmen. Quite recently they bailed out the Zuider Zee. Nearer home Americans are diverting the Columbia River (some river!). But the question is one of words, not of engineering. Let us for the moment accept Mr. Gray's theory that avert and divert are synonymous; we may now say: "The Dutch averted a river to divert calamity." Now, sir, I ask you!

For a moment Mr. Gray is on firm ground, i.e. when he says "Words that meant one thing in Shakespeare have another meaning today," but only for a moment. Bacon was a contemporary of Shakespeare, Milton was born during Shakespeare's short life. Yet in his next sentence we find Mr. Gray quoting Milton and Bacon in support of his thesis!

No doubt there was a time when avert and divert meant pretty much the same, but that time, allowing for an occasional exception such as "averting one's eyes," is not now.

Dictionaries usually begin by stating the primary meaning of a word, which would account for the similarity overstressed by Mr. Gray. Secondary or later meanings follow. One of these under "avert" is "ward off"; this is an American dictionary compiled "on the principles of Noah Webster."

A WAY OUT

To see conditions around us and in the world in general one cannot help but be fearful of what the near future holds. We have continually rising prices, exorbitant rents, hard enough for those with a decent income but sheer hardship for the unemployed, poorly paid pensioners, those with large families and widows on small incomes. Then to add to it all there is every prospect of a world-wide war more terrible than this world has ever before seen. Man has degraded his God-given intellect lower than the primitive savage in the design and manufacture of the atomic bomb.

Had we but used our discovery of atomic power for the betterment, rather than the destruction of mankind, what a glorious world it would have become with less labor, more leisure and a future almost too wonderful to imagine. In spite of all these things, in sheer mockery (for it can be called nothing else) we go to church and kneel abjectly before the great Greator of this universe and also sing praises to the Prince of Peace.

Are we not almost asking to be wiped out to make way for a better and nobler humanity?

What can we do to avoid the approaching cataclysm, one may ask? Well, let our leaders pray for guidance (they will not ask in vain, as the writer knows from his own experience) and they will be shown what to do; and let us, the People, pray for peace, earnestly and sincerely and we may yet escape the consequences of our blind folly.

Travel Diary

Another in a Series

By K. NORMAN SMITH

Associate Editor of The Ottawa Journal

BOMBAY, India—Bombay may be India's most westernized city and even its most beautiful city, it may be a great port and the gateway to India—but to me Bombay will go down in history as the first and doubtless the last place I owned a servant all to myself! After the plane ride from Calcutta and a very hot sun beating down here as I arrived at high noon, I reached my bedroom in some exhaustion and was easy pie for a tall black Indian who came into my room with a sheaf of letters. I thought he was selling something and shooed him off but he persisted. They were letters from former visitors in the hotel praising his personal valetmanship. "You can trust this bloke," wrote an Aussie.

Smith

"What do you do?" I asked.

"Everything," he replied. That did it.

He unpacked my stuff, spread it all pretty like, whisked away laundry and pressing and jammed up the holes in my socks. He garnered me special bottles of boiled water, extra biscuits with the tea, laid out my change of clothes for evening and damn it if he didn't stand by to dress me and tuck my shirt in. There I drew the line and he looked hurt. Fee? The sum of three rupees a day all in—about 70 cents.

GARLANDED SPEAKER

Ever see a man make a speech with a six-foot long garland of flowers around his neck hanging nearly to his knees? It happened to me here. From somewhere the mayor of Bombay got a mistaken idea of my importance and I was asked to attend a reception at his office at 3. It turned out the reception was for me!

Bombay is a city of 3,500,000 and its corporation or city council is an affair of 135 members. Its mayor, Mr. S. K. Patil, is one of India's strong men.

He received Bob Renwick, the Canadian Commercial Secretary, and me in his office, and at 3.05 led us into a large room where tea and cakes and biscuits and ice cream were laid out for the inner committee of the corporation.

Chocolate cake and rich biscuits are a bit of a stunner just half an hour after a late lunch, but not nearly such a stunner as when from the mayor's glowing remarks about me in introduction I realized a speech was called for.

NOT IN OTTAWA

And just before the speech in came a man with a garland of flowers fit for a bride and large enough to go around the neck of the Derby winner. And into my hand was thrust a lovely bunch of roses! The bunch of flowers I laid on the table but from out of the rope around my neck I addressed the assembled 25 people as best I could, trying chiefly to avoid the grinning eyes of Bob Renwick who I knew was saying: "If only Ottawa could see you now."

Now I mention all this not to boast of the great man I was for a few minutes, for that was an accident, but because it is an example of the kindness and friendliness of Indian people. All along the line in this country there has been help and quite profuse attention and courtesy. And it comes with a sincerity which I'm sure is the real thing.

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN A. TOBIN

"WHEN you stop to think," said the Elevator Man, "of the complicated systems of communication we have these days, it's a wonder the whole thing doesn't get tied in knots now and then. As a matter of fact it does happen sometimes, and you get reports like that one from Tennessee yesterday where a woman keeps getting neighborhood telephone calls on her radio set. Now that could turn out to be interesting. The lady says some of the conversations are better than radio programs. Some of it might sound like amateur night, because of course it's unrehearsed. But the soap operas must seem washed out compared with the true-to-life dramas the Tennessee listener is getting. And there's always the added thrill that you might hear your own name mentioned. Pretty hard to resist a jackpot possibility like that, even with no money involved. Going up!

Tobin

"When you come to think of it," said the Elevator Man, "it's amazing how human beings can live so close together in cities and apartment houses and know so little about each other. When you consider that often only a six-inch wall hides the most dramatic family scenes, only a hair-sized wire separates the most intimate phone conversations, only a wall of silence that you can't even measure may keep you from the gripping life story of the man next to you in the bus seat—it's like being locked in a library and not getting around to reading any of the books. Lower main!

"And I don't mean," said the Elevator Man, "that if you could go around like the Ghost of Christmas Past and look in on family scenes they'd necessarily be grim. In this community anyway, for every tough situation you'd find dozens of happy ones. There wouldn't be many like the story of the married woman who wanted to get a divorce. 'My dear young lady,' says her lawyer, 'you're bound to have a few tiffs in your married life. But think of the joy to be got out of it.' 'Exactly,' snaps the girl. 'Get me out of it.'"

THE HOME GARDEN

Younger Lavender Gives Best Perfume

By HILDA BEASTALL

One of the first plants to attract my attention when I came to Victoria was the lavendar.

In eastern Canada cities, the dried blossoms are sold as almost a small luxury item, so that the sight of bushes in full bloom was just as thrilling as the perfume of wallflowers during the following spring.

Hilda

As time passed, my interest increased, and I discovered that the culture of lavender has some very important do's and don'ts.

Lavender is grown in the home garden primarily for the perfume of its dried blooms; secondly for the beauty and aroma of its grey foliage. These attributes are at their highest during the third and fourth year of the plant's life.

Don't keep an untidy, woody, old plant just because it still produces spikes of bloom. You will enjoy more perfume from a younger plant.

Do plant your lavendar in full sun, and in rather poor, gravelly soil, having good drainage.

CUT FLOWER SPIKES

Do cut all the flower spikes every year, in order that the new shrub growth may develop.

In September, do remember to clip lightly over this new growth in order that your shrub may develop into a compact little plant. This will prevent winter damage, which is caused by frost getting into an "open" straggly bush. Don't cut out entire branches from a lavender.

Of the several kinds, Lavandula vera is the true English lavender, high in oil content. The French lavender is Lavandula spica, producing oil of inferior quality. Munstead variety is a dwarf plant, good for cutting, but having a low oil content.

A white flowered kind is difficult to grow, and is not really attractive, though novel.

Reg Clarke Heads League Of Roses

Reg Clarke has been re-elected to serve a third term as president of the League of Roses, Lancashire and Yorkshire Society of B.C.

Other officers named at a recent meeting were: G. Hawthorne, first vice-president; Mrs. G. Baker, second vice-president; H. Goodfellow, treasurer, and A. Blamire, secretary.

Mrs. A. Jones, Mrs. C. McAllister, Mrs. G. Hawthorne, R. Purcell, Leo Baker and Mrs. F. Purcell will serve on the executive.

The meeting decided unanimously that the women's auxiliary to the League of Roses be disbanded.

Dogs Track Accused Youth

NESTOW, Alta. (CP)—A youth, tracked down by R.C.M.P. dogs, is being detained here by juvenile authorities following a break-in and fire at a Nestow store which endangered the lives of three sleeping children.

The break-in occurred in the store of William Lewko. Fire of unknown origin later broke out in the building, where Lewko's two children and a baby-sitter were sleeping. Passers-by saved the three.

Bhagwan Of Duncan Flies To Bombay

BOMBAY, India (Reuter)—Bhagwan Singh, 11-year-old Boy Scout from Duncan, B.C., has arrived in Bombay after a 12,000-mile air trip to attend the wedding of his brother, whom he had never met before.

Bhagwan Sing, son of a Sikh businessman, had an audience with the Pope in Rome and attended Scout camps in Britain and France during his journey. His brother is in the Indian navy.

ANOTHER MILLION JAP ORANGES DUE IN VICTORIA THURSDAY

Second shipment of Japanese oranges for the Christmas season is due here from the Orient Thursday, Cecil Ridout of King Bros., shipping agents, said today.

At least 20,000 boxes in bundles of two boxes each will be discharged from the U.S. freighter Philippine Bear at the V.M.D. outer wharf.

Last Frjday 20,600 bundles—41,200 boxes—were unloaded at Ogden Point from the George Luckenbach. They are now being sold in food stores throughout the city.

U.S. Army In Korea Hustles Youth, 16, From Front Back To School In Kentucky

TOKYO (AP)—The army has hustled a 16-year-old doughboy from the Manchurian border back toward his Kentucky school.

"A fine thing," he snorted. "They catch up with we after the whole border campaign is over."

He is Pte. Lewis R. Norman of Hopkinsville, Ky. As he stepped from a plane in Tokyo, he said he didn't know who had tipped the army about his age, but added:

"I sure didn't."

Norman will be 17 Jan. 17.

The youngster came to Japan from the Yalu River frontier of Red Manchuria. He had fought his way northward to the border with the U.S. 7th Division's 17th Infantry Regiment.

Although the mercury dipped to 28 degrees below zero, he had no pile lining for his thin parka.

"I hope I never see snow again," he said. "I'm going back to school, graduate and then maybe enlist in the air force. I've had enough of the infantry. Heck, I even had one heel shot off my shoe the other day. That's too close."

CITY COUNCIL GETS CHUCKLE

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—City council got a chuckle this week at a description of it by a minister. The minister brought a group of children to a council meeting here so the party could see "the process of democratic government at its lowest level."

Mt. Etna Was In Slumber—Then

Though silently poking its cratered peak through clouds in picturesque fashion when this picture was taken from R.A.F. Boston attack bomber during war by Times sports editor Bill Walker, Sicily's Mt. Etna currently is belching forth streams of molten lava in its worst eruption in 40 years. Six hundred villagers of Milo are ready to flee from 5,000-foot wide path of lava from 37 holes in Etna's side.

New Church Group Talks For 31,183,227 Members

National Council Established In U.S. Co-ordinates Protestant, Orthodox Works

CLEVELAND, O. (AP)—The National Council of the Churches of Christ, manifesting "the essential oneness" of 29 Protestant and Eastern Orthodox churches, was born today.

Formal formation of the council, which will co-ordinate the work of 31,183,227 communicants, came this morning in Cleveland's giant auditorium.

This is one of the most significant movements by the Protestant churches since the Reformation, wherein Protestantism itself was born.

Some say today's ceremony marks a more important religious event than the forming of the World Council of Churches at Amsterdam, the Netherlands. The National Council, they say, is an action organization.

"This national council of churches is the fruition of a spirit of unity which has long been growing," said Dr. Ralph W. Sockman of New York, pastor of the Christ (Methodist) Church Tuesday night in a sermon at the constituting convention's opening worship service.

"The religious world has been waiting and calling for some great act of faith to arouse and inspire the churches. This is the greatest forward step toward religious unity which America has yet seen, and it may well prove epochal."

Today's action crowns the work of 10 years by eight interdenominational church agencies and an idea that has been a part of the Protestant scene for two decades.

The eight agencies which took the initiative in planning the council are the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ, Foreign Missions Conference, Home Missions Council, International Council of Religious Education, Missionary Education Movement, National Protestant Council on Higher Education, United Council of Church Women and the United Stewardship Council.

CAMPAIGN LACKS CONTESTS

RIDGETOWN, Ont. (CP)—The Junior Chamber of Commerce here is an unhappy group of young men.

They made extensive preparations for a "get out and vote" municipal election campaign, including the printing of large posters and a brochure giving a brief history of each candidate.

Tuesday night every municipal office was filled by acclamation.

Drew Calls On Government For Attack Against Living Costs

OTTAWA (CP)—George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said Tuesday the "very grave news" from Korea brings home to all Canadians "the dreadful reality of the mounting tension between the free nations and the Soviet empire."

"The road ahead is going to be hard and long," he added. "It is going to demand economic as well as military efforts on a greatly-expanded scale."

Mr. Drew referred to the Korean developments in an address prepared for delivery on the CBC free-time political broadcast.

Canadians now were engaged in a long drawn out struggle "for the survival of the free way of life."

"Let us not pretend to ourselves that it is anything less than that. We all hope we can win that struggle without a general military conflict. That hope can only be fulfilled if the free nations are able to build up their defence forces to such a measure of combined strength that the Kremlin will not dare to challenge them.

"At the same time, it is necessary to preserve the living standards we are spending so much to defend."

Unwanted Hitchhikers

VIENNA (AP)—United States military police said last night that American motorists are being forced to pick up unwanted Russian soldier hitch-hikers on the international highway between Vienna and the west.

Police said Soviet sentries halt American cars and refuse them permission to go ahead unless they make room for the hitch-hikers.

$11,000,000 Tenders

Canal Proposed To Ease Flood Threat, Winnipeg

WINNIPEG (CP) — Premier Douglas Campbell said here that studies are under way to determine whether a canal can be built northward from the Assiniboine River to channel floodwaters into Lake Manitoba.

The lake is about 12 miles north of the Assiniboine at Portage la Prairie. The river flows eastward across Manitoba and empties into the Red at Winnipeg. There is always a danger that the spring crests of the two rivers may coincide at their juncture and bring flood calamity to Winnipeg.

Premier Campbell discussed the projected diversion in a statement Tuesday reviewing measures under way or in the planning stage to protect Manitoba from floods such as the Red River disaster of last spring.

He said that in co-operation with the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Administration the possibilities of diverting the Assiniboine are being surveyed. At the same time, the possible development of reservoir sites on the river is under study.

Western legend has it that many years before the coming of the white man to the prairies the Assiniboine actually did flow into Lake Manitoba.

'Mercy Killing' Rejected In Britain

LONDON (Reuter)—A proposal by Lord Chorley, a Labor peer, to legalize voluntary "mercy killing" was rejected by the government in the House of Lords Tuesday night. Peers who are doctors warmly attacked the suggestion that the medical profession should be forced to accept the role of "executioners." Lord Chorley, a lord-in-waiting to the King, did not press his motion to a vote.

RETURN THAT OLD ROCKER AND RESTORE YOU MENTAL BALANCE

BOSTON (AP)—Put that old rocker back in the family "parlor" and presto! You can restore peace of mind to a harried generation—so says Milton Babcock, who is not a psychiatrist, but director of the Boston Antiques Exposition.

"Mental experts are puzzled by the soaring mental breakdowns of individuals, but they can look to the family parlor for a cause," he says.

"The rocker has disappeared.

"The rocker is a terrific tonic for the mind. If you're mad you can blow off steam with accelerated rocking. If you're tired, just tilt back and forth slowly and it soothes your cares away."

CHANGES IN DESIGN

Extended Rear Fenders, On New Car Model For 1951

By DAVID J. WILKIE

DETROIT (AP)—At least one more 1951 model automobile will have an entirely new body. Another will emphasize extended rear fenders and redesigned brakes.

Heavy outlay for design changes was not part of the 1951 plans of any manufacturer. Yet the altered rear fenders on one car alone cost more for new dies than often was spent before the Second World War for some complete retooling jobs.

Next of the new models to appear probably will be Chevrolet's 1951 vehicles. They will be shown by dealers Dec. 9. Dec. 11 will come Pontiac's new models. Pontiac originally planned the dealer showing for Dec. 4, but had to delay it because of a body shortage.

The procession of new models yet to come includes Cadillac, Buick, Oldsmobile and all the Chrysler units. Some will run over into January, although just about all will be on the assembly lines before the year-end.

Among the major changes already shown are Studebaker's new V-8 engine, Hudson's new Hornet model and Packard's entirely new body styling. The Hornet line has an entirely new power plant, and hydromatic transmission also has been adapted to the 1951 Hudson cars.

BOY FALLS, LOSES EYE

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP)—Wayne Thompson, three-year-old son of Harold Thompson of nearby St. Mary's, had an eye removed at Stratford General Hospital Tuesday after the eye had been pierced by a rose thorn. It was believed the boy fell on a rose bush at his home in St. Mary's.

Large B.C. Dog Food Plant Starts Work

VANCOUVER (BUP) — Fido saw a modernistic plant opened for his benefit in Vancouver today.

Dr. Ballard's opened its new $500,000 dog food plant on Lulu Island. The plant, employing 50 persons and covering 30,000 square feet, will turn out 240 cans of dog food per minute and will have a capacity of 75,000 cans per day.

Liquor Sales In Quebec At All-Time High

OTTAWA (CP) — "Astronomical" figures are being spent on liquor in Quebec, the Canadian Temperance Federation's biennial meeting was told Tuesday.

Miss C. C. Sifton of Montreal, executive secretary of the Quebec Temperance League, said that in 1948-49 a total of $53,000,000 in sales was made through Quebec liquor stores. Sales of spirits have climbed 185 per cent since 1925; wine sales more than 56 per cent.

However, Miss Sifton said, Quebec now has a "total abstinence" group known as Les Cercles Lacordaire et Ste. Jeanne D'Arc. It has a membership of 80,000.

Some 50 delegates from nine provinces, all except Newfoundland, where a temperance organization is being organized, are attending the two-day meeting.

W. C. Good of Brantford, Ont., was named president of the federation, succeeding Roscoe Rodd of Windsor, Ont.

Times Photographer Uses New Speedlight Camera As Cougars Trim League-Leading Royals

While the Cougars were stopping Babe Pratt's Royals, 4 to 1, at the Memorial Arena last night, Times cameraman Irving Strickland was initiating a new Strobolight camera. Shutter speed of the camera enables photographers to arrest such action at 1-10,000th of a second. (Left) Note the clarity of the puck on Bob Bergeron's stick as he clears loose puck from Royals' citadel after Lucien Dechene had made a diving save on a shot by Cougars' Reg Abbott (not shown). Pratt is to Bergeron's right. (Centre) A little happier than last Friday, Cougars' Jerry Cotnoir records smile as he sits in dressing-room after scoring first win for Cougars. (Right) A special guest for a piece of Fiori Goegan's birthday cake, which was presented by Cougars' Booster Club, Geoff Burman gets two helpings from Goegan for scoring second and winning goal. Goegan will be 23 on Thursday.

VIEWS OF SPORT

By RED SMITH

NEW YORK—In 1948 Lou Boudreau established himself as a thinker of practically unspeakable intellectual powers by employing the soundest strategy yet conceived for the management of a baseball team. His methods had the simplicity that is the hallmark of genius. When his Cleveland Indians needed runs, their astute manager batted in runs; when they were defending a lead, their intelligent shortstop cut off enemy hits and turned them into double plays.

Smith

Against a mentality of such capacity and force, nothing could prevail. The Indians won the closest of all American League pennant races and defeated the Boston Braves in the World Series, four games to two.

All through that winter, Boudreau sat on his upholstered laurels, rising only to deny the allegation of toastmasters that he was the greatest leader since Hannibal, the greatest shortstop since Wagner and, altogether, the greatest thing since the invention of indoor plumbing.

Against His Better Judgment

At a dinner in New York, Boudreau's employer of that time, Bill Veeck, told how he had endeavored to deal Boudreau off to the Browns after the 1945 season, and how the pressure of public opinion in Cleveland had forced him, against his own judgment and preference, to let Lou hang around and lead the Indians to their first championship in 28 years.

As manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, Eddie Dyer directed teams that won a National League pennant and a world championship and never finished worse than second until the retreads wore out this year. The Red Sox were heavily favored in the World Series of 1946 and the Cardinals brought off an upset partly because Dyer's tactics against Ted Williams—an over-shifted defence set up with mocking ostentation, plus pitching that was always in on Ted's fists—reduced the Boston strong boy to the status of spectator.

Over the years, the precision-tooled machines turned out by Joe McCarthy achieved individual proficiency, over-all polish and a record for success unapproached anywhere else since the origin of the round bat.

Shotton Had No Excuses

In one season as stand-in for Leo Durocher in Brooklyn and in two summers on his own as the Dodgers' licensed djinn, Burt Shotton managed two pennant winners, finished second the other time with a team that was not eliminated until the last inning of the year's last game.

Coming up from the minors with a lofty reputation as a practising genius, Billy Meyer took over in Pittsburgh two years ago and began causing miracles like an ambidextrous mandrake. He was the choice of many scholars for manager-of-the-year and his sleight-of-hand so bedazzled the brethren that the Pirates were touted widely for the 1949 pennant.

If, within the last five years, all these men have given evidence of possessing special equipment for the job as manager, it is straining probability to suggest that they all have lost their gifts.

Yet Boudreau and Dyer have been relieved of their commands since the 1950 season ended. McCarthy retired in mid-season, leaving dry eyes all over Boston.

Everything written about Shotton has implied that he held his job in Brooklyn on Rickey's sufferance alone.

Accomplished Politeness

There is no group in the nation more accomplished at passing the buck than the executives of major league ball clubs. Their skill in this field has long since ceased to surprise the fans. The public takes it for granted that defeat means unemployment for the manager, no matter how obvious it may be that the team couldn't have won under anybody.

The owner does not blame himself if his own stupidity or cupidity inspired player deals that worked out badly. He does not advise the public that it is because of his parsimony that the club lacks players of championship class. He fires the manager.

He is, however, almost always polite about it. Along with the announcement that the manager "has submitted his resignation for the best interests of the team" there is usually a statement that the owner "in no way holds the manager responsible for the disappointing showing of the club." This looks like English, but it is in fact Esperanto which all sports page readers translate as follows: "My manager is a bum and he is through, the bum."

Disputed Goal Is Protested

A protest filed with the executive of the Commercial Hockey League last night came as an aftermath of a disputed goal in the Meteors-Co-ops Commercial Hockey League game Monday.

The marker was the final goal of the game, at the 19-minute mark, when Co-ops Norm Lacree fired the puck over the prostrate body of Meteor goalie Derek McCooey. Gladwell coach Frank Sargison has claimed that Ed Varga was holding McCooey on the ice when the goal was scored. The protest has now been put in writing and awaits the return of league president Jim Lackie from Vancouver before a ruling will be made.

'Tres Bien', Said Cotnoir And the Cougars Agreed

Return To Form To Drub Royals For Third Time

By BILL WALKER

This is part two and the concluding installment on Jerome Napoleon Cotnoir who last night played a lot of goal for the Cougars as they defeated the league-leading New Westminster Royals, 4 to 1.

Last Friday night you will recall, we left Cotnoir sitting in the dressing room mumbling these words: "My first game . . . my first game . . . seven goals . . . my first game." That was the evening that Portland Eagles defeated the Cougars 7 to 3.

Last night we found Cotnoir sitting in the same place before game time, chewing gum.

"Give her the works tonight,"

	W.	L.	T.	F.	A.	Pts.
New Westminster	14	8	2	95	66	30
Portland	12	8	2	101	76	26
Tacoma	10	9	4	71	75	24
VICTORIA	8	9	4	70	76	20
Vancouver	8	11	4	66	89	18
Seattle	8	9	2	36	57	8

we said, as we left the Cougars to some final words of advice from coach Roger Leger.

"Tres Bien," Cotnoir replied.

And "Tres Bien" it was; not only for Cotnoir, who held the league-leading Royals at bay and deserved a shutout, but also for the Cougars, who must have decided that Cotnoir wasn't going to be the only star of this performance.

REHEARSALS PAY OFF

Taking the cue from director Leger, who apparently had put the boys through some stiff rehearsals since their last showing, the Cougars as a whole played an improved brand of hockey in stopping the Royals for the third time this season.

They misread a few lines during the three-act drama, but that was only because they tried to make the victory more decisive. They wanted this show to draw rave press notices, and it was while they were taking curtain calls for their 3 to 0 second-period lead that the Royals managed to heckle the defence long enough for Ken Ullyott to slip one into the corner of the cage.

RATE STARS

Though we have made Cotnoir the chief actor in this afterpiece to his curtain raiser Friday night, there were others who played strong supporting roles—so strong in fact that some critics opine that they should deserve five-star rating.

First there's Joe Evans and his "policeman" linemates, Bernie Strongman and Joe Medynski.

Taking the cue from Medynski, who scored the Cougars first goal and whom he (Evans) prompted with an assist, Joe went on to get another assist on Strongman's marker (the Cougars third). He then got credit for a goal of his own when his shot deflected into the net off a Royal defenceman.

That made it a goal apiece for the "killers," two coming in the second period when the Cougars scored three times and the third by Evans late in the final period.

IMPORTANT ROLE

Then there's Geoff Burman.

Geoff notched his first goal of the season for the Cougars in the second period and it proved to be the winner. It was a picture goal on a play he himself set up with Reg Abbott supporting well for the assist.

And Stan Long.

Stan made two beautiful defensive plays that may have saved goals as he hooked the puck from Royal forwards as they were breaking in the clear.

But one can't go on mentioning individual performances. The entire Cougar cast drew the plaudits of the audience at the half-filled arena. Why such a change from the slapstick of last Friday? Because the Cougars were skating. That's why. And they skated the Royals into the ice.

LEGER PLEASED

Leger was smiling after the curtain had been rung down. "That's a good start for our road trip," he said, "and don't be surprised if we pick up at least four points on the road. Maybe more. If the boys skate like they did tonight, we'll win, even against Portland."

What happened to Cotnoir?

He was sitting on that bench as we left—munching on a piece of Fiori Goegan's birthday cake and sipping a bottle of coke. "I felt good tonight," he said, "and wasn't nervous at all."

Goegan got the cake in honor of his 23rd birthday—which actually isn't official until Thursday—from the Cougars' Booster Club in a between-period presentation.

Summary follows:

Victoria 4, New Westminster 1

First period—Scoring: none. Penalties: Lepine, Huddleston.

Second period—1, Victoria, Medynski (Evans, Goegan) 4.48; 2, Victoria, Burman (Abbott) 12.17; 3, Victoria, Strongman (Evans) 16.03. Penalties: none.

Third period—4, New Westminster, Ullyot (Pratt, O. Dorohoy) 11.14; 5, Victoria, Evans, 15.51. Penalty: Webster.

Canucks Nip Ironmen As Murph Chased

VANCOUVER (CP)—Although Coach Murph Chamberlin was bounced from the bench in the first period for using language not befitting the ears of a referee, his Vancouver Canucks held on to edge Seattle Ironmen 4 to 3 last night.

But it was a close call for the rekindled Canucks, finally showing some form in their Pacific Coast Hockey League play. Ironmen, the homeless cellar club, didn't play like defeatists.

Vancouver outscored Seattle 2 to 1 in the first, then potted two goals without a return in the second. In the third, however, the Ironmen came back for two goals. The Ironmen open at home tonight against New Westminster.

Summary follows:

Vancouver 4, Seattle 3

First period—1 Vancouver, Ballance (Jackson) :31; 2, Vancouver, Unger (Russell, Crozier) 12.41; 3, Seattle, Bloom (Leswick) 13.46. Penalties: Narduzzi, Lofvendahl.

Art Ngai Tops Table Tennis Performances

In leading the Slashers to victory in the Victoria Table Tennis Association games Monday night, Art Ngai marked his 40th game without a defeat in the five-week-old season. The clever Chinese paddler leads the league standings.

Nancy Craig is second highest with a record of 25 wins and three losses.

Slashers topped Shawnigan Monday by a 23-to-9 score. Students were victors over Capitals by the same margin.

Hollywood defeated Aces 20 to 12, gaining a first-place tie in the standings with idle Gordon Head.

Scores and standings follow:

SALMON ALTERNATE TO BEAUMONT ON SWIM TEAM

VANCOUVER (CP)—When the Centennial Games open in New Zealand, and barring unforeseen circumstances, Lucien Beaumont of Quebec City definitely will be Canada's contender for 100 yards freestyle honors.

And Peter Salmon, the Victoria, B.C., swimmer, still is the leading alternate.

Beaumont and Salmon placed first and second when trials for the swim meet were held earlier in the month. But the 100 yards event was thrown open for further competition when the C.A.S.A. ruled Beaumont's try was not made in a regulation pool.

Both did better in the retrials. Beaumont's time was 53.1, compared to 52.5, and Salmon clipped 1.6 seconds off his previous effort of 54.7.

BRION CONFIDENT HE WILL KAYO JOE

Predicts End Within Seven Rounds; Louis May Retire If He Makes Poor Showing

CHICAGO (AP)—Young Cesar Brion, full of vim and confidence, predicts a kayo within seven rounds of Joe Louis in their scheduled 10-rounder in Chicago Stadium tonight.

The 23-year-old Argentine heavyweight is at the short end of 4-1 odds to defeat Joe. Louis, trying a second comeback at 36, after being decisively beaten in 15 rounds by Ezzard Charles in September, still thinks he packs enough dynamite to chill Brion.

Although not appearing impressive in training sessions, Louis says he will try to end the fight as soon as possible. He would not name the round.

"I'll shoot for a knockout from the very start and throw as many rights as possible," promised Louis.

A crowd of possibly 10,000 and a $50,000 gate, largest since the International Boxing Club began stadium promotions 18 months ago, may be realized. Louis will receive 37½ per cent of the net gate. His payoff may amount to less than $10,000—the smallest purse for a regular bout he ever has received. He made more in some of his exhibitions two years ago.

Both fighters will get a flat $1,000 each from radio and television fees.

Brion will weigh 194, spotting the ex-heavyweight champion some 21 pounds. Joe expects to be three pounds lighter than when he met Charles.

OFF NIGHT

"I believe my bad showing against Charles was because I just had an off night," said Louis. "I'm going to find out for sure tonight."

This will be Joe's first fight since the Charles bout in New York. After that bout he announced, for the second time, that he was retiring. A poor showing against Brion may make it definite.

Brion is an aggressive, stand-up fighter who lacks a chilling punch. His main bid to fame was a second-round knockout of Tami Mauriello in 1949. He has won 31 out of a 34 bouts.

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor.

First we would like to introduce Mr. Emmett Watson of the Seattle Post Intelligencer sports staff; and we perform the duty by proxy, the approximate distance between Mr. Watson and ourselves being one C.P.R. steamer, a $2 taxi ride and a needle.

The needle belongs to Emmett and he uses it every day with a little help from some chap named Watson in a daily column in the P.I. entitled: "Quick Watson, the Needle," which is a daily feature of that newspaper.

Walker

Having duly performed our duty in identifying Mr. Watson, hereinafter referred to as Emmett (after the above build-up we feel like old friends), we feel no compunction whatsoever in stealing his stuff.

Being the baseball expert of the P.I., Emmett is well qualified to speak on baseball, and by baseball we mean the A's new manager. To be specific—Dick Barrett.

Emmett in his Sunday column of recent date gives an interesting review on Mr. Barrett who opens a one-year run at Athletic Park next spring.

Fruit Salads For Fried Chicken

To quote Emmett in part: "Naturally, the manager of the ball club is supposed to set an example regards training rules. Mr. Barrett was no problem in this respect, except when in the vicinity of food, which was practically always. For years his employers fought to keep him away from butterscotch, sundaes, fried chicken, pies, potatoes, mayonnaise, and other enemies of his waistline. On his good days Dick (Barrett) could plough through the Pacific Coast League's $4.50 per day meal allowance at one sitting—but what happens in the W.I.L. where his allowance is considerably less?"

This revelation by Emmett is rather interesting, insofar as we lunched with Mr. Barrett during his recent successful job-hunting expedition to the city.

On that occasion, Mr. Barrett, who probably thinking his record of $4.50 a meal had preceded him, at first declined lunch, but on acquiescing ordered—not a steak; not fried chicken; but FRUIT SALAD. And he even scraped the excess butter off a piece of rye bread when he perceived the watchful eye of Reg Patterson observing his every move. Reg himself has never been known to lose a battle with knife and fork and he was undoubtedly pacing himself for the ordeal with the reputed Coast League champion. Reg won hands down from Barrett but got an unexpected and torrid struggle from this end.

An Elusive Wraith!

Emmett preceded his remarks concerning Mr. Barrett's flair for food with a brief account of Mr. Barrett's tenure with the Philadelphia A's (in this respect he titled his episode: "From the A's to the A's"). Get it? This dealt with Mr. Barrett's playing football while with the A's under Connie Mack.

To quote Emmett again:

"'Mr. Barrett or Mr. Oliver or whatever name you are using these days,' said Mack, 'I see by the papers that you are an elusive wraith.'

"'Well, I am a little hard to catch,' admitted Barrett modestly.

"'In more ways than one,' said Mr. Mack, coldly. 'My catcher, Mr. Cochrane, tells me he has to dig every third curve ball you throw out of the dirt. In short, I do not care for pitchers who play football and . . .'

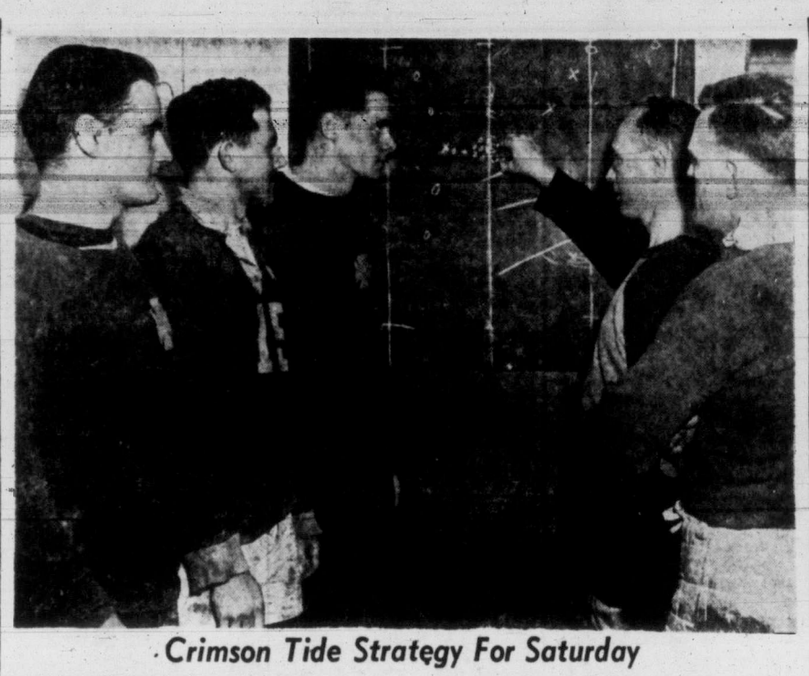
"Thus ended Mr. Barrett's first association with the Athletics, Philadelphia variety."

Who Will Give Who The Finger?

Emmett also brought up the point that Mr. Barrett was always hard to get out—out of the pitcher's box, that is. It appears that he did not always agree with his managers as to the proper time he should take his leave.

"The question arises," continues Emmett, "how will Barrett, the manager, react if Victoria pitchers put up the same type of argument?"

In closing we might say to Mr. Watson that we doubt that Mr. Barrett will play football up here in Canada, though he might find the plate elusive. Concerning those pitchers: It should prove interesting, very interesting; especially when manager Barrett decides that pitcher Barrett is coming out. How will pitcher Barrett react? Elementary, my dear Watson.



Crimson Tide Strategy For Saturday

Crimson Tide Will Roll Against Lions Saturday

Victoria's all-star English rugby team hopes to mount the first rung of the McKechnie Cup ladder Saturday at Macdonald Park.

Sid Gaunt's 15-man squad will enter the six-game, home-and-home series this week-end when they tackle Vancouver Lions. Games with North Shore All-Blacks and U.B.C. Thunderbirds follow.

Manager Bruce McLean, coach Gaunt and captain Derek Hyde-Lay watched the McKechnie Cup gang closely last night in a stiff pre-game drill. They were more than satisfied with the performance of the reps. The team is strong in every department and has a great fighting spirit.

Strategist Keith MacDonald, who will captain the scrum, is an experienced veteran who has seen action with mainland teams as well as in Victoria. His home team in the Victoria League, James Bay Athletic Club, showed the results of early-season coaching and leadership by holding the top-place College men to a tie last Saturday.

FAST FORWARD LINE

Shifty Ray Mitchell, who will play stand-off for the reps, is one of the most agile and effective runners in the Victoria league; Reg Lott, of Normal, an effective man in the scrum, is expected to bring steadiness as well as effective running and tackling to the team; fleet John Campbell, a tower of strength for College, will get a large part of the ball-carrying chores.

Mike Jones and Harry Turner, fast-moving forwards, have been favorite performers every time out this year. In the kicking department Victoria has big John Shipley, Harry Mark and Art Hicks, all formidabble men with the boot.

With the entry of North Shore All-Blacks, something new has been added to McKechnie Cup play. For many years the series has brought together U.B.C. Thunderbirds, a Vancouver rep team, and a Victoria rep team. This year the All-Blacks have elected to become a fourth in the round-robin series.

The Lions, to be seen in action Saturday, are an all-star aggregation chosen from the Rowing Club, ex-South Burnaby, West Vancouver, ex-Britannia, Vindex and Meralomas clubs of the mainland city.

For the past four years the Thunderbirds have succeeded in dominating the McKechnie Cup games. This year, according to Sid Gaunt, things will be different.

VICS TO HOST NANAIMO SIX

Victoria Vics will face Nanaimo in an Island Junior Hockey League game at the Memorial Arena tonight at 8. The junior club tilt will be the feature game of the minor card.

Vics are undefeated this season but have been tied once by Nanaimo. The up-island team will be looking for its first win.

In a preliminary, Royals will play Senators in the Juvenile League, with the face-off at 7.

Y.M.C.A. SWIM CLUB SCORES

Neptune's Subjects Captivate As Tiny Royal Pair Hold Court

The criterion of any professional performance is that the difficult thing shall be made to look easy. By that standard, "Neptune's Follies, 1950," staged last night in the Crystal Garden by the Y.M.C.A. Swim Club, was thoroughly professional.

Grace, and poetry of motion, in an imaginative setting that does great credit to the show's producers, were achieved with scarcely a ripple on the placid green waters of the pool.

ROYAL PATRONAGE

In the tradition of show business, Neptune's Follies put its best foot forward with "Springtime." A dimunitive King Neptune, with his pretty little escort (Ricky Todd and Jane Turner), opened the performance from a pearly pink boat drawn by three graceful white swans. Their majesties lent dignity and pomp to a lovely ballet duet with chorus.

From the initial program number through to the closing production "Awakening of the Water Lilies," the pace was varied and punctuated with enthusiastic applause from the rather small crowd.

A group of tiny swim club members, with the aplomb of old stagers, cavorted through "Penguins at Play." Solemn black tails and long white beaks gave the comic penguin effect. Senior members, in an amazing diving sequence, followed the tots with a slapstick routine that brought gales of laughter from the spectators.

INDIAN FANTASY

A primitive atmosphere was induced by a floating campfire in the "Fire Dance" number. A group of poised girls, in full Indian regalia, performed the characteristic ballet.

"Sailbad the Sinner," a sleepy character dreaming of mermaids, gave comedy relief in a brief act preceding the breath-taking "Fountain Fantasy." This full-scale water ballet was one of the highlights of the show, and lost nothing by contrast with the burlesque "Fountain Fantastic" which followed immediately after.

Mom, pop and the four kids ended the humorous sequences with a typical "Family Picnic" in the unaccustomed rowboat. The act produced chuckles and rollicking guffaws as the unfortunate family gave a straight-faced performance of the regular family outing, even to forgetting the lunch basket on the beach.

With the water lily ballet, set to the haunting music of Edward McDowell, the show closed in an atmosphere almost poignant. As the lights went up the spectators awoke with a strong sense of unreality to the fact that they had seen two hours slip by.

Hardworking producers of the Follies were swim club president Jack Todd and Mrs. Todd, Mr. and Mrs. John Naysmith, Rita Norbury, Jean Mills, Archie and Mrs. McKinnon, Bob Johnstone and Jim Reside. Mrs. George Wheaton and Mrs. G. B. B. Buffam were members of the committee which prepared the splendid costumes.

Clippers Trip Kerrisdale In Overtime

NANAIMO, B.C. (CP)—Given a stiff battle last night by Kerrisdale Monarchs, coach Ed Shamlock's Nanaimo Clippers came through with a 6 to 5 overtime win in a Mainline-Okanagan hockey game here.

After taking a 3 to 0 lead, Clippers found Kerrisdale still much in the game as they scored three in a row to tie the game up. Score going into the third period had the teams on an even footing at 4 to 4.

Each team netted one in the third, with the winning goal coming off the stick of Andy Clovechok at the 31-second mark in the overtime frame. Clippers skated faster throughout the game, but Kerrisdale matched this with the ability to take every advantage that offered.

SHOTTON MOST SUCCESSFUL

Brooklyn Fans Asked For Change In Pilots

NEW YORK (AP)—Only fear over passible public reaction prevented the Brooklyn Dodgers from renaming Burt Shotton as manager for 1951.

The Associated Press learned from a reliable source today that Shotton had the inside track to return for his fourth full season as Brooklyn boss until as late as 10 days ago. It was only when the club officials became convinced that fans desired a change that the idea of rehiring Brooklyn's most successful pilot was dropped.

"Shotton is Walter O'Malley's (club president) man," the source said. "O'Malley is of the opinion that Shotton is a fine manager and did a good job last year. However, bad publicity has hurt Burt with the fans.

"As recently as two weeks ago O'Malley allowed it to trickle out that Shotton might be rehired. He wanted to get the fans' reaction. And brother, he got it.

"A flock of letters, mostly criticizing such a move, finally caused O'Malley to discard the idea of retaining Shotton."

The story took on more credence when O'Malley told a press conference yesterday that he still considers Shotton a fine manager. But O'Malley named Charlie Dressen as his new manager.

O'Malley, privately, has little hope of inducing Shotton to remain in the Dodger organization. It is his belief that Burt will rejoin his old pal, Rickey, either as manager, coach or chief scout of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

'Iceless Wonders' Have Come Long Way But Additional Help Still Prime Need

V.M.H.A. Now Owns Equipment Worth $8,000

By LANCE WHITTAKER

The "Iceless Wonders" have come a long way since 1944.

That was the year they earned the nickname by playing a full season of heads-up hockey, although they didn't skate a lick in Victoria. There was nothing to skate on.

That was the year they borrowed ice from Nanaimo, putting out a buck-and-a-half for transportation every Sunday, plus a dollar for meals, and repaid their island hosts gratefully by whipping them soundly in the finals for the championship.

Quite a team, those "Iceless Wonders."

MAKE SENIOR RANKS

Today, six years later, many of them are playing a mighty good brand of hockey. Gordie Parks, of the smart Brandon Wheat Kings, Connie McBeth, a former Cougar, and the Commercial League's Ab Ellis and Archie Sholes are all products of Victoria's Minor Hockey Association. Others are graduating every year.

Best hockey prospects from the senior ranks come from the all-star teams that are chosen from each division at playoff time. All-stars in the bantam, midget and juvenile and junior divisions play for the Island title, and, if successful, go on to the mainland seeking provincial honors.

PAY OWN WAY

Victoria rep teams also played exhibitions last year at Tacoma, New Westminster, Kerrisdale and Vancouver arenas. The boys pay their own way on these jaunts as game proceeds and other minor league revenue are being used exclusively for equipment.

This is in line with the policy that the lads should make some personal sacrifice for their sport. Other provisions: the boys provide their own sticks and skates; they pay season fees (bantam $3, midget $3.50, juvenile $4, and junior $6); and they can be suspended for profanity or smoking. Since minor league games start at 6.30 in the morning on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, they also have to be prepared to roll out of bed into the cold, grey dawn for their hockey.

ONE HOUR A WEEK

Biggest concern of officials is lack of ice. The 15 hours arena time now alloted to minor hockey works out to only an hour each week for each boy. As long as this condition continues, coaches cannot be expected to turn out star hockey players, but there appears to be little possibility of getting more time on the crowded arena schedule.

Next to shortage of ice, the minor league's biggest headache (you guessed it!) is shortage of help. Two or three fellows who could get out for an hour or two Tuesday, Thursday or Saturday morning would be making a big contribution. Bantam supervisor Laurie Perlette, Alex Byers of the juvenile division, or George Donaldson of the juniors are the men to see.

22 TEAMS PLAY

There have been many changes since minor hockey got its start at the old Willows Arena. Doug Fletcher, Ivan Temple and Ed Kelpin, who churned things up at the beginning and are still at the helm, sometimes wonder where it will end.

The first year saw three divisions with 12 teams in action; this year there are 22 teams in four divisions, comprising nearly 400 boys. The first year, league trophies hardly existed; this year there are 17 trophies for competition. The first year, $2,500 was scrounged from city businessmen to get equipment—almost any kind of equipment; this year the V.M.H.A. can boast the largest pool of boys' hockey equipment in Can[illegible] according to association president Doug Fletcher.

There is $8,000 worth, and all of the very best.

Fletcher will tell you: "It has to be of the best. The boys must get maximum protection while they are under our care, and anyway, the best is always the cheapest in the long run." This last statement is borne out by the fact that some of the equipment has been in use for seven years and is good for a lot of wear yet.

MUCH EXPENSE

In contrast to the paucity of sweaters, gloves and trunks in the beginning, the league officials spent $3,300 last year and $1,500 this year in new outfits. An inkling of the expense can be gained from the fact that 32 rolls of tape, at 42c a roll, has already been used this season.

In minor hockey, as in every boy activity, there is work and worry without end; but all is forgotten at playoff time. Then, with the chips on the blue line, Victoria's all-stars go roaring down the ice as taut coaches and managers chew their fingernails in an ecstasy of suspense. The raw, cold arena during early morning games, the build-up of the timid boy and the disciplining of the cocky kid—all are lost in the tremendous excitement of seeing the boys, your boys, fight like champions.

Victoria Cougars Of Another Year

One of the 22 teams in the Victoria Minor Hockey Association, the midget Maroons are a scrappy, hard-driving outfit who skate hard going and coming. Backrow, left to right: Buddy French, C. Bishop, Ted McChesney, J. Abercrombie, Ted Crozier, Harvey Gillis, L. Hargreave and Jerry Corbett. Front row: Bob Harrison, Harvey McMillan, Harley Fuhr, Garry Davis, A. Pike, Ken Birch and B. Cooper.

Robinson K.O.'s French Champion

PARIS (AP) — Welterweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson Monday stopped France's Jean Stock in 1.33 of the second round of a non-title 10-rounder.

Stock, a middleweight, was downed three times in the second round. The Frenchman was on his feet at the finish but the referee stepped between them and halted the uneven match.

Robinson, who did most of his "training" in night clubs and at receptions, weighed 156½ pounds, about five over his best fighting weight. Stock scaled 161.

Pats Outrough Moose Jaw Canucks

REGINA, Sask. (BUP)—The Regina Pats were within three points of the first-place Lethbridge Native Sons in the Western Canada Junior Hockey League Tuesday after walloping Moose Jaw Canucks 7 to 0.

The Pats' win came in a game marred by 23 penalties, 14 of them in a wild second period. The sentences included three majors and a misconduct.

New Fight Date Dec. 5

CINCINNATI (AP) — The heavyweight championship fight between Ezzard Charles, the defender, and Nick Barone has been postponed today until Dec. 5 because of inclement weather.

Quakers Gain As Edmonton Tied

CALGARY, Alta. (BUP)—The Saskatoon Quakers nibbled at the wide lead held by Edmonton Flyers by downing Calgary Stampeders 4 to 3 here in a Western Canada Senior Hockey League fixture.

The win moved the quakers one point closer to the Flyers, who were held to a 2 to 2 draw in Edmonton by the Regina Caps.

Cy Rouse of the Quakers and Archie Scott of Calgary topped the scorers with two each. Rouse scored the winner for Saskatoon in the third period.

Famous British Golfer Dies

LONDON (Reuter) — James Braid, 80, grand old man of British golf, died Tuesday.

He was five times winner of the British Open golf championship and was winner of the French championship in 1910.

Braid played for Britain against the United States in 1921 and for his native Scotland against England every year from 1903 to 1912. He was one of the first professionals to teach the game to the Duke of Windsor.

NEW YORK (AP) — Hill Prince, the bob-tailed galloper from Virginia which couldn't take the Kentucky Derby but came back to grab most other racing honors, was voted "American Champion" Monday by the Thoroughbred Racing Association's selection board.

TURKEY FOR SAILORS

Ample Christmas Dinner On Destroyers At Korea

The ships' companies of three Canadian destroyers serving with United Nations forces in the Korean theatre will sit down to turkey dinners this Christmas.

The Cayuga, Sioux and Athabaskan have been drawing their food supplies from U.S. Navy stores depots in Japan and a check by officials at Naval Headquarters at Ottawa brought the assurance that provision would be made to supply the Canadian ships with the same menus as American vessels.

For Christmas dinner there will be soup, turkey with trimmings, pickles, pumpkin pie, ice cream and candy.

But—unless the cooks on board the ships make it themselves—there won't be any plum pudding. Plum pudding, it was explained, is not a traditional American dish and therefore will not be available from the U.S. Navy.

Individual officers and men will also have their own personal Christmas boxes, arrangements having been made to have Christmas mail for the three ships flown to Japan by R.C.A.F. airlift.

The "key men" of the SIGNALS

Because its job is communications — radio, electronics, telephony — the work of the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals is vital to the Canadian Army Active Force. Today — when the Canadian Army is growing rapidly to forestall any threat to our freedom — the Signals Corps must grow too.

Men are needed urgently to begin training immediately as Signals Corps operators: young men, quick-thinking, eager to master the skills that Signals operators must have.

The Canadian Army needs more men now. Signals must have more operators today! There's a place for you in this all-important corps. Canada needs you now! Report immediately for Active Force duty with the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals.

TO ENLIST YOU MUST:

1. Be a Canadian citizen or British subject.
2. Be between 17 and 29 years of age.
3. Be single.
4. Meet Army test requirements.
5. Volunteer for service anywhere.

They discovered Aluminum!

AN "INSIDE STORY"

1900—It wasn't only Grandma's cooking that drew the crowds. She had the first aluminum saucepan in town! In many other Canadian homes, too, this was the beginning of a bright, new era of better cooking utensils.

1925—When mother got married, she already knew how to enjoy life with aluminum. She brewed Dad's coffee in an aluminum pot... cooked those big family meals more easily in quick, even-heating aluminum.

1950—Today, daughter's kitchen belongs to the "aluminum age". She enjoys a larger selection of aluminum utensils. This "food-friendly" metal also protects the flavour, quality and purity of the foods she buys.

HINTS TO THE HOUSEWIFE

Whenever you see aluminum on the outside of a food or a drink, there's an "inside story" of cleanliness and purity.

Aluminum utensils clean easily. To remove natural deposit left by foods and water, use a tablespoon of vinegar in boiling water.

DON PONDERS EXAM

Fatherly Advice, Guidance, Pay, Leave Mark Initiation Into Air Force

By JIM McKEACHIE

The call of the wild blue yonder seems to have given way somewhat to the lure of a specialized trade—technical or otherwise—as far as Victoria is concerned.

They started attesting recruits at the newly-opened R.C.A.F recruiting centre at 1315 Government Street recently, and of those who have sworn the oath of allegiance to King and country, only a quarter were aircrew.

"I thought it would be the other way 'round, especially since all aircrew are commissioned now," said Flt.-Lt. Hugh Campbell, officer commanding the unit, "but it has been encouraging to see the interest in the air force."

Eight or nine young men apply daily, but because of the relatively high standards set by the service, only three or four of these prove acceptable.

Take the case of 19-year-old Donald Appleton of 828 Hampshire Road.

LIKE THE LIFE

The red-haired youth joined up because he thought he'd "like the life."

First step was a chat with Sgt. "Mickey" McGuire about R.C.A.F. pay and allowances, pensions, trades for which he is qualified, length of course, where he would go from here, and life in the air force generally.

Since all this failed to send Don back to his civilian job, he was handed an application form, then produced proof of education, birth certificate and so on.

There followed the usual classification tests for mental alertness and adaptability to trade courses and the like.

Don, who has worked as a clerk at the Canada Trust Co. in the city, thought he would like to continue along that line, so chose the trade of an administration clerk . . . or, as they are more commonly known in air force jargon, "clerk admin."

He found the tests to his liking, passed them successfully, and moved onto the next step in the jump from tweeds to blues.

A medical examination at the hands of Dr. W. D. Marshall was next on the list, with an X-ray thrown in.

All this has taken three or four days, and was carried out when Don got some time off from work.

That is one thing the recruiting officers emphasize—young men with big ideas about getting into uniform should not throw up their job until they have been assured of acceptance into the service.

Well, Don by this time was as good as in. Just as a final check before he was sworn in, he was introduced to F.O. Stan Jenkins, who handed out a few of the well-known air force "clues," and other councilling information.

Final step was the attestation before Flt.-Lt. Campbell, who, after the recruit was "in," gave what the service terms a "fatherly talk" in which the team spirit aspect of the air force was pointed out, along with other pertinent data.

With a travel warrant for a ticket to Aylmer, Ont., where he'll take his basic training, a train berth and meal tickets safely tucked away, the "sprog" was then given leave without pay until Jan. 2.

He'll continue in his civilian job and have Christmas and New Year's at home before starting his "new way of life."

Five months later, if all goes well, Don will have completed his training (two months' basic, three months on course at Trenton), and still be posted.

The R.C.A.F. will keep the Victoria Times informed from time to time on the progress of Don, and it probably won't be long till they send a picture of the former St. Louis College student in his new suit—"working for George."

PRISONER'S LAUGH ENDS

WINNIPEG (CP)—A prisoner who snickered when the judge referred to the trouble he had caused his "dear mother" was sentenced to five years in Stony Mountain Penitentiary for receiving stolen goods.

Miller Truen, 32, convicted six times previously, grinned at Judge J. I. Morkin's allusions to his family, but quickly lost the smile when the judge pronounced a five-year sentence. Truen was found guilty of receiving more than $100 worth of stolen cigarettes, tobacco and razor blades.

TALES OF A CENTURY AGO

Ontario Pioneers Enjoyed Frequent Turkey Dinners

By PERCY GHENT

TORONTO (CP)—One of the things Canada's pioneer settlers never worried about was the high price of turkeys. For them, a century or so ago, turkey dinners were commonplace affairs.

Josephv Pickering, an Englishman, was one of those settlers. He found life in Upper Canada so attractive that he wrote the "Emigrant's Guide to Canada," a bright book published in 1832. In the Ontario woods wild turkeys roamed in numbers, and he describes them as birds big and tender that made grand dinners.

In his day, of course, flocks of pigeons—the now extinct passenger pigeons—actually darkened the skies. He watched Indians spearing salmon by torchlight at the mouth of the Credit River, and their canoes, he says, were filled with the great shining fishes. On several trips across Lake Ontario by schooner or steamboats of early model, he was thrilled to see immense sturgeon leaping out of the water.

Beside the bay and the river Don at York (Toronto) in those days, waterfowl flourished in great flocks, and Pickering tells of the mighty pine forest east of the city and along the road to Kingston.

Mrs. Simcoe, wife of John Graves Simcoe, first Governor of Upper Canada, whose sketches and famous diary tell so much about Canada 150 years ago, also noted the abundant wild life on ever hand.

Soldiers at Newark, now Niagara - on - the - Lake, caught sturgeon at the mouth of the Niagara River that were often six feet long, and their catches of white fish were counted in hundreds. Canadian wild birds—blue jays, red-wing blackbirds, hummingbirds—never ceased to delight the gifted Mrs. Simcoe.

Denis Papin, who died in 1714, is believed the first man to have applied steam to produce power by raising a piston.

Fish Industry Methods Lag

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—The salt codfish industry in Newfoundland is "old-fashioned, antiquated, inefficient and unprofitable," in the opinion of Premier J. R. Smallwood.

Addressing the Society of United Fishermen here he said "the island has failed to keep up with the times.

"If John Cabot were to return to Newfoundland today he would find that the gasoline engine had replaced sails and oars, and that the codtrap had been added to the hookline and jig . . . Other than that there is no difference in our fishing methods than 450 years ago."

He told the gathering there are about 28,000 fishermen on the island, about 20,000 of them on the northeast coast. He compared their fishing grounds to a narrow belt of water about four miles thick and following the winding coastline. "If the fish come in," he said, "our fishermen work like dogs and catch them. But if the fish do not come in, the fishermen go on the dole."

Chronic Back Ailment Keeps Garbo From Screen Comeback

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—Maybe you'll read it in Garbo's autobiography someday, but the inside story on her veto of one film role after another is a back ailment that has caused her severe pain for many years and which has become aggravated in recent months.

• • •

The powers at Fox have decided that Dennis Day is a screen type after his click in "I'll Get By." He'll step before the cameras again in "The Belle of Market Street."

• • •

CLAIRE CHECKS CHATTER

Jane Russell may need a bale of hay and Jennifer Jones may be lost without rocks to slither over, but Claire pays strict attention to the lines they toss her in super-epic movie westerns.

She's always re-writing her dialogue.

"Somebody has to," she winced. "'Stage Coach' was a cinch. Nobody did much talking in that except Thomas Mitchell. But some of the others! Ugh! Elsie Dinsmore lines for the heroine. I fight for natural lines."

More than once, Claire's allergy to scripts that give off a peculiar cattar of skunk and dialogue that even Lassie would want to bury in the backyard, has kept her off the screen for long stretches.

Nowadays she thinks twice before turning down a role.

"You can't do it. An actress can't afford to be off the screen for a long time. Not if she wants to stay in the business."

Make a smeller and a good one comes along, she's found out.

After bouncing back to the movie lots in "The Lucky Stiff" following a long absence, she said "Oh, that terrible picture." Then she landed "Key Largo" and won an Oscar for her performance.

Her agent sends her flowers when she latches on to a good role.

When she reported for work in "The Best of the Bad Men," she got a ton of posies from him with a card that read:

"To the best of the bad women."

Claire laughed:

"I got him on the phone and said, 'Is this the best of the bad agents?'"

HOLLYWOOD REVIEW

Francis, Talking Mule, Must Cut Weight Down

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Again and again we have heard stories of stars who must lose weight for a picture. But here is one who has to shelve 250 pounds.

Rather than carry the gag any further, I'll explain that the star is Francis, the talking mule who made a comedy hit a season ago. Ever since then the famed quadruped has been resting on his laurels, among other things, on the Universal-International back lot.

But now the studio has cooked up an opus called "Francis Goes to the Races" to cash in on the initial film's success. And Francis has to slim down to his photogenic weight of around 700 pounds.

Francis is working off the poundage by taking forced runs and eating less hay. (He is never allowed such fattening foods as barley and oats.)

Although Francis is not allowed fattening foods, he is pampered in other ways. He is the only U-I star tucked in every night. A studio worker covers the mule with a blanket to keep him from catching cold.

Francis also requires make-up. Cameramen declare his coat is too light for photographic purposes, and so he is darkened with a vegetable dye.

Nothing, it seems, is too good for Francis.

Man Lost $800,000 2 Nights' Gambling

WASHINGTON (AP)—A witness told the U.S. Senate crime committee Tuesday he had heard that an oil man named Sinclair lost $800,000 in two nights at the Golden Shores Club, gambling resort in Miami Beach.

The testimony was given by George Patton, former deputy sheriff of Dade County (Miami). He said his information came from Jack Friedlander, whom he called a "fix-man" for gamblers.

Under questioning by committee counsel, he said he didn't know Sinclair's first name and identified him only as an "oil man."

Sinclair settled the loss for $500,000, Patton said. He said Sinclair had been steered to the club by a "well-known gambler named Ryan." He did not say when the incident occurred.

Nutritionists say the best way to cook potatoes, to preserve utmost food value, is to bake them.

More than four-fifths of the area of the Federation of Malaya is still covered by jungle.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY

It's unusual to throw away the same contract twice, but it can be done with a little effort. Curiously enough, however, South didn't realize when he played this hand that he had made a doubtful play at any point!

Dummy played low at the first trick (not a bad idea), but East put up the king anyway. East then returned a low club.

If South had been a cautious player, he would have discarded a heart on the second round of clubs. The rest would have been easy. There would be two spades to ruff in dummy, and South would have to be careful in getting back to his hand to draw trumps, but it wouldn't be really difficult.

However, South was not a cautious player. He expected both red suits to break 3-2, in which case he could make an extra trick—worth just 20 points. Hence he ruffed the second club with the jack of diamonds.

South continued by ruffing a low spade in dummy. He returned to his hand with a trump and ruffed the other low spade with dummy's last trump. He got back with a heart to the king and then led a high trump.

South was disappointed, but not discouraged, when East failed to follow on the second round of trumps. Having muffed one chance (at the second trick) to make his contract, South proceeded to muff another chance by laying down the queen of hearts from his hand.

This time there was no recovery. West ruffed the queen of hearts, and East eventually got a heart with his jack.

South could have made up for his early error if he had not tried to cash the queen of hearts. Correct play was to give West his trump trick without further ado. Since West was known to be out of clubs, he could not possibly embarrass declarer by his return lead.

If West returned a spade (as good as anything), South would win with the ace of spades and lead the last trump. This would leave South with three hearts to the queen in his own hand, while dummy would keep ace-small in hearts and any club.

By this time East would be mashed to a pulp. Which three cards would he keep? If he kept three hearts, dummy's club would be good. If East kept only two hearts, South's last heart would be good.

World Government Subject Of Forum

"World Government" was the topic of the public forum in the Douglas Hall, Arthur Turner, M.L.A., and Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, M.P., speaking.

To Gen. Pearkes a world government indicated a world power aimed at maintaining peace. The creation of such a power depended on the ability of the various nations to co-operate to that end, he said.

Mr. Turner cautioned his hearers that the acceptance of world government must depend on the form that government would take. To be acceptable, it must be a federation of democracies not a dominance of the strong.

The question period which followed produced a lively interchange of views from the audience.

This was the last forum for the term. Meetings will be resumed on the first Sunday in February.

The site of the first farm barn in Denmark, dating from A.D. 400-600, still is visible in West Jutland.

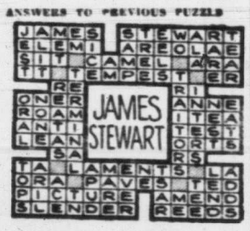
ANSWERS TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE



Burgess Bedtime Story

By THORTON W. BURGESS

The best of leaders have to take
The chance they've made a grave mistake. —Old Mother Nature.

Pilot the Whale was taking a chance. He knew he was taking a chance. He knew that those behind him trusted him and would follow wherever he might lead. He knew they would follow him blindly. Perhaps he didn't think this. Probably not. He knew it without thinking. He had been the leader of that small school of Whales for so long that he had become used to having them follow where he led. Wherever he might pilot them, they would follow.

They were swimming at top speed, such speed as only terror could drive them to. They were rushing through the water headlong and blindly, too terrified to look ahead to see where they were going. Anyway, nothing ahead of them could be worse than the living death that was behind them. It was the Terrible One, the Killer Whale, the most feared killer in all the Great Ocean. He was about a third bigger than Pilot, perhaps not quite that. Had he been ten times as big those fleeing cousins of his would would have been no more frightened. Of course, he kills to live, but it sometimes seems to others as if he lives to kill.

To Graywing the Gull and his friends, screaming with excitement as if they were trying to scream their heads off, it looked as if Pilot was leading his followers straight to disaster, for they were rushing straight for shore. As everybody knows, no Whale, big or little, can live on land. Already they were inside the entrance to a natural harbor, and the Terrible One was at the entrance. There could be no turning back. To do that would be to run straight into the dreadful jaws from which they were trying to escape.

A 'TERRIBLE MISTAKE'

"Pilot has made a mistake, a terrible mistake," cried one of the excited Gulls.

"What do you mean? What is his mistake?" Graywing wanted to know.

"They are trapped. He has led them into a trap!" cried the other Gull.

Now Graywing had known Pilot for a long time, ever since he had become the leader of that school of Whales. He had seen Pilot in some tight places before. "What makes you think they are trapped?" he wanted to know.

"Pilot has made a mistake, a terrible mistake," cried one of the excited gulls.

"They can't go back because of the Terrible One. If they keep on the way they are going now they will run aground. If that isn't being trapped, what is it?" replied the other.

"They should have gone out into the ocean and scattered. They couldn't have run aground out there," said another Gull.

"They haven't run aground yet," replied Graywing drily.

"But they will!" screamed several. Have you ever noticed how excitement makes folks scream?

"And," continued Graywing, "had they turned, one and perhaps more would surely have been caught by that killer. Not all could have escaped out there. You know that as well as I do."

"But most of them would have escaped. Now, trapped as they are, it will be a wonder if even one gets away," cried another.

LONG ISLAND

Now there was a long island with quite a stretch of water between it and the mainland, especially when the tide was high. But at low tide, even at half tide, as now, there were sandbars and mud flats on both sides of a winding channel of deep water, and that channel was narrow in places. Of course, those Gulls from up in the air could see all over that island and the channel and the marshes beyond, but not until Pilot turned the end of the island into that channel did it enter their heads that there might be a way of escape there. Even when they saw Pilot turn there they still thought those Whales were trapped. Even Graywing was doubtful.

Youbou Man Winner Of New Automobile

LAKE COWICHAN—Roderick St. Pierre, Youbou, with a one-dollar ticket, won a brand new car in a quiz contest at a dance sponsored by Lake Cowichan Kinsmen Club. The ticket was drawn by Miss Gurdev Hari, "Lady of the Lake" in Lake Cowichan's Labor Day celebration.

Girl Barber Wins In Shave Contest

VIENNA (Reuter)—A 15-year-old girl barber today bested male competitors in a quick-shave contest.

Blonde Ottilie Boehm gave a man a close shave in 32 seconds.

Although the men beat her on time—fastest shave was 14 seconds—Ottilie's job was the closest to perfection.

The speeders lost points for cuts or "missed corners."

Slim and shy, Ottilie has no intention of spending her life scraping beards off masculine chins. She wants to become a fully qualified ladies' hairdresser.

Miss Jessie fights for the Kids

A girl of 10 who "rolls" drunks, a 15-year-old prostitute, a boy who steals to buy heroin—these are kids Jessie Binford works to save.

December Reader's Digest tells how this spry woman of 74 has waged, for nearly 50 years, a courageous fight to protect Chicago's youth from crime and vice.

When "prominent people" protect a racket, Miss Jessie doesn't hesitate to mention names. When hoodlums threaten to "bump her off," she doesn't even ask police protection. Read her inspiring story.

METEORIC CRATERS

Great Holes Made By Clusters Not Masses

Much publicity has been given lately to "the largest meteoric crater in the world," discovered in Ungava, Quebec. In the following letter to the Times Dr. T. A. Rickard, noted author, mining editor and engineer, advances the theory that it is the explosion of steam caused by a small mass of meteorites, rather than solid masses of meteoric iron, which creates the crater.

By Dr. T. A. RICKARD

You have published several references to the huge cavity or crater discovered recently in northern Quebec.

Similar craters have been found in Arabia, Siberia, Australia and Arizona. The famous one at Canon Diablo, in Arizona, is 3,950 feet in diameter and 570 feet in maximum depth. Fragments of rock are littered about the surface for a distance of six miles from the crater, the largest blocks being nearest the rim.

The crater is surrounded by a parapet, or rim, of broken rock that rises to 160 feet above the nearly flat surrounding plain, or desert. The bottom, 410 feet below, is a level area of about 300 acres.

When it was first investigated, no less than 131 small pieces of meteoric iron were gathered, their weight ranging from a small part of an ounce to six and a half pounds. Altogether the locality has yielded 20 tons of such iron, varying in weight from a grain to 1,400 pounds, scattered over an oval area about nine miles in major diameter. Only four small pieces have been found inside the crater itself. The iron contains 7 per cent of nickel and enough carbon to make it a nickel-steel of the best quality.

NO TRACE OF IRON

A good deal of money was spent in an effort to discover the enormous mass of meteoric iron, estimated at 14,000,000 tons, that was supposed to have made the big hole in the crust of the earth. The meteoric iron contains some platinum and iridium, as well as nickel, and was estimated to be worth $50 per ton.

The search for the supposed mass of valuable metal was made by means of a shaft and also by diamond drilling, but these efforts proved futile.

A friend of mine, James Douglas, was asked to join in the search by subscribing a large sum of money, and he asked me to examine the locality and prepare a report for him. My advice to him was not to waste his money, for I knew enough about the crater to deter him from the expense even of my investigation.

Dr. T. A. RICKARD

A meteor would not make such a hole in the sandstone and limestone of the desert. The largest meteorite that has been seen to fall was one weighing 820 pounds at Paragould, in Arkansas, on Feb. 17, 1930. It penetrated clayey soil to a depth of only eight feet.

Another weighing 645 pounds was seen to fall at Knyahinga, in Czechoslovakia, on June 6, 1866. It buried itself at a depth of only 11 feet.

CREATE STEAM

No; these craters are made, not by solid masses of meteoric iron, but by a cluster or swarm of small meteorites traveling at great speed through space as a unit. These, during their passage through the earth's atmosphere, become incandescent, and thus appear in the heavens as a ball of fire.

When they strike the earth, they come in contact with the ground-water, which is suddenly heated and transformed into superheated steam. When water is turned into steam it expands 1,700 times and therefore has tremendous explosive power. It is the explosion that makes the crater.

Perhaps it will be well to add that the largest meteorite in any museum is the one brought by Commodore Peary from the west coast of Greenland in 1898. It weighs 36½ tons, and is now in the American Museum of Natural History in New York.

The largest meteor as yet discovered is the one at Hoba, in southwest Africa. It lies still in place, and is estimated to weigh 60 tons.

Meteorites are supposed to be fragments of a disrupted planetary body now vagrant in space.

YOUNGSTERS FISH CREEK FULL OF BASS

CULVER CITY, Calif. (AP)—It's going to be a great week-end for Culver City kids. They'll have a creek loaded with bass all to themselves.

Recently the city of Los Angeles began draining a reservoir. Bass and blue gill, stocked in the reservoir, ran down storm drains and then into Ballona Creek, which empties into the ocean.

Members of the Rod and Gun Club and the Chamber of Commerce erected a temporary dam to keep the fish from going into the ocean. Then they cooked up a week-end fishing contest for children under 16.

Jugoslav Press Tone Friendly Toward Britain

By RONALD PRESTON

BELGRADE (Reuter) — Factual, friendly and almost-entirely favorable reporting has characterized several articles on Britain appearing in the press here recently.

The articles were written by Yugoslav Communist journalists when they returned from Britain after a three-week visit as guests of the foreign office.

The articles are regarded here as reflecting improving relations between Britain and Yugoslavia and expressing Marshal Tito's new party line of judging British social democracy on its merits instead of following the Cominform in condemning it on principle as "social fascism."

HOSPITALITY SHOWN

Moroslav Vitorovic, assistant editor of Borba, official organ of the Yugoslav Communist Party, in a lecture to a crowded meeting of Belgrade journalists, also stressed the friendliness and hospitality which the six-man delegation had met with in Britain.

Everywhere they went, he said, the delegation had found interest and sympathy for present-day Yugoslavia. Members of all three British political parties had expressed their belief in the need for closer cultural and economic relations between the two countries.

Speaking of general conditions in Britain, Vitorovic said his impression was that considerable success had been achieved since the war in raising the standard of living.

Vitorovic attacked the British Communist Party as a "mere agent of the Cominform" and commanding no support among the British workers because it "served foreign interests."

Weed From Russia Transplanted In U.S. Threatening Western Industry

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A Russian weed transplanted in the U.S. is threatening the west's livestock industry, says the chairman of the Utah Agricultural Committee.

Tracy R. Welling, commission chief, said that the weed, halogeton, "has been killing sheep and cattle by the hundreds, with financial losses running into the hundreds of thousands of dollars."

Welling said the weed first was discovered near Wells, Nevada, in 1935. Since then it has crept into Utah, Oregon, Montana, Idaho, Colorado and California.

State and federal plant agriculturists have been at a loss as to methods to combat the problem. It has been fought without too much success, with flame throwers, oil spray and 2-4-D weed killer

Welling said there is a bill before Congress to appropriate finances to stem the spread of Halogeton.

The weed used to be a problem only to the Russians. There have been rumors of possible Communist sabotage, but Welling said he believes the transplantation occurred through shipment of grass seeds from the Caspian Sea area to the U.S.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Glandular Swelling May Be Warning Of Leukemia

The name, leukemia, was originally proposed by the German pathologist, Virchow, more than 100 years ago. It means literally "white blood."

Of course, the blood does not turn completely white in leukemia, but there is a "whiteness" about it which is caused by the destruction of many normal red cells and their replacement by colorless cells, known as white cells or leukocytes.

Leukemia is really a condition in which the white cells have grown wildly. In leukemia, not only are there more white cells than there should be, there are abnormal forms and types also.

Under normal conditions there are between 5,000 and 10,000 white cells in a cubic millimeter of blood (a cubic millimeter, incidentally, is an extremely small quantity), but in leukemia the number of white cells—normal and abnormal—rises to 30,000 or 40,000 and sometimes as high as 100,000 or more in a cubic millimeter.

There are several kinds of leukemia, named according to the type of cell which is predominant and the acuteness or chronicity of the condition. Regardless of the type, however, the cause of leukemia is not known, although many theories have been suggested.

In the rapid or acute cases of leukemia, regardless of the type of cells involved, the body becomes overwhelmed with these abnormal leukocytes. Usually, the patient becomes weaker rapidly. Bleeding may take place from the gums or the skin, and the latter is usually pale and slightly yellowish looking.

In the slower or more chronic cases, enlargement of the lymph glands in the arm pits, groin, or neck may be the first sign of the disease. The spleen also is usually enlarged. Increasing fatigue is another common early sign.

TRANSFUSIONS MAY HELP

The person who discovers a cure for leukemia will merit universal acclaim. As things are today, however, a sure cure for the disease is not available. Those who are afflicted with leukemia, especially the chronic varieties, can be helped temporarily in many cases by blood transfusion, sometimes by X-rays over the spleen or by certain kinds of arsenic preparations taken by mouth. These can be considered only temporarily helpful, but there are others which are being studied.

The only good thing that can be said about leukemia is that it is not more common. There is much more danger of being hit by an automobile than there is of contracting leukemia.

New Anglo-Canadian Food Pact, Signed Soon

Eggs, Salmon May Be Included In 1951 Agreements; Conference Opens

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada and the United Kingdom appear to be edging toward agreement on 1951 Anglo-Canadian food contracts. An announcement may be made in the next few days.

Possible completion of negotiations were indicated in official quarters with the return here of Sir Andrew Jones, head of the British food mission.

Sir Andrew, after a week of consultations with his government in London, gave no hint of any developments.

However, from other sources it was learned:

1. Britain has allocated an undisclosed amount of dollars to cover food purchasing in Canada next year.

2. Britain is prepared to sign new food agreements, on a slightly modified basis.

3. The agreements—if and when signed—will cover bacon and cheese. Canada's wheat shipments to the U.K. are being made under the international wheat agreement.

Plans for other food purchases are not certain. With dollar reverses steadily climbing, it is possible the U.K. may decide to renew purchases of eggs from Canada. The Anglo-Canadian egg contract was dropped in 1950 because of Britain's dollar shortage. There also may be a new salmon contract. In 1950 the U.K. agreed to purchase some $5,000,000 worth of British Columbia salmon.

Official circles believe that the most likely date for an announcement—probably by Agriculture Minister Gardiner—is Dec. 1, the second day of the three-day annual federal-provincial agricultural conference which opens here tomorrow.

Kiwanis Club Hears Brief Addresses

Three Kiwanis club members, giving five-to-10-minute talks on subjects of their own choosing, entertained the club at its regular Tuesday luncheon in the Empress Hotel.

A comparatively recent arrival from Great Britain, P. Stewart Watt spoke of Britain's difficulties and gradual return to prosperity.

"In World War I she lost men, materials and money," he said. "In World War II she lost much valuable shipping, factories, and forreign investments. But the country that has led in development of radar, television and jet propulsion is not finished yet."

The present government is unpopular in some circles, he said, but added that many controls were inevitable, and that Britain will shortly be able to discontinue Marshall Plan aid.

An appeal for the local club to make a survey of youth services for the Canadian Youth Commission was made by F. V. Shoemaker. The survey, which the commission hopes to have taken in every Canadian city, would show the needs of young people, what they lack, overlapping of facilities, and opportunities required, he said.

C. J. Williams discussed the jewelry business, claiming that most goods in jewelry stores are not luxuries, but "the niceties of life that go with our standard of living."

Three baritone solos were sung by Foster Mills, accompanied by Al Smith. Chairman for the meeting was Sam Hill.

Name Acting Mayor

Building Plans For Victoria

The Montreal Trust Company, 1210 Broad Street, will move in the spring to the Five Sisters Block on Government Street, opposite the Royal Bank. Plans for alterations on the building were prepared by Birley, Wade and Stockdill. Construction work will be done by Bruce A. Cook, and brickwork by H. J. Meeds. Remodelling of one-story offices will cost nearly $15,000.

Birley, Wade and Stockdill are also architects for a new dry-cleaning plant at 410 Vancouver Street. Structure will cost $10,000.

Plans for the new Oak Bay Junior High School are now in the hands of the Provincial Department of Education for approval, announces architect P. L. James.

Tenders are also expected to be called this week for the $400,000 extension at Lampson Street School.

MISS THEO F. GREWER

Ex-Victorian Shares Oil Exploration

A Vancouver woman who finds her way with considerable success through the astonishing (to a reporter) maze of oil leases, syndicates and other high-speed deals in the booming Alberta oil industry is Miss Theo F. Grewer, who is spending a few days at the Empress Hotel.

One promising venture Miss Grewer is watching closely is a well being drilled by Socony Vacuum Exploration Co. on 9,140 acres she holds near Drumheller. Sharing equally in the expense of the well, now down about 3,000 feet, Miss Grewer and the company will share in production.

"I hold a good number of freehold leases throughout central Alberta, including a couple close to the Socony-Flint well," she said.

HIGHLY RATED

This well, 12 miles southeast of Camrose, is one of the most highly-rated properties in the province.

When this slim, charming entrepreneur is not tracking down oil properties she is traveling.

"I spent a wonderful holiday in South Africa last winter," she said. "We visited Kruger Park, and one of the ancient gold distributing centres at the head of the caravan route to what is now the port of Lourenco Marques."

A former resident of Victoria, she has made her home in Vancouver for a number of years.

"I'd be living here yet if it wasn't for business connections in Vancouver," she said. "It's too hard getting back and forth."

British Air Ministry Now Has Project To Check 'Saucers'

LONDON (AP)—The Air Ministry set up "Project Ice-bolt" today to find out if England is being bombarded by flying saucers—or what.

Reports of strange ice falls from the sky have been pouring in from many parts of southern England for two weeks.

In Devon dozens of chunks whizzed down into a flock of sheep a fortnight ago, killing a ewe, said the reports.

Last Friday a piece weighing five pounds crashed through the roof of a London garage.

Wednesday D. J. Tunmore said he saw a block 12 inches long and four inches thick plummet from the clouds as he was riding his motorcycle near Braughing, in Hertfordshire. It landed, unbroken, in a plot of grass only three feet from him.

About the same time, a one-pound brick of an odd transparent material bounced to earth in front of the home of R. M. Butcher in the Essex village of Stebbing.

"It is neither ice nor glass," Butcher told reporters. "I don't know what it is."

The Air Ministry said the block which went through the garage roof and the one which landed on Butcher's lawn have been turned in and will be examined.

A spokesman asked everybody who finds one of the frozen thunderbolts to bring it in for examination by meteorological experts.

The experts will analyze the blocks to determine whether they contain chemicals—such as airplane de-icing fluid—which would give a hint of their origin.

"The only thing we can say quite definitely right now," a ministry spokesman said, "is that these blocks of ice do not come from the Royal Air Force aircraft."

U.S. To Send Envoy To Spain Next Year

WASHNGTON (UP) — The United States has decided to send an ambassador to Madrid, it was learned.

The envoy will be Stanton Griffis, former U.S. ambassador to Argentina. The formal announcement is expected early next year.

TAKES HOLLYWOOD COURSE

Nicholas Returns From Extended Advanced Course

For Appointment Phone B 2451

Nicholas, the well-known hair stylist, has just returned to Victoria from Hollywood, where he has been taking a post-graduate course in facial analysis as related to hair styling and cutting.

The course included the newest proven methods of pin curling, permanent waving, and technique of razor cutting.

Nicholas studied at the Hollywood College of Beauty this year in keeping with his annual practice of spending a few weeks each fall at a beauty institution of high standing. His results showed him to be ranking among the top five of 162 students attending the college, and in particular, he was placed second in the cutting and upsweep styling examinations.

"It is my belief," states the thoughtful young beautician, "that to do justice to my clientele, I must be continually learning, and alert to the fact that styles, methods, and solutions are constantly changing."

Nicholas predicts that Victoria women will colour treat their hair for the social season which has now begun. "Hollywood has gone all out on madly coloured hair shades," he states. "Rinses are completely harmless. Many Victoria brunettes realize the glamoresness of blue-black sheen, and blondes of all degrees from platinum to ash, will plant a streak of dramatic gold or red through their coiffure."

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 29, 1950

on the TIMES

By ART STOTT

It started early in our house this year. For the last two weeks we've been getting "The First Noel" and "Deck the Hall with Boughs of Holly," complete with piano accompaniments. It's hardly safe to send the kids in to practice. No matter what their lessons may be, the piano thumps out "Noel" and the other piece. Just for variety we make our own parodies. One's "Clear the Decks of Boughs and Holly," and there's nary a bough or a berry in place yet.

Christmas carols we love—but at Christmas time. "Silent Night" is one of our favorites, though when the youngsters go vocal, there's more truth than melody in the second syllable of "Si-yell-ent Night." The whole thing seems a little unseasonable. We have not decently buried autumn. The oak leaf bonfires are still burning in our district, and here we are jet-propelled slap-dab into the middle of the jingle-bells time.

Stott

IT'S A HARSH thing to say, but if Santa Claus keeps advancing his arrival date the way he did this year, Old Whiskers is going to wear out his welcome.

As it is, we'd planned to put the Bing Crosby Christmas album under our tree next month. But come Dec. 25 it looks as if we'll have had just about all of that music we can stand. We may even beat this advanced Christmas theme at its own game. Chances are we'll have the Porgy and Bess Summer Time sequence gift-wrapped instead. That's my season of the year, anyhow.

UNTIL THE DRESS rehearsal, you can't tell how a show's going to go. After that, you can't tell until opening night's over. When the Neptune's Follies of 1950 cast went through final preparations the other evening, some startling surprises developed.

One of the most artistic features is called "Fountain Fantasy." In it lovely girls in swim suits form the supporting pillars for the fountain tray from which spurt jets of water. It's a beautiful number, with the girls as statues and the organ playing soft mood music.

THAT'S THE WAY is was supposed to be at the rehearsal. But one point was overlooked. The director forgot to tell the girls the fountain was connected with a cold water tap. As the jets climbed in the air and dropped, the statues were doused in an icy downpour. You never saw so much action or heard such piercing yells from a piece of statuary.

At the north end of the pool, a smart guy started to sing "Mother, Mother, Turn the Hose on Me." It so happened he was standing close to another spray that was supposed to throw water out into the pool. Somebody had put a twist in the pipe. Somebody else turned the tap. It wasn't Mother, but his plea was answered—and he was fully dressed.

There's more fun at dress rehearsals.

WHEN MR. AND MRS. W. A. Hardwick, driving along Craigflower Road the other night about 10, saw a pair of racoons running along that part of the highway near Admirals Road, the sight was unusual. The 'coons, though, frequently come into settlements, according to the authorities.

A family of them is reported to have established itself some time ago in Government House grounds, and periodically others of the species are seen in different sections of the community.

If you learned about racoons from Thornton W. Burgess, as I did, you'll be kindly disposed to the animals that are considerably larger than a cat. Since the John Held Jr. styling went out of vogue, though, racoons don't figure much in human affairs. The coat that made the skinny college undergraduate look like a bear is gone. There's still the tail tassel on the automobile radio aerial, but that's about all.

The bad feature about 'coons is their appetite. They're omnivorous. A family may move into an orchard and strip trees of their fruit. An odd specimen or two, bent on a chicken dinner, can do nasty things to a flock of poultry. Most of them in this locality, though, stay close to the seashore, eating crabs and shellfish.

Catholic Sisters Plan To Carry On Nursing Work For Aged 'Elsewhere'

Nursing home work of the Sisters of the Love of Jesus who take care of approximately 110 to 120 elderly people in three houses in Victoria will be "moved elsewhere."

"We intend in build in New Westminster," Sister Cecilia Mary, Mother Prioress of St. Mary's Priory said today in commenting on what she had earlier termed "stalling tactics" of Victoria City Council, who referred to committees a request for a permit to expand St. Gregory-by-the-Sea.

In the meantime confusion reigned over the matter of an enclosed boiler room.

Council refused permit for expansion on the grounds that St. Gregory's itself did not comply with the city's building by-law.

Sister Cecilia Mary said today that she had everything done the building inspector had asked for.

M. P. Paine, co-partner in the contracting firm of Paine and Townsend, said they billed the sisters March 24, 1950, for a fire ladder and gyproc on the ceiling over the furnace, stating the work must have been done before that.

J. W. Oosterink, city building inspector, said today he had advised the prioress seven months ago the boiler room would have to be totally enclosed with a metal-covered entry door and gyproc on any wooden wall.

Gyproc over the ceiling in the boiler room would not be sufficient he said.

NO PERMIT TAKEN

"No permit has been taken out for the work, so I can only presume the work is not done," said Mr. Oosterink,

"We did not take out a permit because we thought the job was too small," said Mr. Paine. "The work has been done for some time. Mr. Oosterink knows that."

Mr. Oosterink stated a permit must be taken out for all work over $20, and he felt the material alone needed for the job would be over that.

"If they notify me the work is done I will go out and inspect it," he said. "I will not inspect until then."

The sister in charge at St. Gregory's said the fire and building officials inspect the building regularly and always the furnace room.

When asked if reports of those visits would not come to himself as building inspector and to the fire chief, Mr. Oosterink replied:

"I do not get them, but the fire chief would."

Chief Robert Brindle when asked if St. Gregory's did or did not comply with building and fire regulations would not comment.

"We did our job according to instructions given us by the Mother Superior," said Mr. Paine, referring to the work for which the Priory was billed March 24.

IN COURT

VICTORIA

Allan S. Schutte, Lake Cowichan, was fined $25 for failing to make a proper written report of an accident in which $350 damage was done.

It cost naval rating John March $30 for driving a vehicle without a current year's driver's license.

Richard C. Hamilton was further remanded to secure counsel. He has pleaded not guilty to a charge of indecent exposure.

Ronald R. Robinson, young Victoria boy, was sentenced to a term at Borstal. He had earlier pleaded guilty to a charge of theft of watches.

PROVINCIAL

A fine of $20 was imposed against John McBride Moore, 1139 McClure Street, when he pleaded guilty to a charge of careless driving.

For hunting migratory birds after one-half hour after sunset, Que Eng and William Loo were fined $10 and $3 costs each.

NOVEMBER AVERAGE DOWN

Victoria May Establish New Record For Year

There have only been seven rain-free days so far this month, yet the total rainfall is still below the average for this time of year.

Total rainfall since Nov. 1 has been 3.5 inches. The average rainfall for November is 4.16 inches. Although intermittent rain is forecast tonight and showers Friday, there is little chance that .66 inch of precipitation will result to bring the total to average.

William Burton, superintendent of the Dominion Meteorological Observatory on Gonzales, points out, however, that there is little doubt the total rainfall for the year will exceed what is considered normal.

Already, he says, 26.19 inches of rain have been recorded since Jan. 1. Normal rainfall for any one year, as computed on the basis of records kept during the last 64 years, is 26.84 inches.

Still to come, he observes, is 4.78 inches, which is considered average for December.

Cod Fishing On East Coast Ends Thursday

Commercial ling cod fishing on the east coast of Vancouver Island will close for three months starting at midnight Thursday, Gordon Barrie, fisheries department inspector here, reported today.

The closure is for the spawning period.

Area affected is the entire east coast from Beechey Head, Sooke, to Cape Scott at the north end of the island.

Fishing for ling cod on the west coast will remain open, however.

At present on the west coast, the herring fleet is busy in Barclay Sound and Nootka Sound. The fishermen will wind up activities about mid-December and return to home ports for the Christmas season, returning to the herring grounds in January.

Open Tenders For New U.B.C. Building

Six tenders for construction of a law school building at U.B.C. were opened at the Legislative Buildings today with A. R. Grimwood's bid of $226,207 the lowest.

Others were: Dawson & Hall Ltd., $239,975; Northern Construction and J. W. Stewart Ltd., $265,800; Kennett Construction Ltd., $244,417; H. C. Redmond, $239,000; J. S. Johnson Ltd., $284,800.

Tenders also were opened for electrical, heating and plumbing work on the new school.

Lowest were: Electrical, C. H. E. Williams Ltd., $34,470; heating and ventilating, M. Bennis, $39,175; plumbing, M. Bennis, $7,410.

Struck Woman In Chasing Speeder

Mrs. Parkin's Death Accidental In Opinion Of Coroner's Jury

An unknown speeder started off the chain of events last Saturday which ended with the traffic death of Mrs. Caroline Parkin, 78, 2832 Dysart Road.

Mrs. Parkin was struck by a police car on Gorge Road at Dysart by a Saanich police car driven by Constable Robert Coleman.

Constable Coleman, at a coroner's inquest today, revealed he was in pursuit of a speeder at the time of the mishap. He said he didn't have a chance to avoid Mrs. Parkin as she ran out in front of him from behind a car travelling in the opposite direction.

The coroner's jury, after deliberating for 10 minutes at the end of evidence, brought in a verdict of accidental death and added a recommendation that old people and children who wear dark clothes at night don some type of luminous arm band to be more visible to motorists.

Constable Coleman testified during the hearing that he was on duty in the patrol car at Tillicum and Gorge when he spotted a car exceeding the 30-mile-an-hour speed limit on Gorge Road. He told of starting the police car and giving chase to catch the speeder.

WAS PACING SPEEDER

He recalled that just before reaching Dysart he observed the speeder's tail light and settled down to pace him. He estimated his own speed at that time was between 35 and 40.

"A car going east just passed when a woman appeared in the middle of the road," the officer testified. "She was running from south to north. I immediately applied my brakes but the car skidded into her."

Constable Coleman, Saanich Police, Sgt. Jack Hamilton and city police officers Walter Calwell and Lorne Shandley, who rendered assistance at the scene, all testified visibility was poor at the time.

Mrs. W. W. Rush, sister of the deceased, explained Mrs. Parkin's presence on the road. She said she had been visiting her sister and that her sister had walked with her to the bus stop.

She said a passing motorist had stopped to pick her up and that she expected her sister was just starting back when the accident occurred.

She questioned evidence that her sister was running.

Mrs. Rush said her sister's hearing and eyesight were all right.

Dr. J. G. Patterson, who treated Mrs. Parkin at hospital, said she suffered multiple fractures to both legs and her right arm and internal injuries.

Thursday night, Saanich Police Commission will sit to consider facts in the accident and will consider lifting of the suspension on Constable Coleman which was automatic after the accident.

New Power Cables Across Upper Harbor

Two-week project of stringing 12 high-power cables across Selkirk water in the upper harbor will get under way Thursday.

The cables will be strung between 126-foot steel towers, erected to replace the present wooden structures.

Three lines carry 60,000 volts from Jordan River to the B.C. Electric's Bay Street substation, and the other nine are 12,000-volt local distribution lines serving the Victoria West and Esquimalt areas.

The Department of Transport requests mariners to exercise caution in the vicinity of the operation. During working hours a small boat will patrol the area.

Hume & Rumble, electrical contractors, are handling the job.

Describes Trip

An account of her recent trip to the General Electric Lighting Institute at Nela Park, Cleveland, was given by Miss Dorothy McGregor of the B.C. Electric Home Lighting Section, Vancouver, to Victoria members of the Illuminating Engineering Society and their friends Tuesday.

Slides and other pictures of home lighting were shown to the audience which included architects, electrical contractors, housewives and wholesalers.

Nameless horse attracts citizens.

Wooden Horse Fine Example Of Disappearing Tradition

Big wooden figures of horses now relegated to about the same—all but extinct—status as the cigar store Indian, used to adorn saddle and harness-making establishments in the days before the horseless carriage stepped in.

But there is still tradition attached to the trade, and a Victoria leather goods firm is somewhat sentimental about it all.

Result is that a sleek, dapple-grey horse, complete with saddle and bridle, now stands in the window of Norris Leather Goods, 1320 Government Street.

But to get it here was quite a project. It took letters of inquiry all across Canada to unearth the horse. It was deep in the basement of a Saskatoon harness manufacturing company, company, and is likely one of about a dozen left in this country.

The company is inviting children under 15 to name the horse with ten free riding lessons on a real horse as a prize.

$30 Jump Sought By Civil Servants

Federal civil servants in the Greater Victoria area want a $30 monthly wage increase across the board.

Meeting at the Veterans' Hospital Tuesday night, they instructed their national executive to seek this amount.

They claimed living costs here were the highest in Canada and that other workers have won substantial pay increases while civil servants' salaries have remained substantially the same for two years.

More Pennies To Be Saved This Year, Than Last

By PENNY SAVER

Heckle, as we do about prices "being what they are," local vegetables, and even those from California, are lower this year, by far, than last. Items like cabbage, the savoy variety, 16 pennies each; cauliflower, 30 cents; potatoes, 10 pounds for 30 cents for Netted Gems, No. 1 whites, 10 pounds for 29 cents; hothouse tomatoes, anywhere from 18 to 20 cents a pound, all make impressive entries on your budget-wise book.

On the local scene, too, is acorn or queen squash, more popular by the day, especially when baked, 7 cents a pound; hard white cabbage, 2 pounds, 9 pennies, and beets, 2 bunches for 15 cents.

Oranges and apples are flooding every grocery shop and department by the boxful. Mexican oranges, chuck full of juice, 2 dozen, 55 cents; Japanese variety, by the box, $1.15, by the pound, 15 pennies. On the apple counters there are fancy Mac's, 2 pounds, 15 cents; Delicious, 15 cents pound; Kings, 5 pennies a pound; Snows, 23 cents for 3 pounds; Jonathans, 2 pounds for 15 cents.

and Spitzenburg variety, 2 pounds, 17 cents.

Table raisins will make a very brief appearance this festive season. If you like them, pick up a pound or so just as soon as you spot them. California and Australia have sent up a small shipment of raisins with the latter selling at 25 cents a pound package.

Anjour pears . . . excellent eating, but be sure they're ripe, then they offer all the juice you can swallow . . . 2 pounds for 25 cents; cooking dates, already pitted, 25 cents a pound; avacadoes, in best of condition, 29 cents each.

Noticed the heads of endive lettuce? They're that wonderful variety of winter lettuce that spices a winter meal. For tossed salad pour on oil, vinegar and a little salt. If you're not careful you'll polish off the whole bowl, all on your own!

Ay yi, yi! Take me away from that counter where they're selling jars of mixed fruit chutney in mustard syrup. What that doesn't do to a cold meat or foul dish. Yikes! In the tempting jar, you'll see a pound mixture of pear, tangerine, cherry, citron and orange quarters, selling to the tune of $1.59. At that same counter are flat jars of mushrooms in pure olive oil, 75 pennies.

Best we put padlocks on our wee change purses, with all this holiday food to tempt us!

Embassy Life In Russia Described

Miss Joan Rooney, who recently returned from two years service with the Canadian embassy in Moscow, was guest speaker at a recent meeting of Xi Beta Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi. Miss Rooney gave a first-hand account of life within the confines of the embassy and of restrictions placed upon the non-Russian residents.

The lives and attitudes of the average Russian today and the people of the satellite states were vividly described by the speaker.

Skirt And Sweater Set Just A Little Different

By DAWN VAN NORMAN

Ahoy lassies! How do you like the midshipman collar on the latest thing in sweaters? Plunging neckline adds that extra, extra feminine touch. Always fashionable angora should put this number at the head of your sweater collection.

The skirt is different. Isn't that wonderful news?

Flannel, triper-take they call it, falls into four gores at the front, and only two at the back. Added touch is slashed pockets, tucked neatly in the side panels, but definitely there for smartness.

If you have trouble keeping your blouse tucked in, or if your sweater pops above the band every time you breathe, you will be thrilled to discover the new corded girdle waistband. It grips and holds your blouse in place and fits perfectly, keeping the band from shifting up or down.

Blends are always smart but for a change the flannel has been dyed to match the sweater color. Just think of the accessories you can wear without having two or more basic colors with which to contend.

A sweater and skirt? What could be more comfortable, practical, or presentable?

Maybe a dress, but just think how many ways you can vary even one skirt and sweater set.

Wear the sweater tucked in, wear it bloused over the band, tie a scarf at your neck, change the color the next day. Pearls at the neck are a nice change. Belts can now be found of every kind and description. How about that for a nice change?

Even a bright scarf twisted and tied at the waist can do wonders for that basic skirt and sweater.

A skirt and sweater outfit that should be just what you want for winter days. Both skirt and sweater are new this year.

Christmas Season In Britain Sees Stores Full, But Prices Very High

LONDON (CP) — British shop shelves are laden with half-forgotten delicacies as Christmas approaches, but rising prices may prevent millions of working families from noticing any appreciable change in Christmas fare.

Small price increases on such goods as Christmas puddings, cakes, cookies, eggs, butter, bacon and coffee will mean less money for luxuries like crystallized fruits, nuts and French fruits bottled in syrup.

A housewife planning a decorated Christmas cake will find all, or almost all, the materials she needs, but the price tag may be prohibitive. For the first time since before the war such things as preserved violets and roses, glace cherries, silver dragees, icing sugar, almond paste and sugared figurines are all easily obtainable—but the price may daunt some shoppers.

TURKEYS COSTLY

No. 1 headache in a Christmas which will be the lightest rationed since the defeat of Germany, is the cost of turkeys. Starting at 6s 6d (97 cents) a pound they have mounted in some instances to 8s and 10s. All other poultry prices, now free from government control for the first time, are well in advance of last year, and Maurice Webb, food minister, has announced there will be no Christmas bonus on the meat ration.

Other price problems are provided by Christmas trees and decorations. Trees that prewar cost 2s 6d are now 15s. Decorations cost about the same but customers will not get the same value for their money.

A 100-per-cent purchase tax remains on Christmas cards, calendars and diaries. This means average cards cost around 10d, and something "a little different" ranges upwards from 1s 6.

Christmas cracker prices rise from 4d each to £4. There are gorgeous arrays of baskets, figurines and other colorful novelty pieces, but one of the most popular choices are the tiny midget crackers selling at 2s 6d and 3s a box of 12.

Active membership in Victoria Toastmistress Club increased to 28 when Miss Joyce Dixon, president, initiated seven new members at a meeting held in Cairo Coffee Shop Monday evening.

New members gave two-minute introductory talks as follows: Mrs. Nova Graham, "Why I Came to Live in Victoria"; Mrs. N. Smith, "Salt Lake City"; Mrs. J. Irwin, "The Door to Hell", Mrs. J. Chatterton, "Thunder"; Mrs. G. Parks, "The Siamese Cat"; Mrs. R. Chote, "Names and Places."

Miss C. Chrow conducted the table topic in which members were asked "to sell" an item pictured on a given magazine advertisement.

Two-minute talks were given by Mesdames I. Warren, B. Nivin, M. Foxall and S. Campbell. In a two-minute impromptu speech Mrs. A. Thompsett expressed the opinion that employees should have a 10-minute coffee period each morning.

Work of Victoria Recreational Council was outlined in Mrs. M. Broadley's five-minute speech. Mrs. H. Simpson featured her garden in a 10-minute speech entitled, "Satisfaction."

Mrs. S. Peden gave the vote of thanks. Lesson which dealt with gestures in speech was presented by Miss G. John.

General critic, Miss J. Dixon, was assisted by individual critics, Mrs. M. Kelly, Miss M. Harness and Mrs. M. Black.

Toastmistress and general evaluator for the evening was Mrs. M. Naysmith, who presented to Mrs. Broadley, the speaker showing the greatest improvement, the "Spur," and to Miss John, for the best speech of the evening, the "Oscar." Mrs. Sinclair Elliott attended as a guest.

Langford—Monthly meeting of Langford P.-T.A. will be held on Monday at 7.45 in the school. Following a short business session there will be social hour.

Now Living In Duncan

Following a honeymoon trip to California, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Peter Ismay have returned to the island to make their home at Duncan. Included in their wedding entourage are Mrs. Hazel Ricketts, Vancouver, matron of honor; bridesmaids Miss Joy Davies and Miss Greta Dye; and little Heather Main, flower girl. Best man was John Moore. The double ring ceremony, performed by Rev. A. Waters at First United Church, united Lillian May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Phillips, 704 Vancouver Street, and son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Ismay, Maple Bay Road, Duncan.—(Campbell Studio)

European Tour Includes Many Operas They See Belleek China 'Poured'

The thrill of seeing "Henry VIII" produced in Shakespeare's own theatre at Stratford-on-Avon, another Shakespeare play in Regent's Park, the Opera "La Tosca" in a great open-air theatre that once was an amphitheatre for ancient Roman baths and another opera in the famed opera house in Paris, is all part of an extended tour abroad taken by Mrs. Joseph Rose and her younger son Edmund (Bud).

Mrs. Rose and her son returned to their Howe Street home in Victoria only recently.

They motored to Toronto and Montreal from where they sailed for the British Isles some months ago.

Highlight of their trip in Great Britain was a visit to the House of Commons on a day when Prime Minister Atlee was speaking on the Korean situation, with Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill supporting his views.

"Later we were tea guests on famed Parliament Terrace," Mrs. Rose says, "and that too was a memorable event."

Visits to pottery factories in the British Isles were also included in the travel itinerary.

"It took us two days to go through one pottery factory in England," Mrs. Rose explained, "and we discovered that whole families, father, son and grandchildren are expert potters.

"In fact the art has come down to them through generations."

The family does not work as a group, Mrs. Rose explained, the father will be in one factory, son in another and the grandchildren scattered in as many more factories near at hand.

The Roses were very interested in the unique factory in Ireland where Belleek china is turned out.

"The process is quite different to any other," Mrs. Rose said, "the china is poured into the molds in liquid form and as quickly poured out again, leaving merely a thin film that hardens when the mold is taken away into the delicate, high glazed china so many people admire."

Swiss watch factories were another source of interest for mother and son. And they tell you these places look like immense private estates, for each factory is set in grounds of parkline dimensions.

Diamond cutting plants in both London and New York were also visited by the Roses.

After they had toured Great Britain, Switzerland, France and Italy, the Roses returned to the United States and motored home from New York.

Tuck a few salted almonds in the school lunch as a special surprise. They make a sandwich or a piece of fruit taste just that much better. What's more they're very nutritious for children.

Serviceman And His Bride Honeymoon In California

On a honeymoon trip in California are Sgt. Cecil W. Day, R.C.A.F., and his bride, the former Dorothy Pearl Butler, who were married at St. Stephen's Church, Mount Newton, Saturday evening.

The wedding ceremony, performed by Archdeacon W. G. Western, united the daughter of Mrs. C. H. Butler, R.R.1, Royal Oak, and the late Mr. Butler, and the son of E. Day of this city, and the late Mrs. Day.

In a setting of chrysanthemums and autumn foliage the bride repeated her vows in a gown of pastel blue lace over shimmering satin. The ankle-length gown, fashioned with sweetheart neckline, slim bodice and very full skirt, was complemented with a matching poke bonnet. A single strand of pearls was her only jewelry and she carried an arm bouquet of red roses. She was given in marriage by her brother, Claude O. Butler.

Three nieces of the bride were included in her wedding entourage. Miss Elaine Butler chose a green taffeta afternoon dress and carried a pastel-shaded bouquet of chrysanthemums. Junior attendants, Misses Claudia and Sharon Butler were gowned in pink and yellow silk dresses and carried Colonial bouquets.

The groom chose Charles Lawrence Butler as best man.

While the couple signed the register, Miss Margaret Clark, accompanied at the organ by Mrs. J. Butterfield, sang "My Prayer."

At a reception at the home of the bride's mother, where the table was set with lace cloth, candles in silver holders, and a three-tier cake, W. S. Butler Sr., proposed the toast.

For traveling, the bride donned a chic grey gabardine suit, wine gabardine topcoat and navy accessories. Her corsage bouquet was of roses.

The newlyweds will make their home in Vancouver.

Mrs. Keith, daughter of the late Hon. James Dunsmuir and Mrs. Dunsmuir, left the city for New York earlier this month. She will be joined there by her husband and they will sail for Europe on Dec. 7.

Mrs. Mitchell and her daughter are embarking from Vancouver aboard the Dutch freighter Dalerdyk and will travel by way of the Panama to Europe. They have been guests at Hotel Vancouver for the past few days.

Both the Keiths and the Mitchells plan to make a long stay in Europe.

Wanda Weiss Hostess, Shower For June Clark

A miscellaneous shower was held at the home of Miss Wanda Weiss, Falkland Road, to honor Miss June Clark, December bride-elect.

Miss Clark received a corsage bouquet of pink chrysanthemums and her mother, Mrs. S. H. Clark, was presented with white chrysanthemums.

A three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride displayed the gifts and the lace-covered table was centred with mauve and white chrysanthemums and white paper.

Invited guests included Mesdames E. T. Staley, J. E. Barre, D. Taylor, G. Crowther, J. Mons, D. Boisvert, W. Phillips, and Misses M. Taylor and H. Askew.

To honor Miss Patricia Smith, whose marriage takes place at the end of this week, Mrs. D. Gaiger entertained at her Cloverdale Avenue home at a pantry shower. The honor guest and her mother, Mrs. R. D. Smith, were presented with corsage bouquets of chrysanthemums. Gifts were concealed in a decorated pink and white container. Games were enjoyed and a buffet supper served from a lace-covered table centred with a bowl of pink and white chrysanthemums. Guests were Mesdames L. Godson, M. Smith, R. Foster, K. Burke, K. Gaiger, G. Gaiger, S. Willoughby, I. Staples, N. Chamberlain and Miss Geraldine Smith.

Nuptial Vows Repeated In Garrison Church

A quiet wedding ceremony was performed by Rev. A. Hendy at St. Paul's Naval and Garrison Church, Esquimalt, when Jessie Inette Hamilton became the bride of Bdr. Frederick Nelson Munn, R.C.A.

The marriage united the daughter of late Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hamilton, South Porcupine, Ont., and the son of late Mr. Fred Munn, Boiestown, N.B., and Mrs. R. Cruesaden.

As her only attendant, Mrs. Paul Gettas wore a tailored green suit with contrasting yellow and brown accessories and a corsage bouquet of Talisman roses.

The groom chose Bdr. Paul Gettas, R.C.A., as best man.

Following the ceremony a dinner was held at Empress Hotel, where the table was centred with large bowl of autumn flowers.

For a honeymoon trip to Vancouver the bride donned a sand beige gabardine coat over her ensemble.

Bdr. and Mrs. Munn are now making their home in Victoria.

COME SPRING—

Styles Feature Capes, Moulded Hats And Blouses

MONTREAL (CP) — Fashion Week made its bow in Montreal Monday with reviews of everything the girls will be interested in come spring from rippling capes and mounded hats to blouses which take their names from flavors.

Among the latter, presented by Lillimer, are pistachio, a cool green; lemon sherbet, a summer yellow and grape float, a pale mauve. All are done in crisp waffle pique. One sleeveless blouse has a completely tucked bosom with a tiny black grosgrain bow at the Peter Pan collar. As usual white will be the prime favorite—it's the "whipped cream" touch for spring. One in crepe has a tucked front and crossbars of lace insertion below a rounded stand-up collar.

In hats for spring, the shape's the thing, say the designers. In the Piko collection the hat silhouette is simple, based on loche or bonnet treatments. Velvet comes forward on a group of pastel straws. Tiny clusters of toning flowers and a demure touch to shiny straw bonnets. Bands of seed pearls and elegance to the sweeping brims of pastel felts. Twists of ribbon drape the crowns of the newest cloches.

The prettiest hats shown for spring are in shades of lilac, pink, Spanish-gold, pistachio, aqua blue and almond.

To Preside

Mrs. A. D. Turnbull, wife of the Minister of Health and Welfare, will preside at the head table at a tea to be sponsored by Nursing Home Auxiliary on Saturday in the Y.M.C.A., commencing at 2.30. Alderman Margaret Christie and Mrs. C. C. Warren will receive guests, and Mrs. A. Banks and Mrs. R. Ferrie will convene a stall of homemade mincemeat and Christmas cake. Mrs. George Holt is tea convener. Proceeds will go towards the proposed 100-bed addition to the home.

Child Stories For Writing Contest

TORONTO (CP) — The Women's Canadian Club of Toronto has chosen the subject, "A children's story with a Canadian background" for its annual literary competition this year.

The competition, open to any non-professional writer residing in Canada—male or female—carries a $100 first prize.

Mrs. N. H. McCullough, convener of the competition committee, said that all contestants should obtain detailed information and rules from the secretary-treasurer of the club at Toronto (69 Bloor Street East) before submitting a manuscript.

Entries this year will be judged for their appeal to children between the ages of 7 to 10 years, for whom it must be written. Vividness, originality and simplicity of expression will also be factors in the judging, results of which will be announced about April 26. All manuscripts must be delivered by Feb. 1.

MARY HAWORTH'S MAIL

Loves Her Husband But Feels Beaten By His Jealousy; Thinks Wife Cheats When Coast Clear

Dear Mary Haworth: My husband, I'll call him Edgar, is very handsome and I love him dearly. We have two lovely children and he has given me a beautiful home and everything else a woman could want or need, except one thing, namely, confidence in my character.

He is extremely jealous and hotheaded, and in our six years of marriage he has continually tormented me with accusations, suspicions and threats, until I sometimes think I will go out of my mind. I've never given him any cause to distrust me, and I think he knows deep down that his accusations are just as unfounded as I know them to be.

Mary Haworth

He seems to have a mental quirk regarding women and sex, as if he thought that a woman, any woman, immediately sets out to cheat on her husband the moment his back is turned. He isn't always that way; in fact he seems to realize this train of thought just isn't right; but still can't help feeling that way at times, it seems.

I know Edgar loves me after his fashion, and he adores our sons. But I am afraid that his jealous distrust is going to spoil our marriage and our sons' lives too, if it isn't brought under control. I would like to suggest psychiatric treatment for him, but there again I am afraid—lest he accuse me of thinking, or trying to make him think, he isn't "quite right" in the head. Moreover, we couldn't afford expensive psychiatry even if he were willing to try it, which I very much doubt that he would be.

I've done my best to help him, but without success; and now I've almost reached the end of my rope. So I am writing to you in desperation, to ask if you know what the trouble is, and how we can master it. Is there anything you can suggest, that I haven't already done.

E. T.

BEST BE BLUNT IN STATING CASE

Dear E. T.: Very likely you've been making the mistake with Edgar of trying to deal with his jealous fears on his grounds—in the sense of trying to dissolve them with defensive arguments and positive proof of good behavior designed to clear yourself of "guilt" in his thinking. This is what the average loving wife would do, with the best of intentions and in a spirit of tender hopeful forbearance, when faced with the problem Edgar poses.

However, as you've learned the hard way, the net result of this soft sentimental proceedings is to leave the ugly problem unsolved and indeed untouched—still obscurely entrenched in the originating soil of his neurotic unconscious anxieties, about which he knows nothing, consciously. Not knowing the self-starting cause of his mental quirk about women and sex, he has no way of controlling it really. And this ignorance of the roots of the trouble keeps him a victim of fear of betrayal, rejection, etc., in relation to you—even though his sanity tells him that his compulsive distrust of your faithful character "just isn't right" and doesn't make sense, when tested against the plain facts of your intense loyalty to him.

The most therapeutic help that a devoted wife could offer Edgar would be consistent firmness of mind in assuring him that his jealousy was a serious problem to her and himself besides, and that her behavior didn't enter into it at all. You should be steadfastly self respecting in attitude, unshaken by his accusations, and vigorously outspoken, in a maternally positive tone of voice, in urging him to get medical diagnosis of the anxieties that torture him primarily, and you indirectly — because of his complaints and your concern for him.

SPECIALIST HELP URGENTLY NEEDED

If Edgar were obscurely ill with tuberculosis, let's say, a wifely policy of coddling his symptoms without getting a doctor's guidance would be dangerous practise, as you can imagine. The patient would be drifting from bad to worse for lack of intelligent treatment, meanwhile morbid infection would be spreading to others in the family, due to neglect of hygienic measures. All of which is equally true in case of emotional illness; and I use the analogy to drive home to you and Edgar the urgency of his need of specialist help; and the error of your "fraidy-cat" diplomacy.

Obviously Edgar is neurotic from way back, his sensibilities warped by intolerable anxieties in early life; and while this doesn't mean he is crazy—yet!—it is a condition that calls for specialist therapy, as a safeguard. Pursuant to a discussion of advanced paranoiac jealousy a few years ago, I had letters from several wives who wrote, tragically, that their respective husbands had waited too long before seeking medical help for "jealousy." Now they are in custodial hospitals. One wife said the specialist's verdict to her was. "If I'd seen your husband two years ago, there would have been hope; but not now." She had coddled and cloaked his sick suspicions for 20 years, until both were middle aged, before panic drove her to a doctor. So my advice to you and Edgar is: Beware delay, in making use of the good psychiatric clinics in your city.

Gordon Head—At a recent meeting of Gordon Head P.-T.A., Lloyd Main, ex-principal of the school, was presented with a coffee table, and Walter Kitley, new principal, was introduced. A display of literature was convened by Mrs. A. Smith. Announcement was made that two students from the school will attend art instruction classes sponsored by the school board. Mrs. B. Smith and Mrs. A. Smith will be in charge of the annual children's Christmas party.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Here are some facts distributed by the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness which should be of paramount interest to parents.

Dr. Foote, executive director of this organization, points out that, "Children rarely complain about eye trouble, and so to correct eye defects every child should receive a periodic eye examination during his school career.

"A child's eyes do not reach full size until he is 10 or 12 and they continue to change until he is about age 20."

The National Society reports that little boys with the aid of sticks and stones manage to injure their eyes about three times as often as do their sisters. There are about 85,000 eye accidents a year among school children and more than 1,000 of these are so serious that the child loses the sight of an eye. Children in seventh to ninth grades run the highest eye accident toll.

"If the eyes of your baby seem to 'float' during the first six months or so, don't be alarmed that he is going to be cross-eyed," they advise. "However, if they continue to turn in or out after this time, consult an eye doctor. If the child is cross-eyed, the eyes can usually be straightened, but the treatment must start early.

"The favorite resting place for a foreign object is under the upper lid. To remove a cinder, lift the upper lid and pull it down over the lower lid. The tears will usually wash the object out. Don't rub the eyes, you may scratch the front of the eye, causing infection that may result in damaged vision. If the foreign object cannot be washed out easily, consult a physician who can do the job easily."

Dr. Foote says that many children with poor vision are suffering from nutritional deficiencies. "Glasses will not correct vision which is damaged by a poor diet. What is needed is more and better food. Every parent should remember that the health of a child's body has a lot to do with the health of the eyes.

"As individuals," this report points out, "we hold sight as a cheap commodity. Have you had your eyes tested recently? Have you had your children's eyes fested. From 50 to 75 per cent of all the cases of blindness could be prevented by the use of knowledge medical science now possesses."

This material should be read by every parent as if it were written just for her, as it most certainly is.

Our leaflet No. 48, "Physical Handicaps," may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

Here's a dip for chips that's a wonderfully good sandwich filling, too. Combine softened cream cheese with chopped roasted almonds and finely minced pickle. Season to taste with chili powder and celery salt.

Dolls! Dolls! Dolls! For Annual Bazaar

Mrs. Fred Bartholomew, right, and Mrs. F. G. Aldous are co-conveners of the booth of attractive dolls for annual Dolls' Bazaar sponsored by the Junior Auxiliary to Royal Jubilee Hospital, in the Nurses' Home on Dec. 6. There will be mammy dolls, black Sambos, gollywogs, baby dolls and the ever-popular bride doll, as well as a selection of stuffed animals. Stalls of home cooking, infants' knitting and superfluities are being arranged, and afternoon tea will be served. During the tea hour there is to be a fashion show featuring Chinese gowns on Chinese mannequins. Canasta and bridge will be played in the evening.

Happy Wedding Group

Descending the steps of St. John's Church are Mr. and Mrs. Arnold John Fisher with their wedding entourage, including matron of honor, Mrs. Bernice Woolf, on the arm of best man, Donald Stewart, and Miss Shirley Johnston on the arm of Warren White. The wedding ceremony united Doris Lorraine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Blades, Camrose, Alta., and the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Fisher, 3060 Shelbourne Street.

Crisp fall evenings somehow lend themselves to weiner roasts with a huge open fire. Try mashed sieved avacado seasoned with salt, a little lemon juice and catsup for a better-than-usual spread to go over them.

Every now and then comes the urge for old-time desserts. Remember this old chestnut? Rice cooked in milk, over hot water of course, sweetened and served hot with slices of lovely golden canned peaches. A sprinkle of cinnamon over all is a delightful touch.

One of the best-tasting upside down cakes has alternating cooked dried apricots and cooked prunes arranged in the butter and brown sugar mixture in the bottom of the pan. Add a quarter cup water to the sugar mixture so the fruits will remain soft and juicy.

The small nickel packs of seedless raisins are a treat children like to find in their school lunch. It makes a nice snack for them to eat at recess time when they are inclined to get hungry.

For Bad Winter Cough, Mix This Syrup Yourself

If you want a splendid cough medicine, mix it at home. It costs very little, yet the way it takes hold of distressing coughs, giving quick relief, is astonishing.

Any druggist can supply you with a 2½ ounce bottle of Pinex. Pour this into a 16 ounce bottle and fill up with granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. To make syrup, use 2 cups of sugar and one cup of water and stir a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. (Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.) It's no trouble at all and gives you four times as much cough medicine for your money—a family supply. Keeps perfectly and tastes fine.

It is surprising how quickly this loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps to clear the air passages.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, a very reliable soothing agent for winter coughs. Money refunded if not pleased in every way.

FOR EXTRA CONVENIENCE GET NEW, READY-TO-USE, PREPARED PINEX.

TODAY'S RECIPE

ALMOND UPSIDE DOWN CAKE

One-quarter cup butter or margarine, ½ cup blanched almonds, ½ cup granulated sugar, 1 teaspoon rum flavoring, ½ cup shortening (part butter), 1 cup granulated sugar, 2 eggs, 1½ cups cups sifted cake flour, 1½ teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla extract.

Spread butter over bottom of eight-inch square pan. Sliver almonds and sprinkle over butter. Blend sugar and rum flavoring and sprinkle over almonds.

Cream shortening and sugar together thoroughly. Blend in beaten eggs. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Add to creamed mixture alternately with milk, beginning and ending with flour. Pour over almond-sugar mixture. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 45 minutes. Invert over cake plate and let stand a few minutes. Serves nine.

Couldn't Eat a Meal without Dizzy Spells, Severe Pains

—Engineer now happy that Sarnak relieved these conditions and he is able to enjoy eating his meals for the first time in sixteen years!

After years of suffering with upset stomach, dizzy spells, nervousness and indigestion, it's little wonder a man recommends the remedy that's made them a thing of the past!

And that's just what Mr. Gustav Roemer, 138 Ahrens St. W., Kitchener, Ontario, does. He says—

"I gladly recommend Sarnak to anyone who suffers as I did. For sixteen years or more, I had a bad, upset stomach, which prevented me from eating a regular meal without severe pain. Besides this, I was constipated all the time; almost afraid to eat, had dizzy spells and was nervous.

"When I heard of Sarnak I started to take it, and it brought me relief within a few days. I can truly say my nervousness is relieved and I now enjoy a good night's sleep, am regular, eat better and am relieved of my stomach upset. I'm so grateful for what Sarnak has done for me."

GUSTAV ROEMER

Many who suffer as Mr. Roemer did, have found Sarnak of real benefit. And others, made miserable with kidney and liver disorders, rheumatic, neuritic and arthritic pain are loud in their praise of Sarnak, too.

So don't feel there is no hope for you! Give Sarnak a try. Remember, Sarnak starts its effective relief from the moment you take the first dose. Get Sarnak today.

OF PERSONAL INTEREST

Little Ann McFayden, sister of the groom-elect, presented a flower basket filled with gifts to Miss Joyce Cardy, a bride-elect of this week, when Mrs. Harry Turner entertained at her Crescent Road home recently. On her arrival at the miscellaneous shower the honor guest was presented with pink carnations encorsage. Her mother, Mrs. J. Cardy, and Mrs. H. McFayden, mother of the groom-elect, received corsage bouquets of bronze chrysanthemums. Games were played and a buffet supper served from a lace-covered table set with pink candles and a bowl of pink roses. Guests were Mesdames H. Winter, A. Lane, J. Ford, C. Harris, L. Tate, J. Holmes, P. Nelson, T. Carson, K. Holmes, Misses Christine McFayden, Venecia Tate and Shirley Turner.

A miscellaneous shower was held at the home of Mrs. Alec Smith, Adanac Street, in honor of her daughter, Miss Jean Smith, whose marriage will take place early next month. Misses Helen Lee, Peg McLean, and Beverly Ross were co-hostesses. Gifts were displayed in an umbrella which was decorated in pastel shades of crepe paper. The bride-elect was presented with a corsage bouquet of pink rosebuds while Mrs. J. G. Morley, mother of the groom-elect, and Mrs. Smith received yellow rosebuds. Guests were Mrs. Jim McKeachie, Misses Marguerite Muir, Lois Gibson, Irene Morley, Louise Eperson, Mary Liberto, Betty Payne, Betty Smith, Margaret Muckle, Nedene Bernard, Olive May Blackey.

PROVES SMALL BABY GROWS NORMALLY

TORONTO (CP)—Do babies abnormally small at birth later live a normal adult life?

Mrs. Edwin Diplock, 36, is one proof that they can. She weighed only one pound eight ounces at birth, and now stands 5 feet 2 inches. She has had five children, all weighing over six pounds at birth.

Mrs. Diplock was born in North Sydney, N.S., and was nursed by her mother. She was anaemic until she was 13.

At birth, she said, "my arm was so small the doctor could put the ring from his finger up to my elbow. I was put in a shoe box, wrapped in cotton wool and olive oil, and kept in an oven four months.

A twin brother, also underweight, died a few minutes after birth.

A PLAC FOR AGE

Industry Urged To Use Over 45's

By HARRY YOUNG, Times Business Editor

The Canadian Government is examining ways and means of stepping up the rate of immigration from selected European countries to 150,000 persons per year. This is considered a minimum requirement to meet Canada's rapid industrial development.

The figure is almost double the number admitted in the fiscal year 1949-50, and over double the yearly average since the war. Yet it may not be enough to meet requirements.

Population figures show that in the past 20 years two people have been leaving Canada for the United States for every three new citizens admitted. In addition the birth rate is not sufficiently high to keep the population growing normally.

Young

It is perhaps a reflection on the handling of the situation that since 1921, the population of Canada has grown only three millions—from 11 to 14.

In the past Canadian Governments have pursued no active immigration policy, and today the task is more difficult than ever. High Transatlantic fares and the restriction on the transfer of capital from the sterling to the dollar block are definite snags.

This is shown in the fact that since the devaluation of the pound, British immigration has been reduced to 13,700, compared with 29,500 in the previous 12 months.

Ottawa is not ready yet to give details of its new plans for immigration, but the groundwork for the drive is under preparation.

* * *

While the need for a bigger population to provide the labor force for all the new Canadian developments is not in question, there is considerably more doubt as to whether the average Canadian employer is making the best use of the labor material at his command.

Labor Minister Milton Gregg is leading a campaign to show industrialists that the modern craze for youth is not a good economic proposition for the country.

The Ministry of Labor has found that the man over 45, who loses his job through no fault of his own has a very slim chance of picking up similar employment, particularly if he happens to be a white collar worker.

Many big Canadian firms have a policy not to engage new labor over 45 years of age. With some firms the age limit is even lower.

Minister Gregg is trying to break them of that habit. To that end his department has produced a film "Date of Birth."

This documentary, which Charles A. Mudge, in charge of the Victoria unemployment exchange, showed me yesterday gives facts and figures to show that for the most part the over 45 worker is more reliable, a better producer, and less prone to absenteeism than the younger worker.

Mr. Mudge says that the film has been shown to many local employers and he hopes that it will show results in the near future. "About 60 per cent of the males looking for work in the Victoria area today are over 45 years of age," he says.

In other areas, the Ministry's campaign is beginning to show fruit. Minister Gregg says that many companies are revising their age-hiring policies.

"I would advise any industry which is now having difficulty in obtaining skilled workers to examine the possibility of obtaining these from older age groups. They are generally willing, able and desirable," he continues.

In twenty years time, even if the expectancy of life remains unaltered, 40 per cent of the whole Canadian labor force will be over 45 years of age. If employers are going to attempt to keep the hiring age under the 45 years limit there is going to be the impossible situation of having the industrial burden carried by a small percentage of the population.

"The idea that the older man cannot do a fair day's work is proved to be just nonsense," says Mr. Mudge.

Tire Expert Dies

AKRON, O. (AP)—James E. Hale, 66, consulting engineer for the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company and president-elect of the Society of Automotive Engineers, died Tuesday. He was credited with development of the modern balloon tire and with basic engineering designs on tires for farm tractors and earthmovers.

C.M.A. Sees Shortage Of Steel Soon

TORONTO (CP) — Steel supplies in Canada are becoming increasingly difficult to obtain for manufacturing generally, the Commercial Intelligence Committee of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association reported today.

The committee made its report to the quarterly meeting of the C.M.A.'s executive council. The committee commented:

"As the tendency grows in the United States to allocate tonnage for essential civilian programs, the flow of steel to other civilian activities will tend to slow up.

"This may mean a decline in exports to Canada."

(Canada herself is producing at a record rate of more than 3,000,000 tons of ingot steel yearly, but imports from the United States are expected to be down this year by nearly 700,000 tons from 1949, a decline of 50 per cent.)

The transportation committee indicated that railway car supply in both Canada and the United States is causing concern.

Other reports stated that there is complete co-operation between Canadian manufacturers and the departments of national defence and trade and commerce in regard to defence requirements.

The executive council endorsed the British West Indies trade liberalization plan which will make it easier for Canadian exporters to sell in that market.

The plan, effective Jan. 1, was termed an important relaxation of sterling area import restrictions.

A national committee of the association, with 100 members from coast to coast, has been formed to study the immigration problem.

Association membership is at an all-time high, 6,435, virtually double the 1939 membership.

OUTPUT MUST INCREASE

Also forecasting manpower and material shortages such as the world knew during the '40's was George G. Rogers, program director of the American Economic Foundation in New York, in a speech before the Foreman's Club at Montreal.

He was outlining the problem to be faced by industry once the Korean war and the west's policy of armament against aggression take their toll of industrial supply. More efficient methods of production were essential if Canada and the United States were to maintain their present high level of output.

He said the first effects of material shortages may be felt in less than six months.

CHICAGO

CHICAGO (AP)—Grain prices eased despite, or possibly because of, the tense international situation.

Slightly higher prices were posted at the start. But these gains were soon lost and thereafter the market held under Tuesday's finish.

Markets Show Signs Of Resistance To Sellers

NEW YORK (AP)—A plodding rally substantially reduced sharp early losses.

Severe morning pressure against prices was a carry-over from Tuesday when the market on average took the worst spill in five months.

Early losses amounted to an extreme of around $3 a share before the price level found a bottom. Losses were cut and in a handful of cases wiped out.

There was nothing in the day's news, though, to relieve the pessimism created by the powerful offensive by Communist Chinese in North Korea.

Business hit a sizzling clip when liquidation was most urgent but slowed during the comeback.

Lower most of the time were Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, Phelps Dodge Copper, Dow Chemical, Du Pont and General Electric.

Chrysler did better than average, trading either at the unchanged figure of $68.12 or inching forward.

Others eventually getting back on firm ground included Studebaker, Woolworth, Philco and Dome Mines.

Canadian issues fell with Hiram Walker losing ⅞, McIntyre and Distillers Seagrams each ½, while International added ½ and Dome Mines ⅛ while Canadian Pacific was unchanged.

On the curb, Lake Shore, Giant Yellowknife and Royalite Oil each fell ⅛.

Steels Hardest Hit

TORONTO—Prices checked their downward plunge after opening with a sharp drop. At noon signs of support appeared, and extreme losses were cut down from about a third to about a half.

Steels and papers were the hardest hit in industrials. Strong losers in steels were Dominion Bridge, Dominion Foundry, Montreal Locomotive, Westeel and Page-Hersey. International Paper, Brown preferred and Abitibi showed strong losses in papers.

Base metals recovered their early sinking even better than industrials. Final prices ranged to $1. Consolidated Smelters, which lost $5 yesterday, typified the group, coming up from a $2 opening loss to settle at a fractional decline. Leading base metals lower included Quemont, Hudson Bay, Waite Amulet, Normstal and Labrador.

Senior golds ended with a solid list of fractional declines. Junior producers dipped pennies over a broad front.

Western oils' declines ranged to 75 cents. General Petroleum, National Petroleum, Calvan, Pacific Petroleum and Federal Petroleum were leading issues that were lower.

Rally From Worst

MONTREAL (CP) — A plunging market seemed to touch bottom near the close as securities rallied slightly.

The industrial list continued solidly lower, although most losses were reduced, and few issues managed to reach the plus column.

Trading was fairly heavy.

The drop in prices was a follow up of Tuesday's trend as a result of the critical Korean situation.

Papers paced the selected groups lower. Price Bros. common showed a drop of 2⅝ points at 104, after falling to 102. International Paper displayed a net loss of one after losing two and Abitibi was off ¾ at 40½ after hitting 39⅝.

In senior metals, Noranda dropped 3½ to 68½, but was trading at a loss of 3, while Consolidated Smelters lost ½ at 121 after touching 118½.

Among losers were Massey-Harris, down 1 at 35 after touching 34¼, and Ford A ⅜ at 49¼.

Mines and western oils fell in line with the securities. A mild rally was also seen in this section. Anacon, Ascot and East Sullivan were among major losers and all were heavily traded.

Bad Day In London

LONDON (Reuter)—The market suffered its sharpest reverse since the start of the Korean war. At the outset dealers took their cue from the overnight weakness of Wall Street and marked prices heavily lower.

The foreign bonds and oil markets were the most vulnerable and the turnover in both sections was considerable. Dealers in government securities also reported a big turnover with the institutions taking large lines of stock.

Industrials recorded numerous losses.

ALBERTA OIL REPORT

Central Leduc Well Goes Into Production

By C. J. MYERS

CALGARY — Central Delrio Acheson No. 2 was placed on steady production Sunday afternoon and produced 64.8 barrels of oil in one hour through a one-inch choke. Previously the well had been flared for one hour and a half to clean it up. Officials said that the gas oil ratio was visibly low.

The well has been cut back to 10 barrels an hour on restricted flow for a more prolonged test.

Officials of Central Leduc announced that due to the difficulty of obtaining a contract rig to carry out their drilling program, the company had purchased a drilling rig of its own. The rig is on its way now and will be used to drill Central Delrio Acheson No. 3, an east offset to No. 2. Drilling is expected to commence as soon as the rig arrives and can be set up. This will take about three weeks.

All directors of Central Leduc and Del Rio were re-elected to the boards of the two companies at the annual general meetings held in Calgary last week.

At the meetings it was pointed out to the shareholders of the two companies that they had a substantial in three current oil plays in the province. Central and Del Rio were stated to have a 20 per cent interest in the Pacific Valleyview well.

The companies had a carried 16⅔ per cent interest in the P. C. Charter Elnora No. 1 west of Big Valley and the same interest in the large holdings surrounding the well.

The third area of activity was Acheson, mentioned above.

Pacific-Redwater Leasehold's Ellerslie No. 1, four miles south of Edmonton, has rated an initial potential from the lower cretaceous of 264 barrels per day.

The discovery well found oil in the cretaceous some time ago during a drillstem test between 3,907 and 3,936 when light crude oil flowed to the surface in 11 minutes. The well was drilled on to a total depth of 5,350 feet in search of D-3 production, and failing to find that objective has been plugged back to the cretaceous and is now preparing to go on steady production.

Redwater Leaseholds Limited and Chevron Petroleums each paid 50 per cent of the cost of drilling the well and each obtained 25 per cent interest in the well and the 640-acre tract on which it is situated. The remaining 50 per cent interest in the well and land is owned 25 per cent by the Pacific group, which includes Pacific Petroleums, Calvan Petroleums, Polaris Zodiac, Selburn Oils, Garrison Oils and Garnet Oils, and 25 per cent by the P.C.M. Syndicate of Vancouver.

Fire Destroys Drilling Rig

REDWATER, Alta. (CP)—An Imperial Oil crew is preparing to use mud and water to put out an oil well fire in the Simmons area of this oil field, 45 miles northeast of Edmonton.

The fire broke out early Tuesday at Imperial Simmons No. 36 well. Gas began to blow from a pocket about 600 feet below the surface. A spark from the steel drilling rig is believed to have ignited the escaping gas.

A relief well is being drilled beside the wild well. It probably will be at least 24 hours before mud and water can be forced down the relief hole to shut off the gas in the wild well.

Vern Hunter, Imperial's Redwater superintendent, said there is no possibility of oil also catching fire. The flaming gas pocket is well above the oil pool level.

Men working at the well were about 50 feet away when the gas ignited and none was injured. But the $100,000 drilling rig, owned by Parker Drilling Company, was destroyed.

Seagram Sells More Overseas

MONTREAL (CP) — President Samuel Bronfman told shareholders at the 22nd annual meeting of Distillers Corporation-Seagrams Limited here that sales of the subsidiaries of the company had totaled $677,926,362 during the past fiscal year, with more than 90 per cent of the volume coming from outside Canada.

Consolidated working assets totaled $338,602,237, a figure which exceeded all libalities by $194,262,960. Consolidated earnings of $41,809,371 represented $4.77 per cent on common stock outstanding.

"I am glad to report a noticeable improvement in our shipments to those world markets where there has been an easing of exchange and other restrictions," Mr. Bronfman said.

Prairie Cities Sell Debentures

TORONTO (CP)—The city of Edmonton has sold a new issue of $3,000,000 3 per cent and 3½ per cent serial debentures, due Dec. 1, 1951-80, to a group of Canadian investment dealers and bankers, headed by Dominion Securities Corporation Ltd., and Fairclough & Co. Ltd. Price to the city was 98.288, or a cost of 3.60 per cent.

The City of Lethbridge has sold a new debenture issue of $233,075 one to 20-year 3½ per cent debentures to a syndicate consisting of Dominion Securities Corporation Ltd., Tanner & Co. Ltd., and the Canadian Bank of Commerce. Price to the city was 100.583, or a cost of 3.43 per cent.

Preferred Shares Split By Federal Grain

WINNIPEG (CP)—Shareholders of Federal Grain Ltd. yesterday approved a reorganization plan which provides for a five-for-one split of the company's preference shares.

The 30,000 6½ per cent cumulative shares now will have a par value of $20 and cumulative dividend rate of $1.40 a share.

Dividend arrears totaled $47.50 a share and will be reduced to $42 by an early special payment. Thereafter a sinking fund of 20 per cent of net earnings will be set up for eventual redemption of the preference shares and payment of accrued dividends.

Funeral from Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel on Thursday, November 30, 1950, at 1.30 p.m., Reverend Canon George Biddle officiating. Interment in Royal Oak Burial Park.

ALEXANDER McTURK

Word has been received here from Logano, Switzerland, of the death of Mr. Alexander McTurk, who passed away suddenly in that city on Saturday morning, November 4, 1950, in his 67th year. The late Mr. McTurk was born in Lockerby, Scotland, and was identified with the Bank of Montreal in Canada until his retirement in 1946. Mr. McTurk came to Victoria, B.C., in 1947, and resided on St. Charles Street until last April when he left for England with Mrs. McTurk. He is survived by his wife, the former Phyllis Clayton, and two daughters, Mrs. George Crosby of Rothesay, New Brunswick, and Mrs. William Cromwell of Brantford, Ontario; also two sisters in Scotland.

CAROLINE PARKIN

On November 25, 1950, at the Royal Jubilee Hospital, Mrs. Caroline Parkin of 2632 Dysart Avenue, Saanich, aged 78, widow of Arnold Thomas Parkin; born in Edinburgh, Scotland, and a resident of Victoria for 15 years. She leaves one son, Gordon Parkin, in Vancouver, B.C.; one daughter, Mrs. Audrey Snell in Victoria; also three grandchildren and one sister, Mrs. W. W. Rush, in Victoria. Mrs. Parkin was a member of the Eastern Star, Prince Rupert, the Queen Mary Chapter, I.O.D.E., Prince Rupert, and the Soroptimist Club, Prince Rupert.

Funeral from Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel on Thursday at 3.15 p.m., followed by cremation.

DEATHS (Continued)

LULU B. SCOBLE

In Victoria, B.C., on November 26, 1950, Mrs. Lulu B. Scoble, widow of A. R. Scoble, Esq., late of the Royal Trust Company, Hamilton, Ontario.

The remains are resting in Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel and will be forwarded Friday afternoon to Hamilton, Ontario, where service and interment will take place.

JAMES EDWARD TAYLOR

Suddenly on November 27, 1950, James Edward Taylor, aged 68, beloved husband of Ann Taylor, of 1600 Morrison Street; born in Kent, England, and a resident of Victoria for 23 years. Besides his wife, at home, he leaves two sons, Roy E. Taylor of Edmonton, Alberta, and James H. Taylor in Victoria; two daughters-in-law, Mrs. Dorothy Taylor of Edmonton and Mrs. Amy Taylor in Victoria; also one sister, Mrs. Kathleen Post in Kent, England, and a brother, William Taylor in London, England.

Funeral from Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel on Thursday, November 30, 1950, at 10.45 a.m., Reverend A. E. Hendy officiating. Interment in Royal Oak Burial Park. (Winnipeg papers, please copy.)

GEORGE YOUNG

Passed away in Victoria, B.C., on Monday, November 27, 1950, George Young, of Brentwood, V.I., in his 71st year; born in England and a resident of Victoria and district for the past 10 years. He leaves one daughter, Evelyn Mae Fenton of Saanichton; one son, Henry George Young of Islay, Alberta; one grandchild; one sister, Mrs. Annie Woodham in England; also three brothers, Harry in England, Alfred in Powell River, B.C., and Charlie in Vermilion, Alberta.

Funeral services will be held on Thursday afternoon, November 30, 1950, at 3 o'clock in McCall Brothers' Funeral Chapel. Cremation. No flowers, by request. (Vermilion, Alberta, Standard, please copy.)

FUNERAL

ALICE PEARL McCLURE

Funeral services for the late Mrs. Alice Pearl McClure, who passed away at the family residence, 3928 Winton Street, Victoria, B.C., on Friday, November 24, 1950, were held yesterday afternoon, Tuesday, November 28, 1950, at 3 p.m. in the Memorial Chapel of Chimes of the Sands Mortuary Limited. Reverend Dr. A. E. Whitehouse officiated, during which Mr. John Bell rendered the solo, "God Will Take Care of You," accompanied by Mr. George Peaker at the console of the pipe organ, and the congregational hymn sung was "Abide With Me." Many friends were in attendance, and the beautiful floral tributes received testified to the high esteem in which the late Mrs. McClure was held. The following gentlemen acted as pallbearers: Messrs. C. Egan, J. A. McBride, E. Sargent, H. T. Chalke, C. L. Cogron and G. Cross. The remains were laid to rest in the Royal Oak Burial Park.

IN MEMORIAMS

To assist our readers in preparing "In Memoriam" Notices, the Times has compiled a group of appropriate wordings and suitable verses. Telephone Beacon 3131, or call in at the Times office for understanding assistance.

RANKIN—In loving memory of Victor James Rankin.

Green is the color remembrance wears
For you; for it's Christmas fun.
And spring, and the shade of summer leaves;
All the things you loved, in one;
Green is the grass above your head,
Magic mixture of yellow and blue
From the azure sky and the gold of the sun,
Blended in memory of you.
—Noreen, Glen and children.

YOU CAN BE SURE
Of the very best selection of building materials at reasonable prices when you visit our store and warehouses. There's always something new and there's always something on the bargain counter. For instance, look at this one:
5/16" Unsanded 3-Ply—Ideal for lining basements, porches, attics, etc., as subfloors under linoleum, carpets, etc., approved by N.H.A. for roof and wall sheathing in place of shiplap and many other uses. Because these sheets are 3½ feet x 8 feet we can offer you a great big saving to your pocket book at $2.80 sheet
Clearance of Aluminum Sink Rims—Flush type, applied before sink covering. 20% off list price. From as low as $2.72. Shop early for best sizes.
Ping-Pong Tables and Tops, ¾" thick, regulation size in two pieces, 5 feet x 9 feet, only $15.00
Portable Trestle Table—Folds away neatly into small space, only $10.50
A complete stock of all types Plywood available, lengths to 9 feet and 10 feet in stock, and lengths up to 30 feet made to order.
VICTORIA'S TOOL CENTRE
For a real selection of Carpenters' Tools at really attractive prices, see our display of hand and power tools:

THE CORPORATION OF THE DISTRICT OF OAK BAY

REFERENDUM

The Municipal Council desires the electors of the Municipality to express their opinion by ballot upon the following question:

"Are you in favor of The Corporation of the District of Oak Bay extending its boundaries to include the Cadboro Bay and Gordon Head areas now in Saanich Municipality and bounded as follows:

"Commencing at the intersection of the common boundary line of Sections 31 and 44, Victoria District, with mean high water mark in Cadboro Bay; thence northwesterly and following the north-easterly boundary of said Section 31 to the north-west corner of said Section; thence north-easterly and following north-westerly boundary of Section 72, Victoria District, to its intersection with the centre line of Ruby Road, thence westerly and following said centre line to its intersection with the centre line of Shelbourne Street, thence northerly and following the said centre line to intersect the southerly boundary of Mt. Douglas Park, being Section 90, Victoria District; thence easterly and northerly following the common boundary line of Sections 86 and 90 to intersect mean high water mark on Cordova Bay; thence easterly and southerly and following the sinuosities of the shore line at mean high water mark to the point of commencement?"

The voting will take place at the Municipal Hall, on December 16, 1950, from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

A. D. FINDLAY,
Municipal Clerk.

ZONING BY-LAW
City of Victoria
NOTICE OF HEARING

NOTICE is hereby given that all persons who deem themselves affected by the provisions of the proposed "Zoning By-law, 1929, Amendment By-law (No. 74), 1950," of The Corporation of the City of Victoria, will be afforded an opportunity to be heard on the matters contained therein, before the City Council at a public hearing to be held in the Council Chamber, City Hall, on Tuesday, the 5th day of December, 1950, at TWO o'clock p.m.

This By-law provides only for the following, viz:

(1) The changing from "Light Industry" to "Manufacturing" of the zoning classification of Lots 42 to 48, both inclusive, of foreshore Lot 119, at Johnson Street extension and Sitkum and Tyee Roads;
(2) The changing from "Commercial" to "Light Industry" of the zoning classification of Lots 164 and 165, Block 9, Map 132, northwest corner Quadra Street and Kings Road;
(3) The changing from "Single Family" to "Commercial" of the zoning classification of Lots 1 and 2, Block 13, Section 8-A, Plan 881 on north side Hillside Avenue between Shakespeare and Shelbourne Streets;
(4) The changing from "Single Family" to "Commercial" of the zoning classification of Lot 1, Section 4, Map 4033, northwest corner Gorge and Jutland Roads.

A copy of the proposed By-law may be inspected at the office of the undersigned between 8.30 a.m. and 5.00 p.m. on Monday to Friday inclusive.

M. F. HUNTER,
City Clerk.

Island Group Calls On Minister

Hon. E. T. Kenney, Minister of Lands and Forests, is surrounded by members of Mount Brenton park delegation, including: G. I. Edgelow, Victoria Chamber of Commerce; Cmdr. F. B. Leigh, Sidney and North Saanich Chamber; E. V. Laver, Duncan chamber; Frank Porter and J. M. Lindsay, Victoria Ski Club; Gordon Bowes and Ted Fairhurst, Outdoor Club; M. T. Porter, Chemainus chamber; R. Pringle, Ladysmith chamber; W. Len Woodhouse, Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau; E. W. Arnott, Victoria chamber; Ald. Frank Mulliner.

Delegates Hopeful After Voicing Plea For Provincial Park At Mount Brenton

A group seeking to have Mount Brenton, near Chemainus, made into a provincial park received encouragement Tuesday from Lands and Forests Minister E. T. Kenney.

A delegation from chambers of commerce and other organizations on the southern end of Vancouver Island, headed by Geoffrey I. Edgelow of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, interviewed the minister on the question.

Mr. Edgelow said later: "We came away satisfied every effort will be made by the government to meet our wishes."

He said it was possible the government may negotiate a purchase of the property from U.S. timber interests which has started logging an area of the mountain.

TRADE SUGGESTED

The delegation suggested the government attempt a trade of the land for some Crown property elsewhere, but there apparently were difficulties in such a scheme.

"We don't mind how it is acquired, though, as long as the area can be reserved for the public at some future date, if not at once," Mr. Edgelow commented.

Reforestation had been undertaken in the area being logged off and it was unlikely the property could be acquired until the present logging operation was finished.

Meanwhile the company had given permission for skiiers to use the slopes of the mountain.

Each of the members of the delegation offered Mr. Kenney arguments in support of the request, and a brief of the Outdoor Club was presented him.

In the brief it was argued the Mount Brenton area was an ideal year-round recreation spot, with natural facilities for all summer activities and skiing in the winter.

Buzzer Frightens Off Pair Of Bandits

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two would-be bandits fled empty handed from a city confectionery.

Elizabeth Pilkington, a clerk, rang a buzzer to summon the store proprietor when the two men attempted to loot the till.

When she did this, they fled.

13 Lucky Guys by FRANK R. ADAMS

COPR. 1950 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: An infantry squad, wiped out in the Pacific war, finds itself in Westwaygo, Mich., where most of the unit lived before the war. At the beach a girl, Margie Lou Denslow, almost drowns, but Sergeant Eddie gets his dog Duke (who can see his master and his friends) to save her. The dog's barking attracts a man passing in a car, who tries artificial respiration. Another of the squad, Carl Peterson, has gone to visit his wife.

VII

Carl Peterson had no trouble finding his wife. Without knowing why he did it he went automatically to the little house on Poplar Street which he and Kirsten had wanted to buy since long before they were married.

There was a vacant lot on the north side of the house. Three kids about 12 were playing One Old Cat there with an indoor baseball. While Carl was watching one of them hit a liner that bounced off the side of the house. It missed a large window by inches, a fact which caused the players considerable concern mingled with congratulatory satisfaction. They cautioned one another to be more careful but went on with the game.

As Carl stood on the sidewalk looking over the white picket fence at the front door Kirsten got off the bus at the corner and came immediately toward him.

LITHE MOVEMENTS

She was wearing dark blue coveralls with a worker's photographic identification disc over the left breast. Kirsten was tall and big in a sleek, lithe sort of a way, equipped with long, strong muscles like a man. She carried herself as queens probably used to walk, high and confidently, as if she knew that all obstacles would be cleared from he path. Her taffy-colored hair was stuffed under a bandana, leaving her fair complexion and find features to fend for themselves without benefit of a frame. She hadn't changed much unless you counted the fact that now she looked as if she seldom smiled any more. At the moment her expression was one of serious determination like that of someone who was going to keep an important appointment, say with a dentist.

Carl's emotion on seeing her was a torturing mixture of the old adoration which he had always felt toward his wife and outraged masculine pride for which he could think of no satisfactory assuagement save pressing her lovely throat with his fingers until she could breathe no more. That she could have been false to her own code seemed unthinkable.

Carl, who had no very great conceit about his own ability or attractiveness, could understand that she might have found someone whom she liked better than himself. But that she should have broken the promise which they had made to each other was unthinkable. Kirsten was not that kind of person. She had a faith like a marble shaft reaching up toward the sky. You either kept a faith like that or you died.

As she passed him at the gate he could have struck her, at least he thought he could. And yet, as she came near, his will to hurt her turned to water. There was that much of the old magic left. He followed her to the door which she opened with a latchkey. It startled him a little when she closed the door after she had entered and locked it again in his face. He had forgotten that she hadn't been able to see him waiting there. It had all seemed so natural otherwise.

After a moment of indecision he disregarded the locked door and went in anyway.

HOUSE OF DREAMS

Yes, it was the house of their dreams, furnished just the way they had planned it together so long ago, the gay dandelion yellow wallpaper on the living-room walls and the blue and red overstuffed three-piece suite plus a mahogany table big enough to hold their small radio. There was a fireplace, one of reasons they had wanted that particular house when they were only window shopping for a home. Opposite to the fireplace was the big window outside of which the kids were playing One Old Cat.

Kirsten went into the bedroom and so, after a moment, did Carl. Their very own old familiar things were there, the curly maple dresser with the squeaky drawer that stuck, the prim little straight-back chair that Kirsten always sat on when she put on her stockings.

Carl was amazed at how little she had changed in any particular whatever. As the son of a minister he had been reared in the tradition that sinning set its indelible stamp on the sinner. It would have been more in keeping with Carl's preconceived ideas if Kirsten were haggard and bedraggled looking. The absolute opposite of that was true. Kirsten was lovlier than he remembered. He had to readjust emotions to fit the facts.

Carl did not follow her into the adjoining bath. He could hear the water from the shower spray running in icy needles, Kirsten was a seal in her preference for cold water, as he sat down on her own private stiff-backed dressing chair to try to decide what to do.

Providentially he got it when Kirsten, wearing a ragged old bathrobe of his own that he had left behind, came out from her shower all glowing and more beautiful than ever.

Carl failed to get the significance of the bathrobe until later. Scandinavian minds do not leap to conclusions so readily as those of the Latin and Gallic races. The men of the north, however, when they do get a good grip on an idea usually die with it still between their teeth.

What did attract and hold Carl's immediate attention was that Kirsten went to the dresser where she had laid her purse, took a key from an inner flap of the small bag and opened the top drawer.

Big 3 Ponders Peace Talks Allies Set Up River Barrier

CHINESE RED GROUP SPURNS PLACE ON U.N.

Inclusion Of Korean Question Angers Spokesman From Peiping

LAKE SUCCESS (AP)—The Chinese Communist delegation spurned a place at the U.N. Security Council's table—in protest against the inclusion of the Korean question on the Council's agenda.

President Ales Bebier of Yugoslavia invited the Chinese Reds to take their place at the horseshoe-shaped table when the council convened. Peiping's spokesman, Wu Hsui-Chuan, remained in his place at the side of the room. Other members of the Chinese Red delegation remained with him.

The agenda item, as worded, could place Wu in the position of a defendant faced with American charges of Chinese Communist aggression in Korea.

Wu, in his first speech in the U.N. Tuesday, objected to the Korean item and said he would not discuss the American accusations. He also made it clear the Chinese Reds had no intention of withdrawing their troops from the Korean warfront.

The Chinese Reds told United Nations officials privately that they would not sit in the council unless the agenda was restricted to their charges of American aggression against Formosa.

Earlier, U.N. circles privately expressed forebodings on the chances of localizing the bitter Korea fighting in view of the Chinese Communists' unyielding attitude.

Allies Warned Of Red Trap

PARIS (Reuter)—A French foreign office spokesman today warned the United Nations against falling into a Russian trap designed to bog down the Western Allies in Asia.

The spokesman said "there is certainly a plan to drag the U.N. and U.S. into a Chinese adventure."

The first part of the plan, he said, was the North Korean aggression, the second part was the entry of the Chinese into the Korean war.

Steamed Windows Caused Accident, Drivers Pay Fines

Fines totaling $105 were imposed in city court today against two motorists involved in the same collision Nov. 18 in which steamed windows proved a major factor to draw convictions on charges of careless driving.

Drivers were Harold Woodruff, a young motorist of R.R.1 Victoria, and Victor B. Olliver, a soldier of 4021 Saanich Road.

TROOPS WILL RESUME TRIP TO FT LEWIS

WAINWRIGHT, Alta. (CP)—Some 250 members of the 2nd Regiment Royal Canadian Horse Artillery, delayed by the Nov. 21 Canoe River, B.C. train crash, will leave here late tonight aboard a special troop train to resume their journey to Fort Lewis, Wash.

The troops include those who lost equipment and suffered superficial injuries when a troop train and a passenger train collided head-on in the mountains 312 miles west of here, killing 20 persons and seriously injuring 37 others.

They have been re-equipped and will rejoin the remainder of their regiment which made the trip from Shilo, Man., to Fort Lewis, the U.S. training camp of Canada's special force, before the train wreck.

Reds Taken To Toronto To Vote

TORONTO (CP)—An official of Toronto's anti-subversive squad said today that a number of Communist families had been brought to the city from northern Ontario in recent weeks in an apparent effort to bolster the Communist vote in the Dec. 4 city election.

Sgt. Dan Mann, chief of the squad, said his men are checking the supplementary voters' list for the validity of all entries.

"We believe these Communists have been brought in with the idea of personating eligible voters, as has been done in previous elections," Sgt. Mann said. "It now is too late for them to be added to the voters' list.

U.S. To Match Soviets

Congressman Makes Check

RICHLAND, Wash. (AP)—Russia's program in atomic bomb development has been more rapid than expected, Representative Henry M. Jackson (Democrat-Wash.) told a press conference here today.

The United States is therefore stepping up its production of A-bombs "in all all-out effort to stay on top of the atomic stockpile," he said.

Jackson, here for a special check of atomic metal production and to survey air and ground defences of the billion-dollar Hanford works, said the output of plutonium has been dramatically increased here. Plutonium is the explosive metal used in atom bombs.

He also said that $145,000,000 will be spent at Hanford to bring the far-flung plants to their presently scheduled production peak.

R.O.K. Minister Attacks China

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y. (AP) South Korea's foreign minister, Ben C. Limb, charged today Communist China threatens mankind with a cataclysmic disaster by "its insane, immoral and monstrous conduct" in Korea.

He told the Security Council the Chinese Red soldiers fighting U.N. forces in Korea are the dupes of Chinese Communist leaders who themselves are the "puppets and slaves" of their masters in Moscow.

West, Russ May Meet; Chinese Press Attack

BULLETIN

LONDON (UP) — Western leaders, grasping for a way to prevent World War III, tonight were considering a request for peace talks with Russia.

British Foreign Secretary Bevin told a jittery House of Commons the Big Three Western Powers have decided to consider asking Russia to meet with them to achieve world peace. Representatives of the U.S., Britain and France are to meet in Paris next week and may use the session to cover the Korean crisis.

Combined UP, AP Dispatches

WASHINGTON—Gen. MacArthur has advised defence officials he plans to stabilize the Korean battleline after retreating no more than 15 or 25 miles, it was learned late today.

Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman, and the other three chiefs presumably laid the plan before President Truman at an extraordinary White House meeting of the National Security Council later.

Defence Secretary George C. Marshall and other top defence officials described the mass invasion of Korea by Chinese Communists as a "very critical situation," but they did not consider it "desperate."

Defence officials expected MacArthur's troops to hold soon even though greatly outnumbered by Chinese Communists. These officials believed the greater Communist manpower would be offset by the overwhelming air and naval superiority of MacArthur's forces and the superior firepower per man of his ground troops.

Defence officials here expected MacArthur to be able to hold a line across the narrow part of the Korean peninsula north of Pyongyang on the west and Wonsan on the east.

A United States army spokesman described the situation in Korea as "serious but not catastrophic and, striking a note of confidence, said the United States has faced worse "and has come out of it."

He made the statement in cautioning reporters against "over pessimism."

U.S. 8th ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Thursday (Reuter)—United Nations troops, struggling to consolidate a new line in the Chongchon River area, were put on the alert at midnight against an expected Communist bid to sweep forward and storm the river line before dawn.

The Red forces were believed to be poised for an all-out frontal assault southward.

The U.S. 8th Army's withdrawal across the Chongchon River in northwest Korea was all but completed late today.

Nearly all the American troops who pushed off Friday on the now-reversed "end the war" offensive are safely across the icy river after having been hit by more than 200,000 Chinese Communists.

It was doubtful how long U.S. and South Koreans could hold a chief ferrying place for allied troops being brought back across the river, however.

It was doubtful how long they could hold a chief ferrying place for allied troops being brought back across the river.

It was hoped that all American troops would be across the river by nightfall.

There was strong pressure Tuesday night and this morning on units of the American 25th Division across the Chongchon River from Kunu. All the attacking enemy appeared to be Chinese.

They still kept coming in great masses armed only with mortars, automatic weapons and rifles—and without tanks, air or artillery support.

Temperance Group Hits Liquor Plan

OTTAWA (CP) — The question of nationalization of the liquor industry sparked a heated debate today at the Canadian Temperance Federation's biennial meeting.

"Some of us have an insuperable distrust of this idea," said Rev. H. M. Rae of Ottawa. "I'm not in favor of substituting one form of corruption for another form of corruption."

Low Fliers Warned

OTTAWA (CP)—"Show-off" pilots take notice: The transport department is on the warpath about low-flying. The department came out today with a stern warning to pilots who fly too low over built-up areas.

GOV'T DEBATES OVER KOREA

OTTAWA (BUP)—The federal cabinet today pushed aside routine business on the domestic political scene to study what role Canada should play in the new war in Asia.

The cabinet, originally scheduled to discuss arrangements for next week's Dominion-Provincial fiscal conference, was expected to consider what additional help Canada could offer to United Nations forces battling close to the Manchurian border.

External Affairs Minister Pearson highlighted the foreign affairs discussion with a report from the U.N. on Chinese Communist attacks on yielding defence lines in Korea. His staff said he would leave for New York later today to join in U.N. debates sparked by the arrival at Lake Success of the Peiping Communist delegation.

Reports on the new Chinese Communist activities in Korea were received in volume Tuesday by the external affairs department. They came from Canada's permanent U.N. delegation, from the United States government and from Commonwealth countries.

Government sources said the administration was deeply concerned over the new Korean developments, but they had no information of when the government would put its policy on record. The best guess was that it would be made by Pearson in an address to the U.N.

NOT WARNED OF GAS FLOW

LEDUC, Alta. (BUP)—No notice was posted or announcement made that natural gas would be turned into the mains at Leduc Nov. 11, when the Leduc Hotel exploded, killing 10 persons and injuring 16 others.

Evidence of this was given by a number of town witnesses at the inquest into the deaths which entered its second day in Leduc's Gaiety Theatre today.

A two-inch piece of open pipe became the centre of attention when Staff Sgt. J. A. Wrubleski of the R.C.M.P. said a valve on the pipe leading into the hotel basemen had not been turned off.

Bevin Warns On Conspiracy

LONDON (Reuter)—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin today warned that there might be "a Russian-Chinese conspiracy on a world-wide scale," but added that despite developments of the last few days he thought a "political" solution could be found in Korea that would prevent the spread of hostilities.

However, he said, such a solution could only be found "if the Chinese are of a mind to cooperate."

(A BUP dispatch quoted Bevin as saying the Chinese Communist intervention in Korea has plunged the world into such grave danger that the Big Three Western Powers have decided to consider asking Russia to meet with them to achieve peace.)

Bevin, opening a foreign policy debate in the House of Commons, emphasized to the crowded chamber that the British government supported the objectives of Gen. MacArthur which are "no more and no less than the objectives of the United Nations."

Bevin said that for some weeks he had been working along the lines that the first essential in Korea was to stabilize the military situation and then to explore a political settlement. The military situation of the last few days had not altered his opinion that this was the right way.

French Premier Asks New Vote

PARIS (AP)—Premier Rene Pleven today asked for a vote of confidence in his badly-shaken French cabinet, declaring that present circumstances "are too grave" for him to continue unless he has the support of parliament.

"The government must know if it can count on its majority," the premier told the National Assembly. "If the cabinet does not get 311 votes it will resign.

The National Assembly vote, decided on at a cabinet meeting today, will take place Friday. Pleven submitted the cabinet's resignation Tuesday night after the National Assembly voted disapproval of Moch, but President Vincent Auriol refused to accept the walkout because of the tense international situation.

70,000 May See Game

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Seventy thousand football fans are expected to watch the Notre Dame-Southern California game Saturday if the weather is good.

Doug. MacArthur said the boys would be home for Christmas—but he didn't say which Christmas.

• • •

Looks like Victoria's "typical winter weather" has come home; all is forgiven.

• • •

Bein' a hick, affairs of state only confuse me. But my guess is that the next four days may decide the fate o' the world.

Tokyo Ups Air Defences

TOKYO (Reuter)—Gen. MacArthur tonight issued instructions on air raid precautions to Americans in Tokyo. As tension mounted in the city with the setbacks in Korea, the Americans received a six-page mimeographed leaflet telling them what to do if the city was attacked by air.

MacArthur Faces Criticism

LONDON (AP)—Criticism of Gen. MacArthur came from several sections of Western Europe today in the wake of United Nations reverses in Korea. There was talk in official circles at Paris of making an "informal suggestion" that MacArthur be replaced. French criticism centres around what is described in Paris as MacArthur's "tendencies to mix military and political affairs."

New U.N. War Plan Demanded

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Millard E. Tydings (Dem.-Md.) said today after a conference with defence officials that "mass invasion by hundreds of thousands of trained Chinese troops" in Korea calls for a complete new war plan.

U.S. Draft Speed-up Urged

WASHINGTON (AP)—A member of the Senate armed services committee said today it appears certain Congress will be asked to change the draft law so as to get more manpower into the armed services.

Noise Like Gunfire

City constables investigating noises like gunfire in the neighborhood of the C.P.R. docks at 1.15 this morning, found the "culprit" was an old-model car which was back-firing. Police said the car is owned by Fred Dubber, S.E. Calgary, Alta., and driven on this occasion by Robert Murton Dovey, 554 Dupplin Road.
